Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman represented Morrow county at the Region 8 office of Civil Defense Law Enforcement Seminar attended by leading officials from five northwest states, March 13-15, inclusive, at the Davenport Hotel, Spokane, Wn.

Following conferences by nationally-known authorities, approximately 100 conferees from Alaska, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, and Washington participated in a series of workshop sessions designed to inform regional, state, county, and municipal officers at command level on the role of emergency police services in the shelter-oriented community. Subjects included mobile support and mutual aid; traffic control; explosive ordnance reconnaissance and nuclear accident hazards; radiological monitoring; and related instruction.

Tick Emergence Brings Warning

State health officer Richard H. Wilcox issued a warning today that ticks will begin to emerge from their nesting areas now that warmer weather is beginning to occur east of the Cascade mountains. Ticks may infect people with a number of diseases, including a type of paralysis which can be fatal. Most common of these diseases are Rocky Mountain spotted fever and Colorado tick fever. One case of tick paralysis occurred in Umatilla county in 1961.

Should a person find a tick imbedded in the skin, the tick should not be pulled out directly, because it may leave its head in the victim. Rather, ticks should be encouraged to back out by applying a hot wire, the heated point of a knife or a lighted cigarette to the exposed portion of the tick. Also, the tick may be coated with turpentine or a thick oil for a few minutes. If the tick is too deeply imbedded or is fully engorged with blood, removal by a physician may be necessary. Removal within a few hours generally protects the individual from infection with tick paralysis.

There is now available a vaccine for protection against Rocky Mountain spotted fever. Persons living in or working continuously in tick-infested areas should confer with their physician regarding annual immunization. However, there is no vaccine at present for Colorado tick fever and the other tick-borne diseases.

The Heppner branch of First National reported first quarter deposits of $5,178,748 and loans outstanding of $2,679,052, according to Branch Manager, J. H. Bedford.

Comparable totals for the branch a year ago were $4,967,771 in deposits and $2,461,217 in loans.

During the first quarter of 1962 the First National added a branch in the new Tigard Shopping Plaza and moved the Gateway branch to an expanded new building at N. E. 104th Avenue and Halsey street.

Under construction is the new 18th and Oak Street office in Eugene, which is now operating in temporary quarters on the building site. Another branch under construction will be opened next year in Portland when plans completes its new office building.

Rhea Creek Club Has Livestock Tour

"Housewife demands for leaner beef has caused feeders to feed for well-marbled meat without excess fat," Nels Anderson told the Rhea Creek 4-H Livestock club Saturday during their annual tour of the members' livestock projects. This demand for leaner meat will change the judging of the top price beef animal from the prime animal to the choice.

The tour, starting at 9 a. m., from the Rawlins home, included farms of all the members. Swine and beef animals were judged and reasons for placing were discussed. A prize of fifty cents was won by Tom Rawlins for guessing the closest weights of groups of beef animals.

Besides Mr. Anderson and the club leader, Wilbur Van Bokland, Joe Hay, county club agent, and Barton Clark, assistant leader, assisted on the tour. John Rawlins, reporter
