

Club Hears Speaker On Wood Fiber Art

Mrs. Edith Stevens, Pendleton, was a special guest of the Lexington Co-op Biddies Monday afternoon, October 1. She showed the group the art of making flowers for corsages and centerpieces from wood fiber.

Hostesses for the afternoon meeting were Mrs. Milard Nolan and Mrs. Arthur Keene.

It was announced that at the next meeting, November 5, at the Lexington City Hall, auxiliary members will make costume jewelry, using clear glass marbles. Jewelry supplies will be available at a small charge, but all are asked to bring small pliers, tweezers, paper cup, marbles, and clear, fast drying cement. Further information may be secured from Mrs. L. A. McCabe, 422-7194.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Ray Drake, Mrs. Edna Munkers, Mrs. Adolph Majeski, Mrs. Gene Ferguson, Mrs. Oris Padberg, Mrs. Lee Scrivner, Mrs. Roy Neil, Mrs. Ora Wyland, Mrs. L. A. McCabe, Mrs. Ola Ruggles, Mrs. Anne Smouse, Mrs. Lola Breeding, Mrs. Nolan and Mrs. Keene.

Miss Adelheid Kermis, sister of Esther Kermis, Morrow county extension agent, visited two weeks in Oregon and Washington and returned to her home in North Dakota on Sunday. The two sisters went to the World's Fair in Seattle and visited relatives in Vancouver, Wn. They experienced the terrific windstorm which swept the Willamette Valley Friday.

Unusual Shower Held For Mrs. Jepsen

Mrs. John Jepsen (Jean Gray) was the honored guest October 2 at a fun shower given by Mrs. Charles Stout, Mrs. Joe Wright, and Mrs. Jim Hager at the Hager home.

The unusual and interesting shower was a novel way for Jean's Beauty Shop customers to congratulate her. They brought amusing gifts with appropriate poems as well as many lovely gifts. Mrs. Bob Jepsen assisted Jean with the opening of the gifts.

Pink roses were used about the room with a circle of roses around the miniature bride and groom on the serving table.

The hostesses served assorted ice cream molded flowers and coffee to 22 guests.

Degree Members Travel To Baker

Sixteen Degree of Honor members attended the district convention in Baker October 9 and participated in the meeting.

They heard the school of instruction during the afternoon and attended the banquet at 6:30. This was followed by the meeting, and the Heppner members put on the initiatory work. Also the drill team performed. All were attired in light blue dresses with white accessories.

Several state officers were present which included Mrs. Bill Farr, state secretary; and Mrs. Clara B. Gertson, state director and national committeewoman.

Local Group to Select Conference Delegates

The Governor's committee will again sponsor the Oregon Conference on Children and Youth, November 29, 30 and December 1, in Salem, according to Mrs. E. M. Baker, Ione, Morrow county's chairman. The county has a quota of five, two of which will be youth between 16 and 24.

A meeting of the local core committee on children and youth is being called for Monday evening, October 22, at the Bank of Eastern Oregon conference room at 8:00 p.m. to make their decision.

Held in the Willamette auditorium the conference will include a panel discussion on "Steps toward Community Action" by five adults and two youth. Workshops on mental health, family life education in the schools, school drop-outs, youth employment, children's services (adoption, day care), the physically abused child, and the role of youth in community affairs will be held.

Outstanding speakers scheduled include Dr. Frank Anderson, director of the Bureau of Child Development of the University of Washington; Dr. Carsten Lein, Community Consultant of the Bureau of Community Development from the University of Washington; and Burton Berger, Information Specialist of OSU, Corvallis.

Any local people who are interested in this conference on children and youth are asked to attend the Heppner meeting on October 22, says Mrs. Baker.
