Wheat Growers Adopt Resolutions

the workmen's compensation law be amended to restore the experience rating; the prevention of farm labor being included under the employment compensation act; an agricultural representative be appointed on the state accident commission advisory committee and that legislation permitting farmers to use a five-year average in figuring income for tax purposes be supported.

The public relations committee, headed by Robert Jepsen, Ione, recommended the continuation of an active public relations program for the farmer; and that editors of city newspapers be brought to farm communities for a field trip to acquaint them with farming problems.

Continuation of the annual cake baking contest was proposed by the domestic wheat utilization committee headed by Mrs. Max Barclay, Heppner.

The production and land use committee asked that a farmer meeting be sponsored to explain new techniques in weather modification. Frank Anderson, Heppner, was appointed to make arrangements for such a meeting and to invite Dr. Fred Decker, professor of physics, Oregon State College, to speak.

This committee, headed by Kenneth Turner, Heppner, asked that all farm organizations and groups inform their memberships of the importance of keeping wheat clean. They recommended the continuation of the pilot farm project of the Pendleton Branch Experiment Station and establishing such a farm on steeper, shallower soil types; asked that the pilot farm advisory committee, initiated some years ago, be renewed; that work on development of selective sprays for rye control be pressed; and that more information on foot-rot disease of wheat be made available.

The youth activities committee recommended that wheat requirements be re-emphasized for the Oregon Wheat Growers League sponsored Junior Livestock Show and Sale held annually at the Dalles; that ef-orts be made on educational programs of judging fat livestock on hoof, following through with a carcass show and grading of the same animals to show the young exhibitors the value of a well finished animal; that market hog weights be limited to a minimum of 180 pounds and a maximum of 240 pounds to be exhibited at the show; and that a ceiling be placed on the price of animals sold other than grand and reserve animals.

The market and transportation committee emphasized the value of the Northwest Grain and Grain Products Association and commended its work, pointing out that efforts of this association in helping with the last freight reduction had resulted in a $609,000 a year saving to Eastern Oregon wheat growers. They favored continued support to Inland Waterways Association, and to the comprehensive development of the Columbia and Snake rivers.

The federal agricultural programs committee went on record as favoring the wheat stabilization plan and efforts to have this bill presented to Congress. They asked that support and attendance by given farm council gatherings to assure that policies of the council will be compatible with wheat growers views and recommended maintaining or strengthening relationships of the Wheat Growers League and their membership in promoting activities of the Western Wheat Association.

The all day meeting was held at the Catholic parish hall. During the noon luncheon, served by the Heppner Altar Society, W. O. Wildman, editor of the Heppner Gazette-Times, was introduced.

Prizes during the day were won by Milton Morgan, and Kenneth Smouse of Ione, and Mrs. Vernon Munkers, Lexington. They were contributed by the Inland Chemical Service, Phil's Pharmacy and the Morrow County Wheat Growers Association.

The Civic League will meet Monday night, Nov. 21, at the Bob Flatt residence at 8 p.m.

WHAT'S DOING

Maintaining phone lines

... a never ending job! Our customers in Heppner may never have noticed a Telephone Patrol plane but they fly along hundreds of miles of phone cable nearly every day. They're on the lookout for construction work or other hazards that might damage underground or overhead lines. They warn anyone on the ground working near cables by dropping notes or calling to them over the plane's loudspeaker system.

Other cable patrols on foot, in trucks and snow vehicles travel along phone lines to spot hazards before they cause trouble. It seems like a lot of work, but this is the surest way to keep your telephone service ready for you, whenever you need it.

Cultivating a "telephone farm" is the unusual project of some Bell Telephone Laboratories engineers. It's an experiment with new materials for underground telephone equipment — the "plants" they've buried are pieces of wire, cable, and metals. These will be dug up periodically to see which ones are in the best condition.

The "telephone farm" will help our engineers find the best materials for a faster and less expensive way to put telephone equipment underground. And it will mean another new saving to help your telephone dollar go further.

Any housewife who has once enjoyed the convenience of a telephone on her bedside table is seldom willing to give it up. Besides saving steps, a bedroom phone lets you make calls with more privacy. Sleep's a little safer, too.

Today you can order for your bedside the beautiful new "Princess" phone. It's small, has a built-in night light, and the dial lights up for easy dialing.

Drop by or call your telephone business office to order a "Princess" extension phone for your bedroom.
