Navy Jets to Fly Low-Level Route

Rear Admiral William A. Stuart, USN, Commander Fleet Air, Whidbey Island, Wn., has announced that beginning the latter part of June or July, U. S. Navy A3D twin-jet bombers from NAS Whidbey Island, Washington, will begin their newly assigned low-level flying route dubbed "Tail Hook," over mid-Oregon. Plans for this operation began in December, 1961, and has recently received approval of the Federal Aviation Agency Western Region in Los Angeles, Calif., and the Federal Aviation Agency in Washington, D. C.

The low-level navigation flights to be flown over this route are essential requirements in the combat training of U. S. Navy A3D "Skywarrior" jet bomber crews. The A3D's will take off from Naval Air Station, Whidbey Island, and cross John Day, at 23,000 feet.

About 20 miles south from John Day, the A3D's will descend and enter the "Tail Hook" route about 12 miles west of Riley, Oregon. The new route will carry the A3D's over Summer Lake and Fort Rock, then northerly to terminate at Boardman. The aircraft will fly between 500 and 1,000 feet above the terrain at airspeeds of approximately 320 miles per hour.

This particular route was approved over others proposed because it provided the best training areas for all-weather, low-level, day and night flight training missions.

The A3D "Skywarriors" are used by all heavy attack squadrons based at NAS Whidbey Island. It is an all-weather and high altitude twin-jet bomber capable of delivering a variety of weapons in the aerial arsenal to any enemy military target on the globe. The A3D can operate from land bases or the flight

Dinner Honors Al Winkelman
Mrs. Al Winkelman and Mrs. Howard Crowell were hostesses at the Crowell home on Saturday evening for a birthday dinner in honor of Mr. Winkelman. Later in the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Joel Engleman, Mr. and Mrs. David Rietmann and Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Hicks joined the Winkelmans and Crowells at the Winkelman home to surprise him with a cake. Games were enjoyed during the evening.

Jan Lee and Jerrilyn Rowell of John Day, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Rowell, are visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Al Winkelman for several weeks while Mrs. Rowell awaits the arrival of their baby. Art Rowell brought the young ladies over on Sunday, visiting with relatives in this area.

Nineteen Complete Eighth Grade
Due to new changes in the school policy and school laws, no eighth grade graduation exercises were held for this year's graduating eighth graders. To give our young men and women a little further recognition and to acquaint our community with our freshmen for next year, I am listing here the names of the nineteen youngsters of the eighth grade.

NEW LOW-LEVEL flying route of Navy airplanes from Whidbey Island, Wn., is shown in this sketch. After coming in over John Day at high altitude, the planes will start their low-level "Tail Hook" run at altitudes below 1000 feet, ending at the Boardman bomb range. (Official U. S. Navy photograph) decks of the U. S. Navy's modern fast-moving aircraft carriers.

Before the pilots and crew members of A3D's are qualified to deploy aboard the aircraft carriers, they receive day and night heavy attack training such as radar bombing, navigation and carrier landing practice at NAS Whidbey. The forty-ton "Skywarrior" is the largest naval jet aircraft ever to operate at sea and the "Sunday Punch" of task force operations. Thus the excellent training that can be given in the Northwest guarantees the Sunday Punch.
