

MARtha DOHERTY, HEPPNER, AND DAVID PROUDFOOT, ECHO, were chosen to represent Morrow county at the Oregon 4-H Club Conference held in Salem February 7-9. Each county sends one boy and girl to see the government in action and provide the incentive for young people to become more interested and active in their state and local government.

County Delegates Chosen for 4-H Salem Conference

Martha Doherty, 17, Heppner, and David Proudfoot, 16, Echo, were chosen as Morrow county's delegates to the Oregon 4-H Club Conference (Know Your State Government) in Salem on February 7-9 by the awards committee which met on January 9.

Each county is allowed to send one outstanding boy and girl to visit the state capitol each year. (This year will be especially interesting as the State Legislature will be in session). Their visit is sponsored by Sears Roebuck Foundation and the Oregon 4-H Club Foundation, according to Esther Kirmis, Morrow county extension agent.

Delegates must be over 16 years of age, at least a junior in high school, and completed at least three years of club work. There were 12 eligibles in the county and seven filed their applications for the conference.

The awards committee recommended that Penny Jones, Irrigon, (last year's delegate to the conference) write for the National Achievement Award in the State which would put her in competition for National Club Congress in Chicago in November.

Martha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Doherty, is in her tenth year of 4-H work. She has carried projects in sheep, dairy, beef, poultry, and clothing. She has been a 4-H junior leader for four years in the Blackhorse Livestock club.

This Heppner senior was winner in the Soil Conservation Speech contest this fall. David, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Proudfoot, is in his seventh year of project work. Sheep, swine and horses have been to his liking. 1963 sees him in his second year of junior leadership for the Pine City Saddle club. He is taking his high school in Pendleton.

Penny Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Jones of Irrigon, is in her senior year at Umatilla High school and is a seven year 4-H member. Foods, clothing, and arts and crafts have filled her club experiences. She is in the third year of junior leadership.

Penny and David were county representatives at the 1962 4-H Summer School held in Corvallis. Penny was one of the fortunate six to be chosen as summer school advisory committee in planning 1963 summer school.

Major Baird Bryson, Arlington, Va., was a guest in the J. O. Hager home this week, when he came here for the funeral services of his grandmother, Mrs. Blanche Patterson. Maj. Bryson is attached to the Pentagon, Washington, D. C., and has a wife and three daughters living in Arlington, Va. On his return home, he will stop in Portland for visits with relatives of his wife.

Four-H Leaders Set Annual State Meet This Month

Morrow county's 50 4-H club leaders are invited to take part in the annual state 4-H leaders conference given by Oregon State University January 23-25. Joe Hay, county extension agent says that a transportation pool will be arranged through his office.

Dr. Orlo M. Brees, an outstanding speaker who addressed nearly 27,000 people in Northwest audiences last year will be on the program. Dr. Brees is public relations representative for the National Association of Manufacturers.

According to Hay, local 4-H leaders who attend the conference will get acquainted and exchange ideas with some of Oregon's 5500 4-H leaders, receive new information helpful in conducting their clubs, and be brought up-to-date on new and revised 4-H project areas available to youth in their communities. Hay especially encourages first and second year 4-H leaders to attend the conference. A breakfast has been planned Thursday for these new leaders only. They'll learn how their local 4-H club is a part of the county, state and national 4-H club program that presently enrolls 2 1/2 million boys and girls. They'll also have a chance to ask questions and get a birds-eye view of new project ideas.

Registration for the conference begins Wednesday afternoon followed by a get-acquainted hospitality hour. That evening leaders will attend the Sears banquet and hear Dr. Brees, be entertained by the OSU chorus, and be greeted by OSU President James Jensen.

Thursday is the new leaders' breakfast and an all-day program focused on community action for 4-H citizenship. Four-H leaders will be given new ideas on how to help youngsters find worthwhile activities to carry out in their communities.

Late that afternoon Rognar Anderson, 4-H club leader from Colton, will show slides and tell about a week he spent at the National 4-H leaders' forum in Washington, D. C. this fall. Anderson is a dairy club leader from Clackamas county.

Thursday has been designated as International night with Oregon's International Farm Youth Exchange delegates on the program. IFYE's are Jerry Maddy, Albany, who lived with Finnish families; Reata Young, Grants Pass, Luxembourg; Don Walls, Hermiston, Honduras; and Robert Youngman, McMinnville, Ecuador.

Friday, leaders will attend regional breakfasts and attend a luncheon sponsored by Standard Oil of California honoring winners of 4-H college scholarships provided by the oil company. In the last few years Standard Oil has given more than $12,000 worth of these scholarships to 4-H youth. Gene Lear, associate director of the cooperative extension service, will speak to leaders at the Friday luncheon.

KATHY RAY

Kathy Ray Installed Worthy Advisor In Order Of Rainbow Here Sunday

Kathy Ray, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willard O'Hara, was installed as worthy advisor of Ruth Assembly No. 50, Order of Rainbow for Girls, Sunday at the Masonic hall in Heppner.

Escorted to the altar by her brother, Jack Ray, she was met by her younger brother, Raymond O'Hara, bearing the crown. As she knelt in front of the altar, her sister, Patricia O'Hara, placed the crown on her head. During the crowning ceremony, Spencer Sampson sang, "Wonderland by Night," accompanied at the piano by Marti Dixon.

Kathy chose as her theme, "Love, the Tie that Binds," and her colors of red and white were carried out in a large heart motif of wicker interwoven with red ribbon and a beautiful bouquet of white baby mums in front of the worthy advisor station. In keeping with her color theme, Kathy wore a lovely red velvet sheath dress with a white rose corsage.

Mrs. James Myers was installed as mother advisor. Members of the board also installed for the year were: Mrs. Lucille Wilson, Mrs. Tom Hughes, Mrs. Marcel Jones, Mrs. Dick Wilkinson, Mrs. Roy Quackenbush, Harley Young, and Clarence Baker. Retiring board members are Mrs. Don Turner, Mrs. James Thomson, and Dr. Ed Schaffitz.

Other officers installed at this time were: Diane Schaffitz, worthy associate advisor; Rogenia Wilson, charity; Brenda Young, hope; Barbara Blake, faith; Jean Siewert, recorder; Barbara Bloodworth, treasurer; Peggy Snyder, chaplain; Teresa Munkers, drill leader; Nancy Cleveland, love; Tanna Valentine, religion; Carolyn Cookman, nature; Debby Young, immortality; Ruby Fullerton, fidelity; Barbara Gribble, patriotism; Susan Starks, service; Linda Heath, confidential observer; Kitty O'Hara, outer observer; Pam Cochell, musician; Linda Warren, choir director; Jan Hager, Margaret Green, and Janis Baker, choir members.

Installing officers were: Sherri Olson, past worthy advisor; Shannon Mahoney, marshal; Shirley Erwin, chaplain; Ginger Springer, recorder; and Judy Jones, musician.

Kathy introduced her parents, Mr. and Mrs. O'Hara, and her sister, Mary Colleen, in addition to those members of her family who participated in the crowning ceremony. She also introduced Mrs. Myers, mother advisor; Mrs. Claude Graham, past mother advisor; and Mrs. Harold Becket, supreme deputy. Kathy issued "thank you's" to all who helped with the installation and reception and to those in charge of the kitchen, Mrs. Leonard Munkers, Mrs. Harley Young, Mrs. William Olson, and Mrs. Merritt Gray.

An addendum honoring Kathy as the new worthy advisor was given with Diane Schaffitz in charge and all of the line officers and color stations participating.

Following the ceremonies, a reception was held in the dining room. A centerpiece of white carnations edged in red, flanked on either side by golden candelabra with white candles, was used on the serving table. The tea and punch service were of a golden color as were the candelabra on the cake table with red candles. Mrs. Robert Stevens served the three white cakes which were decorated with red roses. These cakes were made by Mrs. Harold Stevens and the words, "Congratulations, Worthy Advisor Kathy," were inscribed on one of the cakes. Pouring at the tea table were Mrs. Arnold Springer and Mrs. Willard Blake.

Miss Joan Spencer, senior student nurse at Good Samaritan hospital, Portland, and daughter of Father and Mrs. C. Bruce Spencer, is spending the week here observing rural health work, under the direction and supervision of Mrs. Velma Glass, county health nurse. Miss Spencer expects to complete her training this year.
