Despite numerous illnesses and bad weather which kept several from appearing, many in-teresting hobbles were displayed and explained at the meeting in the multipurpose room.

Elder David Bauer, pastor of the Seventh-day Adventist church, showed specimens from his butterfly collection and told some of his experiences getting them. Elder Bauer has over 10,000 specimens, one of the biggest collections of western butterfles in existance. Most of the specimens were caught by the specimens were caught by him in western states, western Canada and Mexico. Elder Bauer has spent many years accum-ulating this collection.

He plans to leave it eventually to a western museum. "There is a great need for people of the west to save specimens from the west and give them to mu-seums," he said. Explaining that he meant all kinds of items native to the western states, not just butterflies, Rev. Bauer said most collections are made in the east and are given to museums

"California is the only western state which has taken any steps to save specimens of native an-imals and materials," he added. Dr. Wallace Wolff showed some of his extensive collection of shells. He explained that he had not brought many as they break easily in moving. Dr. Wolff has the collection displayed in his home and those who are interested are invited to get in touch with him to view the complete grouping.

Ceramic pieces made by Mrs. Ed Gonty were shown, and she explained how they were made. Jan Hager, seventh grade stu-dent, showed her collection of international dolls and told of the costume of each; Frances Adams, 6th grader who was an able to be present, had her able to be present, had her model horses displayed, ranging model horses displayed, ranging campaign," he said.

Two high school boys, Ronald Creswick and Raymond Nichols, told of the advantages of having "ham" radio for a hobby, how interesting it could be, and ex-

the same token, we can point with pride to a county road system that practically over-shadows the road system in any county in Oregon. And there is more to come. We have just this past summer started an oiling program that we believe will practically revolutionize our road program in outlying areas. This past summer we completed four three-mile stretches of oiling as well as an extensive oiling pro-ject at Heppner school. Mrs. Searcy Makes Debut on Television

Mrs. Lena Searcy of Hills-boro, mother of Mrs. Charles (Helen) Ruggles of Heppner, has demonstrated many tal-ents in her 90 years but show-ed a bent for still another Wednesday morning. She was a guest of honor on the morning "Telescope" program over KGW-TV, Portland, and made a bright and sparkling appearance on the show. Her hosts were Connie Worth and J. H. Peck

Some of Mrs. Searcy's beautiful paintings were shown on the program as well as other samples of her handiwork. She told of her early life in Sherman county and compared Christmas as it is observed today with its observance in the "old days."

Mrs. Searcy will be honored at open house in Portland on Sunday, December 31, on the occasion of her 90th birthday. The affair is being arranged by her family.

Over TV, Mrs. Searcy looked much younger than her 90 years and was very calm and poised, appearing not the least bit nervous at being in front of the searching cameras. Both she and the program came in "loud and clear" here.

Murray Elected Wrangler Prexy; Projects Talked

The annual Christmas party and election of officers were the main attractions for the Wranglers at the recent meeting held in the Wrangler clubhouse. New officers elected are Rod Murray, president; John Eubanks, vice president, Edna Fetsch, secretary-treasurer; Everett Struckmeier, director. A lengthy discussion was held on projects for the coming year. The annual cutting horse show was tentatively set for the last week-end in April with the possibility of an all-girl rodeo or some calf roping to be held at the same time. All members are urged to get behind the new officers to promote all the activities of the Wranglers and help to make it a real live organization.

Rep. Weatherford To Offer Plan On Fair Funds

"Standard grades rather than good or choice grades are usually purchased for state institutions so no money is wasted," the legislator stated.

The sub-committee on meat in pection, of which Weatherford is chairman, will have one more meeting, probably in Portland, to take testimony from the consumers and the packers. The date has not been set but will be announced shortly after the first of the year.

Rep. Weatherford said that he is available to his constituents at all times.

"Most people have the opin-ion a legislator is of use to them only during the session," he said. "The fact is, he is in continued service to them and will come at any and every call to discuss problems and seek to explain and solve problems between them and the public offices that effect them and their affairs.

"Legislation is a continuous program of the people and for the people and by the people," the solon continued. "The session is far too short to try cor rection of the ills of government or to create new and better conditions in all areas of govern ment. Influence of legislators grows by continued contact— only by this means can a complete knowledge of state-wide problems be obtained.

"I will always meet with any group for discussion and attempt to carry out their wishes," he

2 Attend Hearing On Ambulance Use

Rep. Frank Weatherford and Hospital Administrator, Will O'Harra attended a public hear-ing of the State Board of Health Monday in Portland. Represent-ing Heppner-Morrow County Chamber of Commerce and Pioneer Memorial hospital staff, they objected to some of the changes under consideration by the State Board in operation of ambulances of the state.

O'Harra said, "There is un doubtedly a need for some regulations on operation of ambu-lances, but not to the extent these contemplated rules would carry.

Proposed changes were out lined at a recent chamber meet ing as being so severe that small ambulances cannot operate, be ing unable to provide the nec essary trained personnel new equipment, such as uniforms required for drivers. The last legislature passed a new license fee of an additional $100 for ambulances and Weatherford reported there is no chance of this law changed the other proposed regulations which would cause hardship on them. Another hearing, this one be fore the interim state highway committee, is scheduled for early in January. Rules and regula tions concerning operation of am-bulances in the state will be adopted by the State Board of Health following this hearing.
