Varied Entries Seen at Show

The first of its kind, and a "bang-up" success, is the way to describe the 4-H community flower show sponsored by Sew-a-Long 4-H sewing club of Heppner in the Heppner Auto Sales showroom on May 26, according to Esther Kirmis, Morrow county extension agent.

"The flower show which featured iris, peonies, pansies, primroses, roses, scilla, tulips, and flowering shrubs was an effort on the part of these 10 teenage girls to help the community flower growers and acquaint the public with the lovely blooms that could be grown here," explains Mrs. William Rawlins, their leader.

The girls accepted 81 entries from 8:00 to 10:00 o'clock in the morning. The flower judge, Mrs. Kim Tellefson, Hermiston, then took over for the rest of the morning to make decisions on the awarding of the ribbons. She commented on the excellence of the flowers and the good display. Entries came from both lone and Heppner.

"Several of our Sew-a-Long members are also taking a foods project," under Mrs. Douglas Drake, continued Mrs. Rawlins. "So they came up with the idea of having a silver tea at the flower show. The Kool Kooks, as they are called, soon got to planning and came up with a tea party to delight everyone. They borrowed a punch bowl from Miss Leta Humphreys, and the First Christian church of Heppner loaned their plates and cups. Mrs. Helen Cox, local florist, sent over a beautiful arrangement for the tea table."

"So you see it really got to be a community affair," concluded the leader, "parents and friends all joined in with the girls to make this a gala affair."

Mrs. Rawlins and her husband are well-known flower growers on their ranch in Eightmile country. Mrs. Rawlins is a member of the Lone Garden club and takes an active part in the staging of the Lone Garden club flower show in the fall.

Best horticulture award and best decorative award went to Ralph Martin, Ione, who shows great promise as a flower arranger. Mrs. Vera Rietmann, Ione, won the sweepstakes award with five blue ribbons.

"Each of the girls had an assignment" pointed out Jeanne Stockard, president of the Sew-a-Longs. "Judy Smith and Joan Stockard wrote invitations and thank-yous. Judy and her mother and Jean Siewert took entries; Joan Stockard and Susan Drake assisted the judge; Janis Baker passed the guest book; Rogenia Wilson and Mrs. Douglas Drake poured—assisted by Kitty O'Hara and Kathy Rea; Carol Rawlins and Nonda Clark set up the table and centerpieces and Lynn Burkenbine, Nonda Clark, Carol Rawlins and Joan Stockard and myself did the cleanup. We were all tired but felt we'd had a ball."

Funds received from the silver offering, after expenses, will be given to the IFYE (International Farm Youth Exchange) which is sponsored by the 4-H clubs. "An added dividend that came out of all this," disclosed Miss Kirmis, "is that the next morning six of the girls came up to the county agent's office and signed up for the 4-H flower grower project."

COMMUNITY FLOWER show, sponsored by the Sew-a-long 4-H club of Heppner on May 26, was deemed a booming success. Mrs. William Rawlins, 4-H leader, and Lynn Burkenbine, a member, pose before a portion of the flower show held in the showrooms of Heppner Auto Sales.
