At its meeting in Salem on December 18, the State Highway Commission will receive bids for the grading of 7.55 miles of the Columbia River Highway between Blalock and Arlington, it is announced.
Plans call for grading on new alignment, which will place the highway above the pool elevation of the new John Day dam. This section will be built to Interstate standards with four 12-foot lane travelways flanked by 10-foot shoulders on the outside and 6-foot shoulders on the inside. This section of grading is scheduled for completion by October 31, 1963.
Condon Base Due To Get Structure
Congressman Al Ullman and Senator Wayne Morse notified the Gazette-Times last week that the Air Force will authorize its construction agent, the Army Corps of Engineers, to proceed with construction of an electrical emergency power unit at Condon Air Force Base in Condon.
Funds in the amount of $335,000 are being released to the Corps of Engineers for this project, they said. It is expected that the Corps will now advertise for bids and award a contract.

New OSU Bulletin Tells Range Calf Research Results

A long-range research program aimed at improving winter performance of Eastern Oregon range calves has been summarized in 10-year findings by Oregon State University Agricultural Experiment Station.

Improved feeding practices including use of feed supplements along with meadow hay, value of antibiotics in the feed during the first few weeks following weaning, and best dates for weaning calves are among key findings reported by OSU researchers.

Results of trials conducted from 1951 to 1961 at the Squaw Butte Experiment Station near Burns are reported in a new OSU bulletin, "Winter Feeding and Management of Range Calves." Oregon residents may obtain free copies of the bulletin from local county agents or the new OSU Bulletin Clerk, Corvallis.

The 24-page illustrated bulletin was prepared by the Squaw station staff and has application to large areas of the intermountain west where ranchers rely on native flood meadows for winter hay supplies and on sagebrush-bunchgrass ranges for summer grazing.

Good, sound calf-wintering programs are increasingly important to help offset generally higher production costs of raising feeder cattle, the bulletin points out.

The bulletin reports how use of phosphorous fertilizer on proper sites in native flood meadows increases yield and quality of hay and boosts calf gains. Use of protein supplement with meadow hay for a wintering ration also has brought marked increase in gains.

The place of pelleted hay in a winter program, comparisons of cottonseed meal and urea as feed supplements, and use of copper supplement with meadow hay are other topics discussed.

Rock Club Sets Goal Of Ten Field Trips

Saturday December 8, the 4-H Golden Rock club met at the public museum. We elected Kelly Green for song and game leader.

We talked about a field trip that we might take on the Christmas vacation if it is nice. We plan to take 10 field trips this year.

Home Featured

The new home of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cleveland, located on the Hinton Creek highway, is the subject of an article in the December issue of Northwest Ruralite. It tells of their "all-electric" home and the heat pump heating. Included are pictures of the home's exterior and an interior view of the living room.

Authors of the bulletin are Squaw Butte staff researchers Joe D. Wallace, R. J. Raleigh, Farris Hubbert Jr., and W. A. Sawyer, station superintendent.

Leon Tabor returned here the first of November from a 15 month tour duty with the U. S. Air Force in Pakistan to take his wife and children to Goodfellow A. F. B. San Angelo, Texas. They left November 19 for the new station.
