WELL, HERE it is Tuesday night and I'm still at it. Just had to take time out today to watch the fifth and sixth grade boys play basketball! Right now they are playing in a 4-team intramural contest. Lots of enthusiasm and fight for their teams. Come out and watch your boy play.

BACK TO the social side of things, the past week was an in-between week for most card clubs so there wasn't too much activity. Not as much as usual, maybe, but listening to many of the gals, they still had plenty to do!

THE HIGHS are still high, first that is, in the Elks bridge tournament although there were new winners of the Tuesday night play. Still on top of play are Ed and Rachel Dick, high north-south, and LaVerne Van Marter and Daisy Collins, high east-west. Tuesday winners were Isabelle Davis and Rita Wolff, high north-south; Gene Pierce and Dick Meador, second; Ed and Rachel Dick, third. Hazel Mahoney and Dee Gribble, high for east-west; Harriet Hall and Dorene Jacogs, second; Bob Brindle and Bert Huff, third.

OFFICERS OF the Order of Eastern Star sponsored a desert card party at the hall Saturday evening. They entertained nine tables of bridge and eight tables of pinochle. Etta Parker won high in bridge with Gladys Jones taking second place honors. Mary Lou Cossitt was the pinochle winner and Madge Bryant won second.

SAY, YOU all, if you're interested in learning to play bridge, mark the dates March 5, 6, and 7 on your calendar. Sam Gordon, noted bridge instructor, will be in Heppner to teach this class. Call a neighbor and join in the lessons.

FOLLOWING a delicious supper served by the Episcopal ladies on Elks Ladies Night, the Eight Mile ladies were hostesses for bridge and high in pinochle. Jo Hughes won high in pinochle, Janina Johnson, low; and Gladys Beckett won the door prize. Elaine George won high in bridge, Karen Thompson, low; and Hazel Mahoney took home the door prize. Chairman for the play was Donna Peterson and helping her were Francis Carlsson, Loree Hubbard, Donna Bergstrom, Barbara Peterson, Ann Bergstrom, Pat Townsend, Martha Peterson, Charlotte Lundell, and Eunice McElligott.

CALLING ALL hostesses of social activities: Remember to call me at home on Tuesdays to make sure your news is in the paper. Just phone 6-9284 and let me know about your party, shower, and dinners.

PEARL WRIGHT entertained two tables of pinochle Friday afternoon with Gladys Beckett winning high. Also getting in on the prizes were Hannah Anderson, low, and Millie Evans teaming up with Gladys to win the pinochle. Others in on the play were Doris Watkins, Mary Harris, Beulah Mankin, Carrie Beckett, and Pearl.

RENEGERS BRIDGE club were guests of Inez Meador for an evening of play on Wednesday. As to who won what, I'm not sure, but by the process of elimination and a dozen phone calls later, I learned Kay Anderson won high. LaFyrne Pratt, second; Shirley Blake, low; and Louise Farley, a special prize. Also playing were Bonnie Barratt, Beverly Gunderson, Cork Norene, Sue Valentine, and Laurel Van Marter.

STANDINGS SO far in the Elks pinochle tournament play are Alvina Padberg and Eunice Pettyjohn, high, with Jan Agee and Leann Rea and the Ralph Richards tied for second place. Wednesday night winners were Alvina and Eunice, high, and Madge Bryant and Esther Bergstrom, second.

GENA LEONARD hosted the What's Trump bridge club at her home Wednesday afternoon following a noon luncheon. Guest Lucille Wilson, won high Virginia Rosewall, second; and Happy Graham, low. Others making up the two tables were Lota Tibbles, Helen Schaffitz, Margaret Blake, Fay Ferguson, and Dee Gribble.
