Reservoir Lagoon To Add Recreation

Willow, on the west side. Access would be provided to this area.

Another recreation area is planned at the east side of the Willow creek lagoon, about two miles south of the Columbia, near the lower end of the lake. Access would be from the present highway.

All of these areas can be used for fishing, swimming and boating, if developed as planned.

Siltage Is Problem
The 2-mile long waterway may not become a permanent water area, Hartman said, because of an anticipated siltation problem. Siltage in Willow creek was roughly estimated by the Engineers as being about 500 acre feet annually, which would fill up this lake in 11 years. This would automatically cut out use of the recreation area at the south end of the lake, but would not effect the other three planned areas. He emphasized that figures on this sedimentation were only estimates and more adequate studies will be made.

"If siltation takes place to the extent that the area cannot be used for recreation it can be used for wildlife refuge," Hartman said. "It could become a very important wildlife shelter."

Highway 74 will connect with U. S. Highway 80 North at a point 1 1/4 miles west of the present junction. A new roadbed on the west side of Willow creek will be built for three miles before it connects with the present road.

Industrial Use Eyed
Industry was not overlooked by the Engineers in planning the future development of the area. A plot in a V-shape extending east along the Columbia River has been designated for industrial use. The total area includes 180 acres at the intersection of highway 74 and U. S. Highway 80 North.

Construction of bridges and roads for the relocation is expected to start in late 1962, according to Hartman. Railroad relocation will begin in 1963 or '64.

Completion of John Day dam is scheduled to fill the pool on Willow creek in June, 1967.

In a question and answer period Hartman said that the plan proposed by the Army Engineers is the one expected to be used in all construction and allocation of lands for different uses.

Little League 9 Captures Second With Win, Loss

The Willow Creek Little League All-Stars took second place honors at the area playoffs in The Dalles last week-end by drubbing The Dalles Western team Friday night 13-3, for the right to play in the championship game Saturday only to lose to an excellent The Dalles American team by a 13-3 score.

In the game Friday, Western came to bat first but failed to tally until the third when their pitcher, Cronkrite, singled and scored when the right fielder, Hexam, got on, via a fielder's choice. In the fourth they picked up two more runs on a two-run homer by Cronkrite.

The Willow Creek All-Stars jumped to a one run lead in the first when Gene Heliker got on on an error and scored on David Gray's sacrifice to the pitcher. Held scoreless in the second, the All-Stars picked up two more tallies in the third and ran wild in the fourth with seven runs on five hits and went on to pick up three more insurance runs in the fifth to win their first game, 13-3.

Jim Doherty pitched a 2-hitter for the local boys with seven strikeouts and walked three. Western used Cronkrite, Giesler, and Ricketts, the only 11-year-old on the team, who teamed up for six strikeouts, seven walks, and gave up 10 hits.

Saturday night the Willow Creek boys met the American All-Stars team in the championship game and came out on the short end. The American pitcher, Garrett, proved to be the benefactor in the game with his speed and accuracy on the mound. He struck out 17 of the 24 men he faced, walked four, and allowed one hit. The home town lads couldn't get anything going at the plate but made their base running pay off as Gray scored on an overthrow in the second when he reached first on a walk, then Chris Labhart singled in the fourth and scored on a wild pitch. Gray walked again in the fourth and stole home for the third tally. The Americans opened with four runs in the first, five more in the second and four more in the fourth. Pitching for the losers were Labhart and Jerry Stefani who gave up 13 runs on eight hits. They struck out three, gave six walks, and received much help from the fielders with 12 putouts.

Fund of $21,000 To Speed Survey

tion could expect to be started, even if everything went along at the fastest possible progress, he said.

Siltage will be a problem at the dam site and could partly be controlled with a watershed conservation program, the expert indicated. Promotion of a conservation program for the whole upper Willow creek watershed has already been started by the Heppner Conservation District supervisors and is expected to complement plans of the Engineers in providing less siltage and therefore less expense in upkeep of the dam. A conservation pool in the reservoir would provide for the sediment.

Local Interest
Many south Morrow county residents have worked for years to obtain a dam on Willow creek above the city of Heppner to avert the floods of water which periodically rage down Balm Creek following cloudbursts, or "waterspouts" as they are more commonly called locally. These sudden disastrous storms occur from May through August in connection with summer electrical storms.

The terrain is such that a dam to hold back the waters from the narrow valley above Heppner appears to be the only solution to safeguard life and property.

Morrow County Judge Oscar Peterson is one of the many who has worked long and hard for construction of such a dam. When he assumed office three and a half years ago he stated this as one of his prime interests. It was mainly through his efforts that the re-survey was started.

"I am much encouraged by the re-survey progress," he said in commenting on the report given the chamber Monday. "With the inclusion of irrigation, recreation, flood control, fish and wildlife sanctuary, and municipal water needs all wrapped up in this project I feel we have a better chance than at any time past of obtaining the dam and the protection we need."

Jury Awards $2250 In Damage Case

A jury awarded Roscoe Allen, Milton-Freewater, $2250.00 general damages at the conclusion of a 2-day trial which ended in Morrow county circuit court here Friday.

The case grew out of an accident at Phil's Pharmacy September 18, 1959. Allen, at that time an office supply salesman, fell down an open stairway while making delivery of an adding machine which had been repaired.

He suffered injuries to his back which he alleged resulted in his losing his business. He further alleged that he had not been physically able to obtain suitable employment since the accident, although he had done some work.

Two suits were filed by the plaintiff; one for $15,000 general damages and one for $15,000 punitive damages, against Phil Blakney, owner of the local firm at the time of the accident.

The jury trial was heard by Circuit Judge W. W. Wells, Pendleton. Attorney for Allen was Ralph Curran, and for Blakney Alex Byler, both Pendleton.

Insurance Requirements You Should Know

(Clip and save for reference)

The information below is very IMPORTANT if you are travelling out of State. If you are involved in any sort of automobile accident the provisions of other state laws may effect your driving privilege in your home state.

The table reproduced below shows the minimum limits of automobile liability insurance effective June 1, 1961, required by the various states which have a security-type motor vehicle safety responsibility act. Under reciprocity provisions in effect in many states, non-resident vehicle owners involved in an accident may have driving privileges in their home states revoked if their liability insurance limits are not at least as high.

The first column below refers to maximum bodily injury liability for one person; the second is maximum for each accident; and the third is maximum property damage required.

If traveling into Canadian Provinces there is a further very important requirement. It is a special Auto Identification Card which can be issued on request in our office. Possession of your automobile policy is not enough in Canadian Provinces. Required liability insurance limits are also higher in most Canadian Provinces than in Oregon.

If traveling into Mexico your insurance policy issued in the United States has a very limited application. Please be sure to check with your agent before leaving—a week or more in advance if possible—in order to allow time enough to obtain information if it is required.
