HAVE YOU put things away so they wouldn't get lost? That's me exactly, then I can never find them. Oh well, guess they are safe, but what will I do for this certain paper which is needed now? Just keep lookin'!

HAPPY GRAHAM entertained three tables of bridge at her home Wednesday afternoon. Lucille Wilson won high, Gena Leonard won second, and Madge Thomson was third high. Others participating in the play were Hazel Mahoney, Helen Schaffitz, Fay Ferguson, Virginia Rosewall, Faye Pierre, Louise Farley, Lota Tibbles, and Marie McQuarrie.

HAVE YOU sent back the slips on adult classes sponsored by the PTA? Maybe you haven't yet found it among all the papers the youngsters bring home from school! Anyway, the classes are scheduled to start this month if enough interest is shown. How about volleyball, bridge, or maybe Spanish?

AN AFTERNOON of pinochle was enjoyed by guests with Janina Johnson as hostess Thursday. Among the guests were Beulah Mankin, Mary Harris, Millie Evans, Doris Watkins, Pearl Wright, Margaret Dubuque, and Gladys Beckett. Topping the afternoon's play was Mary, high; Beulah, second; and Doris was low. Janina said she had a prize for the highest hand but those cards just didn't cooperate; nothing but poor hands!

REBEKAH MEMBERS turned back the pages of time a few years to reminisce a little of old school days. Guess they had a wonderful time laughing over the very becoming attire! Especially those of Marie Martin and Eva Griffith. Oh, those days!

HARRIET HALL had high score for the evening at the Rengere bridge club with Laurel Van Marter as hostess. Coming up with second high was Bonnie Barratt, and others playing were Inez Meador, Louise Farley, Kay Anderson, Cork Norene, Beverly Gunderson, and Nona Sowell.

ALL OF the original members of the Sunday evening duplicate bridge club were present for an evening of play and dessert at the Lovell Gribble home on Sunday. The fellows took all the honors, winning high in both east-west and north-south sides. Still doesn't prove anything, just lucky, huh? Guests were Ed and Rachel Dick, Gordon and LaFyrne Pratt, Dick and Inez Meador, Conley and Vi Lanham, LaVerne and Laurel Van Marter, and Dr. and Rita Wolf. High for north-south were Gordon and Dick and high east-west were LaVerne and Ed. Dee served a delicious shrimp salad following the play.

THE ELKS annual bridge and pinochle tournaments in the dining room got underway this week with the bridge players meeting on Tuesday nights and the pinochle players meeting on Wednesdays for six weeks. If you missed this week you may still get in next week with the starting time at 7:30.

THOSE FRIDAY afternoon pinochle players met at the home of Hannah Anderson on Friday with Mary Harris winning high. Beulah Mankin and Doris Watkins won the pinochle and Carrie Beckett won low. Others making up the two tables were Janina Johnson, Gladys Beckett, Pearl Wright, and Hannah. Mary said that being high two days in a row was just too good, she's sure old "lady luck" won't last!

I HEAR there's a feud going on in town, a bridge-type feud, that is!!! It all got started when one of the gals says, "We can beat you in bridge." Soooo, every now and then the four of them get together for a round and they tell me they are about even as of last Saturday. Wonder who's playing? Well, it is Kay Robinson and Gwen Healy versus Bebe Munkers and Lillian Sweek, you might say the north against the south!

I HAPPENED to be in Heppner Hardware on Monday visiting with Etta Parker and witnessed a very nice surprise for her birthday, and she was surprised! I know it left Etta quite speechless for a moment as the ladies all walked in armed with cake and coffee pots. They gave her handkerchief gifts and visited over cake and coffee. In on the scheme were Snoda Blake, Lucille Wilson, Della McCurdy, Donna McCurdy and Janet, Ella Smith, Gladys Beckett, Eva Griffith, and Margaret Blake. Snoda said she baked the cake the night before and brought it to work Monday so had to sneak down the alley, out of Etta's view!

HOW ABOUT a taffy pull? I talked with Jerry Doherty in town Monday, and she told me about the fun the 4-H kids had at a recent meeting with a taffy pull. She said many of them had never done it before, so were real excited and used eight batches of taffy with colors of pink, yellow, blue, and green. What a time they had and probably a few difficulties, too! An idea for a children's meeting?

ELKS LADIES night was hosted by the teachers' wives and teachers including Jo Anne Hughes, Inez Meador, Inez Erwin, and Janet Groves. They served homemade cookies and gave gift certificates from the merchants as prizes. Alta Cutsforth won high, Nora Turner, second in pinochle and for bridge

Dee Gribble won high, and Etta Parker won second. The door prize was won by Jeanne Berry.

ELSIE COLE entertained the Fida's and Fyouda's bridge club at her home last week with Gladys Connor winning high and Rachel Dick second. Others making up the two tables of play were Beth Bryant, Florence Green, Winifred Cox, Alma Green, and Lorena Jones.

NOW IS the time to buy pork, it is plentiful and the cuts are being featured in the markets. Remember to cook pork to the well-done stage. Watch for grapefruit buys as it is being featured now. The pink ones are more flavorful. The produce counters are in good supply of most vegetables and good specials can be found there for your week-end buying.

THE RECIPE this week comes to me from Mrs. Earle (Mary) Bryant and she writes that she got it from Mrs. Fred Parrish. I first heard of it when talking to Mary on the phone about a meeting she had before the holidays. She had served it as a
