

Wells Addition Seeks City Water; Dump Gets Rebuff

charges for the new school and decided upon a fee of $25 per month, the same as that charged for each of the other two school buildings.

Councilman Carl Spaulding read a report from W. B. Culham of the State Sanitary Authority evaluating the condition of the city dump. He gave the Heppner dump a rating of 19 out of a possible 100 points. The various points, with the total possible in parenthesis, were as follows: Area location (10) 0; water pollution (5) 2; fly control (8) 0; rodent control (10) 0; burning (8) 2; area debris (10) 10; access road (5) 5; cover (38) 0; emergency covering equipment (2) 2; water under pressure at site (2) 2; fly attractant (2) 2.

The council disagreed with the report on some points. A comment under rodent control by Culham was that it was a rodent "harborage." Mayor Al Lamb pointed out that the city pays $15 per month for rodent control at the dump.

Discussion came up on poor condition of some of the sidewalks around town, and it was agreed that in these instances property owners would be asked to make needed repairs.

Chief of Police Dean Gilman pointed out that a parking space at the corner of May and Main constituted a hazard because angle parking cars stick too far into the traffic lane for traffic rounding the main corner. The parking mete there, and one partially blocking driveway to Heppner Auto Sales, were ordered moved around the corner to be installed on May street.

Study of Cancer Now Underway Here

A re-check of Morrow county families participating in the six-year cancer prevention study of the American Cancer Society is being made during October, according to Mrs. Harlan McCurdy, Jr., Heppner, county chairman. It is hoped that the job will be completed by the end of the month.

When the study began in the fall of 1959, 96 families and 182 individuals in Morrow county were enrolled. Each of them answered a confidential questionnaire, providing information about personal living habits, including those concerned with eating and smoking. On the basis of this type of information, collected nation-wide, cancer researchers hope to find clues to the mystery of why some persons get cancer while others do not.

In Oregon, 15,815 families and almost 30,000 individuals are taking part in the study. They live in 27 counties of the state. Nationally some 1,100,000 Americans are participating in what is believed to be the largest statistical sampling ever undertaken in the health field.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Conley Lanham last week-end were Mr. and Mrs. Alva Noble of Independence and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Tetz of Monmouth. The Lanhams entertained their guests at the Frank Hamlin mountain cabin at Parker's Mill. They spent Saturday and Sunday hunting but reported no luck.

Ed Gonty and son, Thomas, were in Portland Monday on business, obtaining parts and television tubes for use in Gonty's store.

Fred Campbell, Portland, and Ralph Bengé, La Grande, were week-end hunting guests of Mr. and Mrs. Terrel Bengé.

A guest at the Randolph Martin home this week for hunting is Cy Kruger, Corvallis.

Library Leaders Meet Here Saturday for Workshop

"Wider Horizons for Libraries," with special emphasis on the study and importance of library standards in county, city and school libraries, was the topic of discussion for the Oregon State Library and Oregon State Dept. of Education meeting at the Heppner Public Library rooms Saturday.

Librarians from Gilliam, Morrow, Umatilla, Wasco and Wheeler counties, together with state librarians, trustees and department of education representatives, met at 9:30 a. m. for a coffee and get-acquainted period, followed by a panel on "Understanding Each Other's Goals."

Speaking on standards for school libraries was Phyllis Hockstetter of the State Dept. of Education, Salem; public librarians, by Dean Lingle, Umatilla county librarian from Pendleton; and for trustees, Beulah Elliott, chairman of trustees, Klamath Falls; Eva Shold, trustee, state library, Salem; Dean Lingle, Umatilla county librarian, Pendleton; Mary Frances Gilbert, Wasco county librarian, Condon; school and city librarians: Bill Reichenburg, Stanfield; Juanita Shearer Condon; Rita H. ## Daughter Writes Of Texas Storm To Parents Here

Among those in this area who have relatives in southern Texas where the gulf storms and hurricane "Carla" have been striking with tragic force, are Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Hastings of Heppner.

Their daughter and family, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Henry (formerly Charles Hastings), now make their home in Beeville, Texas, near Corpus Christi. Mrs. Henry called her parents by long distance phone Sept. 11 to assure them that they had not been in serious danger, although a letter which arrived two days later told of their preparation for the worst. Excerpts from the letter are as follows:

"I suppose you have been getting reports on hurricane 'Carla.' "At 8:30 last night (Sept. 10) we started getting winds in Beeville at 50 to 60 miles an hour; at 10:00 p. m. the rain started and it has been raining 17 hours straight.

"We have blankets nailed up to all our windows (in case of glass breakage) and water in every jar and pan just in case we are without water. I have the washing machine full of water and the bath tub is full.

"However, we are in the safest place we can get. We are 60 miles from Matagona Beach where the eye of the storm is hitting. We haven't had much sleep in the past 48 hours—last night we were up every two hours to get weather reports.

"Hurricane Carla is the worst storm that has ever hit the gulf coast. There are 400,000 people that have left their homes in Texas. The winds in the eye of this storm are 150 to 175 m.p.h., the highest the winds were in hurricane Audrey that hit Cameron in '57 were 105 m.p.h.

"Do you remember the pier we went out on to watch them fish, the night we went to Padre Island? That pier has completely washed away. Remember the evening we rode down Ocean Drive in Corpus, where we saw all the beautiful homes? That street is all washed out and its hanging over the water."

The Henrys have one small son, Hank. Mr. Henry is employed as assistant manager for the Great Western Finance Co. in Beeville.

Sandra Eubanks Places in Rodeo

Sandra Eubanks, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Eubanks of Lone, received two second places and a fourth place in the all-girl rodeo at Grand Coulee over the week-end. Marlene Fetsch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Al Fetsch of Lexington, finished fifth, just out of the recognized placings, in the "rope and run" event.

Sandra received one of her second placings in cow milking and a fourth in cow cutting.

The event was sponsored by the Ridge Riders riding club and 49 girls participated. A large crowd witnessed the rodeo.

Making the trip Saturday with the girls were Mrs. Fetsch, Mr. and Mrs. Eubanks and Mrs. Archie Munkers. They returned Monday.

GRANGE TO VIEW FILMS

The October meeting of Lexington Grange No. 726 is announced for Saturday evening, October 14, at the grange hall. The business meeting will begin at 8:00 p. m., followed by an interesting program of films on our new state of Hawaii. A social hour and refreshments will close the evening.

and for trustees, Beulah Elliott, chairman of trustees, Oregon State Library, from Klamath Falls.

All speakers were concerned with problems relating to operating both school and public libraries in an efficient manner and according to the standards which are set up under state requirements. The importance of adequately staffing and appropriating funds for new books to meet required standards, the increasing of the public and urging larger and fuller use of library facilities, the fear that the nation is producing a generation of "non-readers," were a few of the "horizons" discussed by speakers and in workshops.

Mrs. Blanche Brown, Heppner librarian, extended a welcome to the group, and in turn introduced special guests present.

A no-host luncheon was served to 32 guests at noon in the All Saints' Episcopal parish hall, prepared by the women's auxiliary.

Convening at 1:15, workshop groups were organized according to school, public, or trustee interests. Theme of the group meetings was "Blueprints for Progress."

Honored guests included Miss Ebert, state librarian; Mary Rutherford, state field service representative, Salem; Phyllis Hockstetter, Dept. of Education, Salem; Beulah Elliott, chairman of trustees, Klamath Falls; Eva Shold, trustee, state library, Salem; Dean Lingle, Umatilla county librarian, Pendleton; Mary Frances Gilbert, Wasco county librarian, Condon; school and city librarians: Bill Reichenburg, Stanfield; Juanita Shearer Condon; Rita H. Simmons, Fossil; Flora M. Guthmuller, Fossil; Ethel Tiller, Hermiston; Jean Reed, The Dalles; Beatrice Dick, The Dalles; Blanche Brown, Heppner; Nyna Knights, Condon; Mrs. Rose Hedrick, Stanfield; Jessie Shannon, Condon; trustees and board members: Helen Rondeau, Condon; Loris Halderson, Condon; Margaret Troedson, lone; Lucy Peterson, Heppner; Amanda Duvall, Heppner; Elaine Rietmann, lone; Leta Humphreys, Heppner; Hazel Mahoney, Heppner; Rachel Harnett, Heppner; Rella Smith, Heppner; Nora Turner, Heppner; Virginia C. Turner, Heppner; and Marion Abrams, Heppner.

Some points that were brought out in the discussion were the following: (1) The farmer and the merchant in this area are especially fortunate to be able to be on a friendly personal basis in their dealings rather than a buyer and seller "dog each dog" basis such as is found in most of the metropolitan areas; (2) The farmer and the merchant needs to present a better public image of himself; (3) Each must gain a better understanding of the problems of the other by being better informed. (4) The consumer does not feel any enmity toward the farmer for the "high cost of living" but rather is concerned with the costs involved in the fancy packaging, processing, and high pressure advertising; (5) The cost of living for food, clothing and shelter has not changed appreciably on a percentage basis.

During the business meeting, Wayne McGowan, district membership chairman and his wife, of Pilot Rock spoke to the group on the many good things Farm Bureau has been able to do for the farmer. A discussion was also held concerning the increasing infestation of bushy knapweed and other weeds in Morrow county. Orville Cutsforth was appointed to look into this matter and to see what could be done on a county-wide basis to control these weeds.

Rummage Displays Readied For Sale

Heppner Civic League is accumulating a large variety of rummage for their semi-annual sale Oct. 20 and 21 at the old Central Market building, according to Mrs. Jim Prock of the pickup committee.

"We have a good choice of Novelties, used clothing in excellent condition, canning equipment, many baby supplies, Christmas decorations and wrapping paper, lots of toys and books," she said.

Members of the Civic League have been laboring for several weeks under the direction of General Chairmen Mrs. Roy Erickson and Mrs. Ralph Richmond, getting articles sorted, cleaned and displayed.

"We still have more than a week to go, so this should be a very good sale," Mrs. Prock commented.

Funds from the semi-annual rummage sales are used to help finance the local kindergarten which operates two shifts and offers instruction to more than 30 children. Mrs. Roy Tabor is employed as teacher, and parents are charged a nominal sum in tuition to meet expense of operation. The kindergarten has been a project of the Civic League for over ten years.

Wranglers Slate Buckburger Feed

The Heppner Wranglers, meeting at the clubhouse Tuesday evening, set Thursday, October 19, as the date for their annual "buckburger feed."

A hunting guest at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Tucker of lone on Friday night was his brother, Edwin Tucker of Salem. On Saturday night he visited at the home of his mother, Mrs. Archie Padberg, returning to his home Sunday with his deer.

Mrs. Ethel Zeimentz returned this week from a month's visit with her daughter and husband, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Billings in Seattle.

Recent guests at the Jack Bedford home were their son, J. W. Bedford, and Mrs. Bedford and three children of Bakersfield, Calif.; son Larry Bedford and Tom O'Connor, San Francisco, and Mr. and Mrs. Merit Earsley, Portland.

Mr. and Mrs. John Brewold, Medford, were week-end hunting guests of the Gerald Roods. Mrs. Brewold got her first deer. Her husband also filled his tag.

Vacation Contest Held By Bedfords

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Bedford returned on the week-end from a two-weeks vacation in Portland and at Long Beach, Wn. Mrs. Beatrice Bedford, Jack's mother, accompanied them to the beach.

Ruth reports the weather was beautiful and that the time was mainly spent in Jack's favorite pastime of digging clams. Thing is, he insists that she dig, too. Mother was spotter for the quick diving morsels and Ruth and Jack held contests digging. They came home with several quarts, though they reported this year's catch is too small to have canned. They brought their home frozen.

Jack returned to his position as manager of Heppner branch of First National Bank Monday.

Neither Jack nor Ruth would say who won their vacation contest, but Ruth had a rather "happy glow" about her when she spoke of it.

Farm Bureau Program Features Panel, Speaker

The Morrow County Farm Bureau met for its first fall meeting at the Lexington Grange hall Tuesday evening, September 26, beginning with a pot-luck dinner at 6:30.

A most interesting panel discussion was held on the subject, "How Can We Gain a Better Understanding between the Farmer, the Consumer and the General Public?" Panel members were Bob Jepsen, the farmer; Nels Anderson, the consumer; and Mike Whitesmith, the merchant, with Harold Beach as moderator.

Some points that were brought out in the discussion were the following: (1) The farmer and the merchant in this area are especially fortunate to be able to be on a friendly personal basis in their dealings rather than a buyer and seller "dog each dog" basis such as is found in most of the metropolitan areas; (2) The farmer and the merchant needs to present a better public image of himself; (3) Each must gain a better understanding of the problems of the other by being better informed. (4) The consumer does not feel any enmity toward the farmer for the "high cost of living" but rather is concerned with the costs involved in the fancy packaging, processing, and high pressure advertising; (5) The cost of living for food, clothing and shelter has not changed appreciably on a percentage basis.

During the business meeting, Wayne McGowan, district membership chairman and his wife, of Pilot Rock spoke to the group on the many good things Farm Bureau has been able to do for the farmer. A discussion was also held concerning the increasing infestation of bushy knapweed and other weeds in Morrow county. Orville Cutsforth was appointed to look into this matter and to see what could be done on a county-wide basis to control these weeds.

Moving From Area

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dobyns, lone, have sold their home in that city to John Jepsen. They will move to Pendleton soon where he is going into business.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Moe and Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ployhar spent last week-end fishing in Idaho.

Fallout Shelters, Emergency Plans Talked at Meet

to it, but there is no expectation of anyone having to remain in a shelter for over 72 hours before they could come out for short intervals. City water is covered and would be safe, as would all rural wells which are covered. Sewers would work. Pooled electricity from other utility companies would supply power and lights.

Many newer ideas of how to protect oneself and how to make things useable after exposure to fallout were cited. Sheriff Bauman said he had pamphlets outlining these available for the public and they will also be presented at the training course.

Bauman also pointed out that properly constructed shelters are tax deductible up to $1500 of true cash value, and will not increase the value of the property for tax purposes. Specifications to meet requirements for these tax benefits can be obtained at the sheriff's office.

A sheriff's posse is now being organized in the county to serve in case of emergency. This group will be made up of 25 to 30 men in the north end of the county and the same in lone and Heppner areas. The posse could be used other than in civil defense, such as searching for lost persons, the sheriff said.

Further instruction on how to prepare for fallout is available through the sheriff's office or through Velma Glass, county health nurse. Both are willing to appear on request at meetings of farm groups or organizations to tell people what to do.
