Units On Cheese Cookery Planned For January Study

By ESTHER KIRMIS

Cheese takes the lead in a five-star role.

1. As a galaxy of goodness to fit any occasion.

2. As an exciting array of flavors to add variety to meals.

3. As a low-cost ticket to high nutrition.

4. As a flavor pal to follow foods.

5. As a magic way to easy-does-it meals.

January is "Cheese Cookery" lesson time for the Morrow County Extension units. Project leaders were trained during December and are now testing new cheeses and recipes that they will present to their unit women.

What a glorious sight when you enter a modern food market and see the almost bewildering array of cheeses! Cheese cut in trim squares, oblongs, triangles. Cheese in intriguing packages and jars. Little rolls; fat chunks, balls, sausage-like links. Cheese decked in red and orange; threaded with blue; golden hues and creamy whites. Cheeses sharp and tangy—mild and creamy. Cheese to suit any taste. The "Cheese Cookery" lesson will contain the different classifications of cheese, doing comparative shopping when buying cheese, the nutritive value, and facts to remember when cooking with cheese. Suggestions of how cheese can be used for gay breakfasts, brunches, lunches and suppers will also be told.

The project leaders also learned how cheese can be used in main dishes, with vegetables, salads, and desserts.

Invitations are extended to interested women to attend any of the following January Unit meetings: Contact these project leaders as to time and place.

January 3—Rhea Creek Unit, Mrs. Marilyn Bergstrom, Mrs. Ray Wright.

January 4—Ione Unit, Mrs. Leonard McKinney, Mrs. Joe Hausler.

January 5—Heppner Unit, Mrs. Kethly Blake, Mrs. Wavel Wilkinson.

January 10—Pine City Unit, Mrs. Jasper Myers, Mrs. Charles Daly.

January 11—Irrigon Unit, Mrs. Andrew Skiles, Mrs. Milton Biengel and Mrs. Earl Briggs.

January 16—Boardman Unit, Mrs. Earl Briggs, Mrs. James Harper.

January 18—Lena Unit, Mrs. Earl Blake.
