Rhea Creek Extension Invites New Members

On January 4th, 1966, the Rhea Creek Extension unit held its monthly meeting at the Rhea Creek Grange hall.

The project for January was "Let's Broil Meats." The leaders for this project were, Mary Campbell and Shirley Palmer.

The lesson began with the preparation of meats to be broiled, then vegetables, then the fruits and dessert.

In preparing a broiled meal it is best to keep in mind the broiled food is to be eaten "right out of the oven" to get the best of the tastiness and nutrition out of broiled meats and vegetables while they are still "juicy" and hot.

This lesson was enjoyed by 14 members, which included Marlene Bergstrom, Beth Clark, Mary Campbell, Evelyn Farrns, Dorris Graves, Shirley Palmer, Muriel Palmer, De Leva Rill, Emma White, Mildred Wright, Eva Wright, Pearl Wright, Beverly Wright, and Mona Leathers.

After the tasty lunch, there was a short business meeting. Chairman Emma White urged new membership throughout the community. The extension unit is open for all women who are interested in learning new and better ways for homemaking skills.

Any woman who is interested in joining the Rhea Creek Extension unit, please contact Emma White, Marlene Bergstrom, or Beverly Wright.

Clothing Rated As Good Buy, Trends Listed

Being well-dressed in 1966 may cost less than many Oregon families realize, if clothing prices are compared with prices paid for other items used in day-to-day living.

Over the past 10 years, clothing has been one of the better buys in the family budget, notes Mrs. Elvera Horrell, Oregon Oregon State College extension economist. Since 1950, the clothing dollar has shrunk less than the dollar used for housing, food, transportation, medical care, and the other drains on the family blanket.

It now takes Oregonians, on the average, $1.12 to buy the same amount of clothing that $1 would have purchased a decade ago. It takes $1.14 to buy the same amount of food and as $1.40 to buy the same amount of medical care. Other goods and services range in-between.

What will some of the trends for clothing in the new year?

Men's suits are the most noticeable example of the shift to lighter weight fabrics, the home economists point out. But more light weight garments and household furnishings, such as blankets, are being sought and purchased by shoppers. Better heated homes, schools, offices, automobiles and public conveniences is one reason for the change.

More new finishes for durability, appearance and ease of care are promised on yardage and clothing next year, according to the OSC specialists. Appliance manufactures are going along with the trend in engineering washers and irons to handle these garments.

Pine City Horse Club

The Pine City Saddle club held its December meeting on December 13 in the Pine City school house.

We decided that we would try to have our meetings on the first Monday of every month. We also decided to get a set of flags for the club.

After the meeting was adjourned, everyone exchanged Christmas presents and refreshments were served.

The next meeting will be Jan. 16 in the Pine City school house.
