This Time Let's Vote YES!

For the Umteenth time, and we hope the last for a while at least, there will appear on the Primary ballot a measure to increase the salary of Oregon's legislators from $600 to $2100 a year. There is absolutely no question but that the measure should pass.

Oregon has ranked at just about the bottom among all states in the amount it pays its lawmakers, and the pay deficiency is beginning to show seriously in the kind of legislation we are getting—largely because the average man who might serve, if he could even break even, can no longer afford to take time out from his business or occupation to serve as our representative. At the present time, it costs an average of about $2,000 to $3,000 to put in one term in the House of Representatives, and twice that amount to be a Senator, because the term is twice as long. That doesn't count what might be lost from a business because of absence—just expenses. It isn't very fair, really, to ask anyone to serve in a state office, and not even pay him his expenses... yet, that is what we in Oregon are asking our Senators and Representatives to do.

Measure No 1 on the Primary ballot, seeks to raise the pay of our legislators from $600 to $2,100 per year—and they deserve every nickel of the proposed raise. We feel that if we are to get the kind of persons as our legislators who are true representatives of the people, we must at least pay their expenses while they are serving us. This measure doesn't provide any profit for doing the job, just bare costs.

Could you afford to spend 4 to 5 months every other year at Salem, and probably another equal amount of time on committee work during the rest of the two-year term, for just $600 a year? We know we couldn't, and there aren't too many others who can, either.

At $2,100 a year no one will make any money at the job, but they should be entitled to expenses. That is why we strongly recommend that ballot measure No 1, be given a "YES" vote.

An invitation for the annual 4-H livestock field day has been extended by Fred and Norman Nelson to be held at their ranch on Saturday, May 21. This will be the fifth consecutive year that 4-H members have gathered at the Nelson ranch to spend the day in blocking and fitting, judging and showmanship training in beef, sheep, swine and dairy. The field day gives those members who are exhibiting at the Oregon Wheat League sponsored junior livestock spring show an opportunity to prepare and work with their animals before participating in that show. While an individual invitation will be given to each club member and leader to participate in this field day, everyone interested is urged to put this on their calendar and hold the date.

Speaking of the Oregon Wheat League sponsored junior livestock show, an indication of the entries which are due May 20 was mailed to the showboard last Saturday. Indications are for fewer animals to go to this show this year than during the past couple of years. Those who plan to exhibit if animals are finished are: steers—Roland Ekstrom, Kenneth Smouse, and Bob Rice of the lone livestock club; Russell Dolven of the Lexington livestock club; Eric Anderson, and William Rill, Rhea Creek livestock club and Billy Doherty of the Buttercreek Junction livestock club. Those planning to exhibit lambs are Steve Lindstrom, lone livestock club; David, Douglas, and Kit Anderson of the Hoof and Horn livestock club; Martha and Tony Doherty, Blackhorse livestock club; Archie Ball and Nat Webb of the Rhea Creek livestock club. Pigs will be exhibited by David and Douglas Anderson, Hoof and Horn livestock club; Tony Doherty, Blackhorse livestock club. The dates of the show are June 5, 6, 7 and 8.

The 20 persons who attended the farm fish pond tour held last Thursday enjoyed the day as well as learning much about the proper production of fish. They learned about proper selection of farm pond sites, temperature and food requirements, stocking and harvesting of this meat crop. During the day seven ponds were sampled to determine available fish food and the growth fish had made during the past year. In six of the ponds trout had been released on May 2, 1959. Those caught almost one year later varied in size from 12 inches down to 4 1/2. Larger fish were deep and thickly fleshed while the small growth of fish in one pond was attributed to over stocking and competition for food. Fisherman's luck prevailed on Thursday and most of the fish were gathered by seine rather than by hook and line. Seining yielded from 57 down to four fish with short draws of the net.

At the Harold Wright ranch at Ruggs, bass and blue gill were planted five years ago. Because of the few bass harvested from this pond attempts were made to seine it to determine the amount of growth and thin out population. The elusive bass would not be taken by seine and the one lone bass caught was by a "super-duper" lure on the end of a fish pole of Andy Landforce, wildlife management specialist, Oregon State College who participated in the tour. The nine inch bass caught provided a demonstration for skinning and filleting. The bass provided a delicious breakfast for me on Friday morning.

Interest in farm fish ponds is very high this spring. Approximately 20,000 fingerlings have been or will be planted this spring. About half of these are in fish ponds now with the rest to go in before the month has ended. Those that we know of who have planted fish this spring are Fritz and Kenneth Cutsforth, Jerry Dougherty, Harold Wright, Don Peterson, Dr A D McMurdo and Harold Evans. Many of these plantings are under the sponsorship of Dr L D Tibbles, an ardent farm fish pond promoter.

Because of the proposed exchange of lands between the Bureau of Land Management and the State of Oregon, a meeting has been scheduled to discuss the problems involved to range users in this area. The public domain lands eliminated from grazing district no 7 which lies in Morrow and adjoining counties will be by direct leasing arrangements for holders of the leases. So that those involved may have the opportunity to express their opinions on the matter an open meeting will be held beginning at 1 p m, Thursday, May 12 in the county court room at the courthouse, Heppner. Bureau of Land Management representatives will be present to explain boundary modifications and to discuss other pertinent matters. The meeting will be open to all licensees and other interested parties who desire to express their views on the subject.

All livestock growers are reminded of the educational meeting which will be held at the fair annex building in Heppner on Tuesday evening, May 10. Representatives of the state department of agriculture and the bureau of animal industry will be present to explain the new program in the eradication of Brucellosis. Since the new program is a definite change from the old all livestock growers will want to acquaint themselves with the requirements which they and our county will need to follow in order to keep our modified-certified Brucellosis status. We hope that you will plan to attend and participate in this program scheduled to begin at 8 p m.

Three lambs entered for registration by Melvin McDaniel of Heppner passed inspection for registration in the Columbia Breeders Association last week. Inspection was made by Dean Frischknecht, Oregon State College extension animal husbandman and an inspector for this breed association. The lambs are the first increase from a start of registered ewes bought by Melvin last fall. They were purchased from Ronald Baker, Hermiston who got his start with a small herd as a 4-H project several years ago and who has built his flock up to one of the outstanding Columbia flocks in the United States.
