Wheat Team Sets Observation Tour

Pacific Northwest wheat leaders—with a slogan of "sharing American abundance with others of the free world in the battle to combat the inroads of communism"—will start their big task on Sept. 29.
 A 25-man "observation team," will converge on Far East and Near East nations in an effort to sell American spirit, American wheat and American know-how to nations which have felt the yoke of Communism in either direct or indirect fashion.
 Richard K. Baum, executive vice-president of Western Wheat Associates and a top administrator of this group, along with Floyd Root, Madras, president of Western Wheat Associates and Joseph Spiruta, a Portland resident with a wide acquaintance of problems confronting our wheat market in the Far East, will spearhead the "observation" tour.
 A staff conference of Western Wheat Associates and Great Plains Wheat members—first of its kind in history—is scheduled at New Delhi.
 Each of the 25 men who make the "Observation" trip will be asked to submit individual reports on their return to the United States on, or about Nov. 13.
 Reports are designed to let American wheat growers know what their future market may mean in Hong Kong, New Delhi, Bangkok, Thailand, Tokyo and Manila.
