MOTHERS, IT'S almost time for report cards! Wonder, will they bring the cards home eagerly, or...? Oh, and Johnny or Mary so wanted to go to that special party or ball game. "Why do we have report cards?" the youngsters are wondering. AS parents, if we can just encourage them to keep working for a job in the future! Whew!

LOTS DOING this week and after this is written Halloween will be here and gone with lively entertainment for youngsters of all ages. I haven't had any children's birthday parties recently so if you know of one or had one for your family, just give me a "buzz" at home, 676-9284.

EIGHT TABLES, plus a half table, of lively duplicate bridge players participated in the twice-monthly play at the Episcopal parish hall Tuesday night. The 34 players played 27 boards and taking wins were Elsie Cole and Bobbe Driscoll, high north-south; Grace Akeron and Rachel Dick, second. Syb Wells and LaVerne Van Marter teamed up to win high east-west and two couples tied for second, Lillian Sweek and Bebe Munkers, and Shirley Blake and Ed Dick. No controversy at the Dick family home 'cause they both took home a second.

JEANNE BERRY entertained two tables of pinochle Tuesday night and had an exciting evening when she melded 800 Kings with Beverly Sherman as her partner. And those are just a little hard to catch up with! Flo Connor won high, Jackie Glennie low, and Carolyn Cole won the door prize. Also playing were Marj Eckman, Jackie Alstott, and Mickey Mollahan.

HESTER CRESWICK took high for the afternoon of bridge play at the home of Margery Worden last Wednesday and Inez Huffman won second. Others playing were Beth Bryant, Lota Tibbles, Wavel Wilkinson, G. Gerger Wilkinson, Virginia Rosewall, and Gena Leonard. Juanita Carmichael, regular member, dropped in after school for coffee and to say "hello" to everyone.

THINKING OF Ginger Wilkinson and Virginia Rosewall, I goofed on the names in an OES story last week, just too many Virginia's, so from now on Ginger is Ginger!

LUCY PETERSON reviewed the book, "Applause Needs Sugar," by Victoria Case, at the Bookworms meeting held Tuesday evening at the home of Lorena Jones. This book is about an indomitable woman with a large family who believed that with God's help and her own hands she could surmount any and all problems and obstacles. This interesting story was written with much humor. Others enjoying the review were Ella Smith, Florence Green, Marian Abrams, Agnes Flug, Ruby Beckett, Virginia Turner, and Sadie Parrish.

WELL, JUST two gals dominated the play at the Friday afternoon pinochle club with Beulah Mankin as hostess. Those two winners: Beulah and Margaret Dubuque. Beulah won high and Margaret took low, and they also teamed up to win the pinochle. And helping the cause were Tacie Parker, Hannah Anderson, Gladys Beckett, Carrie Beckett, and Doris Watkins.

BOB AND PAT Brindle were hostesses for three tables of duplicate bridge Sunday evening and scored using the Howell Movement. Terry Thompson won high; Bert Huff was second; and a tie for third went to Karen Thompson and Sue Jones. Couples playing were the Bert Huffs, Gordon Hutchens, Bob Jones, Bill Barratts, Terry Thompsons, and Brindles.

BEULAH MANKIN and her sister, Greta Gabbert, Ione, entertained with a luncheon for their mother, Mrs. Grace Wood, at the Mankin home Wednesday afternoon. Guests included Martha Van Schoiack, Carrie Beckett, Hannah Anderson, Jeanne Huston, Bea Kenny, Anna Smouse, and Mrs. R. B. Rice. The tasty luncheon menu was creamed chicken, mashed potatoes, hot rolls (Beulah said she let them get too dry), molded salad, and a lemon dessert. In talking to Beulah I learned her mother was known for working in the fields driving a 36-horse team in the early 1920's. Paramount pictures heard of this and sent news cameras up for pictures that were consequently viewed all over the nation!

A POTLUCK dinner at the Jim Driscoll home with the Bill Collins as co-hosts preceded duplicate play. They tried a new method of playing, using teams of four players instead of the usual two, and no winners were designated. Others playing were the Gordon Hutchens, Jerry Jonassons, La Verne Van Marters, Shirley Blake, and Isabelle Davis, Condon.

FOODS TO be featured in November because of their abundant supply will be: turkeys, broilers, pork, cranberries, apples, pears, frozen orange juice, and potatoes, so watch for good buys in your favorite market.

50 Members Greet Auxiliary Officers At Legion Potluck

A potluck baked ham dinner at the Legion hall with more than 50 Legion and Auxiliary members and families attending welcomed Mrs. Vi Larson, Springfield, American Legion auxiliary department president, and Mrs. Bessie Ego, Baker, district 6 president, here Monday night.

Seated with Mrs. Larson and Mrs. Ego at the head table were Mrs. Frank Hamlin, Heppner Auxiliary president; Glen Ward, Heppner commander; and Forrest Thornburg, past District 6 commander.

During the dinner, Shirley Carlson and Shannon Mahoney, delegates to Girls' State last June on the Willamette University campus, reported on their trip. They spoke highly of the candlelight ceremony held the last night of their stay, and told of the address given by Governor Mark Hatfield, and the election of officers.

Mrs. Larson spoke on the national Legion and Auxiliary convention held earlier this month in Las Vegas. She said the Oregon Legion and Auxiliary came home with 11 awards from the convention.

Following the dinner the two organizations held separate meetings. Mrs. Larson talked further to the auxiliary members about the various departments and committees of the organization and their duties. She also spoke of the needs at the veterans' hospital at Roseburg.

The auxiliary here has 53 paid up members and has planned a bridge and pinochle card party at the Legion hall Monday, November 5, at 8:00 p. m. Admission is an unwrapped gift, of $1.00 which is to be sent to the Veterans' hospital in Portland.

The Legion is planning again to have the Hunters' breakfast at the Legion hall Saturday, November 10.

Two door prizes were given at the meeting with Mrs. Larson and Riley Munkers receiving the prizes.

FRESH, PRODUCTIVE IDEAS

"We can ill afford another two years of mediocrity in Congress. If Eastern Oregon is to grow and prosper we must have aggressive, resourceful, imaginative representation. I say Bob Chandler fills the bill. He's a newspaper editor with sound, forthright views. He knows our needs. We need Bob Chandler for Congress!"

Reports of District Convention Heard At Soroptimist Meet

Reports of the ninth annual convention of District No. 2, Northwestern Region of the Soroptimist Federation held in Ashland October 13, 14, were given by two members of the Heppner Soroptimist club at their luncheon meeting last Thursday noon.

Representing the Heppner club at Ashland were Mrs. Jim Hager, Mrs. John Pfeiffer, Mrs. Eleanor Gonty and Mrs. Clara Gertson. Mrs. Pfeiffer and Mrs. Gonty gave detailed reports of the convention which carried out the general theme, "The Challenge of Soroptimist Leadership."

Presiding at the opening session was Mrs. June McManus, district director, La Grande. Delegates heard regional officers speak of highlights of the national convention in San Francisco, attended discussion buzz sessions and heard District Governor Dorothy Button discuss "The Challenge of Soroptimist" at the evening meeting. Of special interest was a guided tour of the noted summer Shakespearean theater. Headquarters were in the Mark Anthony hotel.

Mrs. Pfeiffer served as chairman of a buzz session on "Public Relations," and presented a summary report to the delegation on Sunday morning. Mrs. Gonty returned home with a driftwood arrangement used on the head table at the convention dinner, as winner of a door prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Doolittle and two sons, Dennis and Ronald, of Portland, visited with his mother, Mrs. Lester Doolittle, Saturday and Sunday. The visitors told of their experiences in the "big blow" but were not seriously damaged by it. They live in the Rose City district.
