

Summer College Classes To Help Fall Entrances

The eight-week student summer session from June 18 to August 10 at Oregon State University will make it possible for graduating high school students to accelerate or ease the fall college program.

If a student is not qualified to enroll in the regular session at OSU or U of O because the high school grade point average and college board scores are too low, this student may still have a chance to meet entrance requirements through summer work. For regular enrollment, high school grades need to be a minimum C average or the score on the college entrance board aptitude tests must total 880, according to local guidance offices.

For summer session, the student need meet no special requirements. He registers and goes to class regularly. He takes a prescribed program which includes a course in English composition and two or more courses from fields of literature, social science or science. If the student earns a minimum C average in 9 term hours he will be accepted for admission in a regular session in September. If the student is weak in spots of his academic preparation, he can strengthen it through special courses. These could include training in basic skills as corrective English, effective reading, elementary algebra, methods of study, also typing, chemistry, speech, journalism, art, and others which will enrich the college curriculum.

Music In May Entrants Named

Selection of five band students and two chorus students of Heppner high school has been announced to participate in the 15th anniversary of Music In May Festival on the Pacific University campus, May 10, 11 and 12 in Forest Grove.

Named to participate from the band are John Cleveland, third trumpet section; Laura Sumner, second oboe; Nina Lee Burkenbine, second bassoon; Judy Schmidt, first flute; Norma Ferguson, third horn. The two representing the chorus are Shirley Carlson and John Privett.

Guest chorus director will be Dr. Daniel Moe of the Iowa State University faculty, who has gained nationwide reputation both as a director of festival choruses and as a contemporary composer.

Pacific Power Plans Salute to Pendleton

Pendleton Woolen Mills, one of the world's most famous makers of casual clothing, will be the subject of "Stories of Pacific Powerland" over radio stations KKID, KUMA and KGHU, beginning Monday, April 2.

A woolen blanket presented to the nation's first lady, Mrs. Warren G. Harding, in 1923, was one of the highlights of the history of the firm, first begun in 1909 by the three Bishop brothers.

The story is one of 78 fascinating tales of local history, unusual community projects and interesting personalities in PP&L service areas heard on the series, according to Eldon Drennan, PP&L's Pendleton district manager.

How the mill started producing colorful blankets and progressed to turning out a line of men's and women's shirts and eventually a broad line of garments known throughout the world will be narrated by Nelson Olmsted, veteran raconteur of radio.

Drennan said Pacific Power "has created these programs specifically to widely publicize interesting places, persons and events of communities served by the company."

A NEW MUSEUM and observatory opened to the public this week on the rim of the 1,000-foot-deep Deschutes river canyon overlooking Portland General Electric company's Round Butte dam site 10 miles west of Madras. Constructed as a permanent feature of the project for public convenience, the viewpoint includes a gallery and lecture room, a small museum of artifacts and wildlife displays native to the area and a large model of the dam, its reservoir and fish facilities. To the rear of the observatory, PGE is developing a small picnic area for visitors to the project site. Located on the east canyon rim immediately south from the damsite, visitors will be able to view project construction and, later, the expanse of Lake Chinook to be formed by the dam.

Death In Washington Takes Former County Resident and Veteran

Funeral services for Albert A. "Gus" Williamson were held at Burns Mortuary, Hermiston, on Wednesday afternoon, March 28. He died at the age of 68 in the U. S. Veterans' hospital in Walla Walla, Wn., Monday, March 26. Chaplain Leonard Cousin of the hospital officiated at the 2 p. m. service.

The son of Charles and Mary Williamson, he was born October 15, 1893, at Grove Springs, Missouri. He spent his early years in Missouri, moving to Heppner at the age of 13, and went into the U. S. Army during World War I, enlisting from Heppner. "Gus" worked in Morrow county 30 years and moved to Ordinance where he was employed at the Ordnance Depot as a guard for over five years. In 1946, Mr. Williamson was united in marriage to Helen Rood at Pendleton. In later years, as his health failed, he retired to Lone-rock and then to Hermiston.

He is survived by his widow, Helen, an uncle in Kansas, seven step children, Orville Rood of Port Orchard, Wn.; Gerald Rood, Heppner; Betty Mikesell, Eau Claire, Wis.; Louis Rood, Westfir; Ray Rood, Hermiston; Charlene Collins, Milton-Freewater, and Marjorie Cummings, Portland. Also 19 grandchildren and two great-grandchildren.

Interment followed the memorial services at the Hermiston cemetery, with Burns Mortuary in charge of arrangements.

Keithley to Get Car Sales Award

E. O. Keithley of Heppner Auto Sales, Inc., Heppner, will soon be presented Ford Motor Company's 300-500 Club award at a banquet in Portland honoring high-ranking Ford dealership car and truck salesmen of 1961 in the Seattle Ford sales district.

R. A. Taylor, district sales manager, said 300-500 Club membership awards are presented for excellent retail sales performance. The Ford 300-500 Club was founded in 1950 to recognize the performance of outstanding Ford salesmen throughout the country.

Mr. Taylor added that the average 300-500 Club member sold nearly $400,000 worth of automotive merchandise in qualifying for the national honors.

Lions Club Busy With Activities

IONE—The Ione Lions club has been very active this month with its regular meetings and the extra community projects undertaken.

At the Lions' first meeting this month, the Heppner Chamber of Commerce members were guests and a movie, "Oregon Today," was shown.

On March 21 in Heppner and March 22 in Ione the picture, "Alaskan Safari," was shown with a near-capacity turnout in each city. The Lions express their thanks for the response and report that a sizeable profit was made. This money will be used for community projects they are working on.

At their Monday night meeting of this week the Lions had as guest speaker, Gordon Smith of Bellingham, Wn., who is state secretary of the Lions club for Washington and for British Columbia.

A film, "A for Atom," was borrowed from the Hanford, Wn., project and was shown. It was produced by General Electric Co.

Ray Ayers this week is attending an advance air conditioning school in Boise, Idaho.

Journalists Enter Law Editorial Contest

Students in Heppner High school journalism classes are entering the annual editorial contest held in conjunction with Law Day on May 1 of the Oregon State Bar Association. Editorials are written on the subject, "The Law . . . Wellspring of Liberty." Limited to 250 words, they are submitted to the chairman of the local Law Day committee. Local area chairman is A. W. Byler of Pendleton.

Winning articles in each county will be forwarded to the Oregon State Bar, where a committee of judges will select state winners, and three prizes will be awarded.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Wise returned last Thursday from a two week trip into Nevada, Arizona, and California.
