McQuarries Return From Trip; Store Busy During Absence

A good visit and an interesting trip was reported by Clinton and Marie McQuarrie and son Dan on their return from Missoula, Montana.

Mr. and Mrs. McQuarrie, owners of Central Market, picked the week of July 13-20 to visit his mother, Mrs. Grace McQuarrie and his brother and family in Missoula. They went by way of Walla Walla and Spokane. Choosing a different route for the return trip, they came through Lewiston, Idaho, where there was a major fire on the edge of town, and spent some time watching it.

In the meantime, back at the store, daughter Susan, who is a junior at Oregon School of Education at Monmouth, was doing her part on a fire also. Susan was left in charge of the family business, and beginning the day her parents left she was called on to open the store to provide food for firefighters on the Ditch Creek blaze, both on Sunday and each night of the week they were gone. Carole Anne Anderson, who had agreed to stay with Susan so she would not be in the house alone, found it was on to help fill grocery orders in the middle of the night.

It was quite an experience for the girls but they were glad when it was over.

They are just two who did so much to help when called on.

"I had made up the grocery orders before I left and thought I had everything under control," Clint said. Susan ordered much more than her father expected, but managed things in such a way that no serious shortages developed. "She did an excellent job," Clint reported.

Little League Tilt Draws Big Crowd Here On Saturday

Heppner and vicinity, with well over 500 persons in attendance, were treated to two exciting Little League baseball games on the rodeo field Saturday night, which sent the Pendleton Nationals into the State playoffs in Portland, today (Thursday).

The opening game of the evening, pitted the Willow Creek All-Stars against the Pendleton Americans in a King's-X contest which the local boys lost 7-4 with Pendleton's Schulberg the difference with his two home-runs which accounted for three runs.

The Willow Creek lads, held scoreless in the first two frames, finally got a rally going in the top of the third, when Steve Pettyjohn hit a single into right center, stole second and went on to steal home for the first run. Gene Heliker got on a fielder's choice and scored on Chris Labhart's single for the second run.

In the fourth frame, Russell Kilkeny was safe on a fielder's choice, Jeff Turner walked, and both scored on Heliker's double to end the scoring for the local boys.

Pendleton's Schulberg homered on the third pitch off of pitcher Jim Doherty, picked up two more runs in the third to go ahead, getting two more in the fourth and Schulberg added the final blow in the fifth with a 2-run homer to clinch the win. For the Americans, they had seven runs on seven hits and no errors, and for Willow Creek, four runs on three hits and one error.

In the second game, the championship playoff, between Pendleton Nationals and The Dalles Americans, the Nationals won an exciting see-saw battle in the extra inning game 5-3.

The Dalles drew first blood getting one run when Slusher was safe on a fielder's choice and scored on Troutman's single. Both teams failed to score until the top of the fourth, when Pendleton came through with two big runs when Schiewe singled and scored on Carter's double and Carter tallied when Jackson grounded to second.

The Dalles boys picked up a run to tie it up at 2-2 when Smith got on an error and went on to score on an error. Each team picked up another tally in the sixth to throw the game into extra innings. The Pendleton team picked up two runs in the top of the seventh. Swensen singled went on to score when Wolcott reached first safely on an error and Wolcott scored on Schiewe's single. The Dalles failed to score in the bottom of the seventh frame.

The winning pitcher was Jim Jackson and the loser was Jaetoux.

Heppner's first venture into the sponsorship of L. L. playoff games can be recorded a great success and mainly due to the fine cooperation of the coaches, fathers and mothers of L. L. players and to many interested persons and businessmen in the community, says L. L. president, LaVerne Van Marter.

Heppner Thumps Kinzua, 24-7; Rea Breaks Leg

The Heppner Townies of the Wheat League came through with an impressive 24-7 thumping of Kinzua at Kinzua Sunday but paid a good price for the one-sided victory when they lost Dallas Rea who broke his leg in a slide in the second inning.

Rea snapped the bone in his leg in attempting to slide into second base. He was taken to the hospital for treatment. A benefit game will be held for him at a later date, according to Manager Bert Corbin.

The win Sunday kept Heppner tied at the top of the league with Moro. The two teams will battle Sunday at Moro in a single game beginning at 2 p. m. The last home game of the season will be here August 20 against Kinzua at 2 p. m. Corbin said. The contest was originally scheduled for Ione but will be played in Heppner.

Big gun in the Heppner attack Sunday was Jack Ford who smacked a home run with two on during the contest. Battery for the Heppner nine was as follows: Tom Green, Jack Ford (7) and Ernie Snow, Jerry Bristow (4).

In league play to date, Heppner, like Moro, has won three and lost one.
