

Herb Cases Moving

The Herb Case family expects to move from Heppner to Poulsbo, Wn., about August 26. Mr. Case has been working at the Puget Sound naval base at Bremerton since July 15. Four children in the family will move with the parents and two others are grown and married. Mrs. Case was born in Heppner, and although she has lived in other places during her life, has been here since the end of World War II.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hughes went to Newberg on the weekend of August 11 and 12 to attend the funeral of Mrs. Hughes' grandfather, Alexander Boss.

Among those attending the pro football game in Portland Saturday night were Mr. and Mrs. Tom Hughes of Heppner.

Enthusiasm continued through the 30's with the cry, "She's Wild! Let's Go!" Each year seemed to be a little bit bigger and better than the one before, giving all something to look forward to.

Roundup Expected To Set Records

With advance ticket sales at a new all-time high and orders coming in from all over the United States and many foreign countries, indications are that the 1962 Pendleton Round-Up will hit an all-time record in attendance.

Mike Zimmerman, grounds director is arranging for additional seats to accommodate the overflow crowds. Mail order ticket sales indicate that a large number of people are going to the World's Fair and the Round-Up. This is indicative of people from the mid-west and East who are making the trip west, the trip of a life-time.

Additional private homes have been listed with the Round-Up Accommodations Bureau, and Pendleton is ready with its usual "red carpet" treatment to the people who will attend this 51st Epic Dream of the West.

First picture of a rodeo queen to appear in print in the Heppner paper was that of Queen Reita Noel September 26, 1923. Her attendants were Inez Hayes, Cecelia Kenny and Mrs. Albert Peterson. It was also the first year that the modern amplifying system, with three big loudspeakers, was put in use. This was made possible through the generosity of the Latourell Automobile Co. Turk Greenough carried off the bucking crown, with locals placing, including Buck Fadberg, Elmer Hake, Edwin and Charley Hill, Eddie Sheridan, Frank and Gerald Swaggart and Johnny Eubanks.

The newly organized Lions club "booster boys" came to the aid in 1930 in helping stage and stir up interest in the rodeo. Walter Bonifer of Gibbon, Umatilla county, was declared outstanding "bronc buster." The main racing casualty was when Frank Swaggart's horse fell with him, breaking the horse's right foreleg and Frank's shoulder blade. Lots of interesting side attractions, clowning in street parades, and promoting schemes were put on by local talent of Frank Turner, F. B. Nickerson, Russell Pratt, Jap Crawford, Rube Graves, Onez Parker, Les Matlock, Earl Thomson, Joe Swindig, C. L. Sweek, Paul Gemmill, W. R. Poulson, Jimmy Monahan and Lloyd Matteson.

Queen Arleta Farrrens, attractive daughter of Mrs. Helen Farrrens of Ione, with attendants Mary Monahan of Heppner and Mae Gentry of Lexington helped make the ninth annual a red-letter year in rodeo history. "Miss Farrrens was no stranger to the ways of riding—having been reared on a ranch where throwing on a saddle was as common as cranking the "henry" for a trip to town," according to the news writeup of that year.
