Homemaker Festival Proves Big Success

By ESTHER KIRMIS

"Many people question the influence of just one person," stated Mrs. Roberta Fraiser, OSU family life specialist, "but look at Hitler, Castro, or Jesus Christ." Mrs. Fraiser appeared before 100 Morrow county women at their annual Homemaker's Festival held in the St. Patrick's parish hall in Heppner on May 15.

Developing her talk along the theme, "A Look at Me," the specialist challenged the women on living up to their potential. A woman's influence on her husband and children is tremendous. She communicates to her family with words, with her body (voice and touch), and things she does for her family. These communications are not always understood as "love," however, she went on to say.

"If we would all do more listening instead of talking—receiving instead of sending, what better parents we would be," contended the specialist.

The luncheon-type festival opened at 11:00 a. m. with registration and viewing of exhibits displayed by the seven units. A "hobby room" was a new feature thoroughly enjoyed this year. Mrs. Warren McCoy, Irrigon, county advisory committee chairman, acted as mistress of ceremonies.

Mrs. L. D. Vinson, Kimberly, District VIII director, installed all the new unit officers and county committee women at a candlelight ceremony just before the luncheon, served by the St. Patrick's Altar society.

Women were seated by their birthdays at tables beautifully decorated to depict the month. Heppner High school home economics students served and provided child care.

County committee women Mrs. John Graves, Heppner; Mrs. Weldon Witherrite, Echo; and Mrs. Earl Briggs, Boardman, reported on the new home economics program for 1963, the Oregon state homemaker's council in Corvallis in May, and "thank-you's" for the day.

Special music was furnished by Martha Peck and the Heppner High school choir. Mrs. Norman Nelson, Lexington, and Mrs. E. M. Baker, Ione, led the community singing.

Exhibits of the past year's home economics program were set up in the side rooms of the hall as follows:

"Wardrobe Building"—Boardman unit (Mrs. Nathan Thorpe, chairman).

"Shortcuts to Housekeeping"—Heppner unit (Mrs. Joe Wright, chairman).

"Understanding Teenagers"—

MRS. ROBERTA FRASIER

lone unit (Mrs. Elmer Holtz, chairman).

"Red Hat Days"—Rhea Creek unit (Mrs. Robert Bergstrom, chairman).

"Cheese Cookery"—Irrigon unit (Mrs. Richard Ryan, chairman).

"Magic with Mixes"—Lena unit (Mrs. Robert Riddle, chairman).

"Rural Defense"—Pine City unit (Mrs. George Luciani, chairman).

Displays were also made up for "Bedroom and Bathroom Storage," "Ways with Western Vegetables" and 4-H club work.

Pennies for friendship, commemorative stamps, and Lady Aberdeen scholarship funds were gathered at the festival to promote the work of the Associated Country Women of the World (ACWW). Oregon home economics units are affiliated with this national organization of good will. Betty Crocker coupons were also submitted to Azalea House, a student's cooperative house on the OSU campus Corvallis, sponsored by the Oregon Home Extension units.

A good speaker, good food, and warm friendly people made it a grand day. With that combination, it had to be a success.

Tom Sargent is making steady recovery from recent surgery at the Veteran's hospital in Portland. He is now receiving treatment for complications resulting from arm injections, and after complete recovery from these expects to be released, according to his wife, Ella.
