talked of the possibility of renting or buying a trailer house as a temporary office.
Jack Hynds Jr. was recommended to serve on the lone advisory committee, but resignation of John (Dick) Krebs Jr., elected by one vote in the recent district election, must be submitted before the appointment may be made, it was decided. Krebs has announced that he does not wish to serve.

Director Harvey Warner urged the board to take an option on 20 acres of land located at the outskirts of Irigon as a possible school site. He said that it is an ideal site and urged that the board use money for sites that is budgeted before it must be turned to the general fund at the end of the fiscal year. No decision was made but the matter was put on the agenda for a special meeting to be held June 25.

Directors Dick Wilkinson and Mrs. Nels (Esther) Anderson, both elected at the recent election, were sworn in for their new terms at the meeting. A contract hiring Mahoney and Abrams as attorneys for the district was also approved.

Special meetings are scheduled for Thursday (tonight) to review plans for the new Heppner high school with the architect and for June 25 to consider final bills for the fiscal year.

Methodist Men Have Breakfast Meeting

Methodist Men, including fathers and sons, enjoyed the hospitality of the Herman Green family when they went to their mountain cabin Sunday for a Mrs. Green and Mrs. Velma breakfast meeting.
Glass prepared and served the breakfast to the men and their sons. Mr. Green, president of the Methodist Men, presided at a short meeting after which they enjoyed visiting and looking for mushrooms before going back to town for church.

Methodist Pastor Takes New Post; Farewell Given

The Rev. Austin McGhee, pastor of the Heppner Methodist church for the past three years, moved with his family to Cave Junction this week for a new assignment given at the Oregon annual conference last week by Bishop A. Raymond Grant of Portland.

Members of the church held a potluck dinner in the church parlors Sunday for the McGhee family as a farewell. Women of the church arranged the affair and about 100 were in attendance. A "money tree" was presented to the family as a parting gift, together with a card signed by many of the members and other friends.

Ray Williamson acted as toastmaster and presented the gift. Both the Rev. and Mrs. McGhee responded with short talks.

Coming to serve the Heppner church will be the Rev. Melvin Dixon, who has served as pastor of St. Luke's Methodist church, Medford, since 1959. Prior to that, he was at the Shedd Methodist church for two years, having transferred to the Oregon conference from Michigan. The Rev. and Mrs. Dixon have two daughters. It is expected that the new family will be in the parsonage late this week, and the Rev. Dixon will be in the pulpit here Sunday. They will be moved by Platt's Truck Service on the return trip from moving the McGhee family to Cave Junction.

After being transferred from Kansas, the Rev. McGhee was pastor of the Yoncalla Methodist church for two years before coming to Heppner in 1959.

The Rev. and Mrs. McGhee attended annual conference in Salem last week with Mrs. Douglas Drake going as lay delegate from the local church.

The ministerial and lay delegates of the region's 167 churches learned of 1,055 new members to set an all-time high of 54,674, and voted a record budget of $528,387, up 5.5%. Major increases were for education, pensions, minimum salary support of ministers, and TV Ministry fund.

Plane that Crashed Once Saved by Gilman

The Continental Airlines plane that crashed under rather mysterious circumstances near Centerville, Iowa, on May 22, claiming 45 lives, was the same plane that Len Gilman, formerly of Heppner, helped prevent being hijacked at El Paso, Texas, last August, according to news reports.

The Boeing 707, on which Gilman, a border patrol officer was a passenger in August, was captured from the would-be hijackers, a father and son, after a fight. Gilman knocked down the hijacker at the climax of the episode.

Authorities are investigating the cause of the crash that caused the plane to go down in Iowa, scattering debris over a wide area and resulting in the death of 37 passengers and eight crew members. There is some indication of an interior explosion.
