Can You Find Yourself Here - Now Or Later?

Age 21-30—I can't save now. I'm just getting my start in life. I don't make a lot yet, and I'm entitled to a little fun while I'm young. There is plenty of time. Wait until I start making a little more. Then I'll save.

Age 30-45—I can't save now. I've got a growing family on my hands. Children and a house cost a lot of money. It takes all I have to keep them going. As soon as they are a little older, it'll cost less. Then I'll save.

Age 45-55—I can't save now. I've got two children in college. It's all I can do to pay their expenses. In fact, I had to borrow for their tuition last fall. This is the most expensive period in a man's life. I can't save a penny.

Age 55-65—I can't save now. I know I should. But things aren't breaking like they were. It's not easy for a man my age to step out and get a better job. I'll have to ride along where I am. Maybe something will break.

Age 65—I can't save now. We're living with my son and his wife. My $9 a week from Social Security doesn't go far. I wish I had started saving twenty years ago, but it's too late now. You can't save when there's no income.

Sewing Classes Begin October 31 At Fair Pavilion

Classes in Dressmaking I are being offered to any woman interested in learning the basic principles of sewing, announces Esther Kirmis, Morrow county extension agent.

Mrs. Albert Wright, Heppner, and Mrs. L. A. McCabe, lone, extension unit project leaders who took Dressmaking I training from Miss Hildegard Strufert, OSC clothing specialist, will conduct this workshop at the Heppner fair pavilion beginning October 31. Women attending these four all-day meetings will complete a cotton-dress.

"The principles taught are the foundation for all sewing," states Miss Kirmis. "Good standards for achievement will be established and simplified methods and development of skills will be encouraged."

Interested women are asked to contact the county agent's office in the Gilliam & Bisbee building, by October 26, or phone 6-9642 if they wish to enroll in this beginning sewing, urges the extension agent.

Mrs. Merritt Gray, Heppner clothing leader, has lined up a full evening class in Dressmaking I which will start October 25 at the home economics room of the Heppner school.
