SPRING FEVER, anyone? I have it, until I get outside and that old wind still feels like maybe it is coming off an iceberg! I see some gardening being done and windows being washed. Signs of Spring? How about these: boys playing baseball (whatever happened to the marble players?), little girls jumping rope and roller skating, golfers shining up those clubs, and the pretty dresses blossoming about town! Another interesting note for spring are the baby animals. Last week a Bluebird group led by Mary McLeod and Dorothy Scott was out to see our lambs and help feed the "bummers," quite an exciting time for them! Any other groups interested in coming out may contact me for a date. The youngsters really thrill at the idea of touching and feeding the lambs.

SIX TABLES of bridge and pinocle players enjoyed an afternoon of play last Saturday at the OES Social club held at the Masonic hall. Wavel Wilkinson and Marjorie Worden were hostesses. Gladys Jones won high in bridge and Gena Leonard won the traveling prize. Madge Bryant held the high score for pinocle and Martha Van Schoiack won the pinocle, finally! It seems she and Wavel kept it to themselves as first one would win it, then the other. Finally after holding it for the third time, Martha had possession at the close of the play!

JUST IN time for Spring cleaning and you are about to throw away that old table? Don't do it, come to the Heppner Extension meeting Tuesday at the home of Maryette Wright for a lesson on refinishing furniture! Things begin at 10:30 a. m. Come along, just bring a potluck dish for dinner at noon.

HESTER CRESWICK entertained the Lexington bridge club last week with Lucia Cutsforth winning high. Elsie Cole was second and Lois Hunt was low. Others playing were Mildred Davidson, Eileen Padberg, Lorine Ledbetter, and Velma Glass.

ALL OF the girls were present for an afternoon of pinocle play last Friday at the home of Doris Watkins. Gladys Beckett won high and teamed up with Millie Evans to win the pinocle. Carrie Beckett won low. Included in the play were Pearl Wright, Hannah Anderson, Mary Harris, Beulah Mankin, and Doris.

REMEMBER THE Elks duplicate bridge play is on the second and fourth Wednesdays while the dancing lessons are on. The next session will be March 13. Last week there were seven tables going with LaVerne Van Marter and Grace Nickerson winning high north-south; Elsie Cole and Fay Ferguson, second. Harriet Hall and Doreen Jacobs, lone, were high east-west; Lucille Wilson and Gene Manning, Walla Walla, second.

RONNIE BERRY, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Berry, celebrated his sixth birthday Saturday afternoon with neighborhood friends in for birthday cake and ice cream. His guests were Becky, Wendy, Beverly, and Marilyn Phegley, Brenda Huff, Kayleen Phegley, Jimmy Richardson, and brothers Greg and Cecil Berry. Ronnie left with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ramos, Echo, for a two week trip to Southern California and Disneyland.

WHAT A time Grace Buschke and Alice Hastings had last week-end on their trip to Portland! I guess each thought the other was lost. Grace said she knew she wasn't, but who would know she was at that particular hotel, when she only stopped there to phone? Alice was in Forest Grove visiting her daughter and family, the Roger Connors, and discovered the people Grace was to stay with were in Forest Grove, so she wondered about Grace. Just by chance Alice called at this hotel and sure enough Grace had just come in and was sitting in the lobby! Just can't get lost, not even in Portland.

NINE TABLES were in play Sunday afternoon at the Elks lodge for the duplicate bridge unit party. Betty Kilkenny, Pendleton, and Gus Hartzheim, Hermiston, won high north-south; LaVerne Van Marter and Daisy Collins, second; Harlan McCurdy, Jr. and Della McCurdy, third; Bill Collins and Gordon Hutchens, fourth. Bobbe Driscoll and Phyllis Hutchens teamed up to win high east-west; Grace Nickerson and Mary Doolin, Benton City, Wn., tied with Mary Jo Hartzheim, Hermiston, and Ruth Burnett, Hermiston, for second. Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Fortner, Boardman, won fourth. Heppner will host this unit party on the first Sunday of each month at 2:00 p. m.

I HEARD the Heppner high school band concert was very good last week. The cold bug caught me so didn't get to hear it. The students performed very well but only a small crowd was in attendance. Wonder if they could perform again before school is out for the year? One amusing little note I heard about the performance was the "duet" played by Steve Warren on the bass and the steam in the water pipes! At least part of the time the steam "music" followed along with Steve, anyhow they tell me he did a very nice job and didn't let the interference disturb him!

THE AMERICAN Legion Auxiliary provided the birthday cake and ice cream to help the Legionnaires celebrate their birthday Monday night complete with a potluck dinner. The sheet cake was decorated with the blue and gold Legion colors with an American flag on the top. Each organization held a meeting following the dinner. The auxiliary members discussed the favors to be made for the secretary-treasurer breakfast which they will serve during the state convention in August at Pendleton. They also have planned a baked goods sale at the Heppner Red and White April 13, the day before Easter, just the time to stock up for family dinners at Easter time. Door prizes were won by Etta Parker and little Kay Munkers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Don Munkers, who drew out her own name for the second prize!

I HAVE this week a delicious dessert sure to be in tune for St. Patrick's Day, complete with the green coloring! Mrs. J. W. (Ida) Farra passes it along and she got it from Mrs. Carl (Sylvia) McDaniel. I asked Ida the name of it and she said just "Sylvia's jello salad"! 1 pkg. lime Jello 1 No. 303 can applesauce 1 7 oz. bottle 7-Up Heat applesauce over medium until very hot, dissolve Jello and let cool, add 7-Up, stir and refrigerate. Makes a cool "zippy" tasting dessert.

Four Generations Together for Reunion

Four generations of the pioneer J. H. Padberg family were together Sunday at the Oris Padberg home in Lexington for a birthday dinner reunion. All of the oldest children in these last four generations, descendants of the J. H. Padberg and L. E. Fridley families, were girls. With their families and other relatives they spent a memorable day, the first time they had all been together for several years. Mrs. Padberg (Katie Fridley) was the oldest child of the L. E. Fridleys. Her first daughter was Mrs. L. D. (Doris) Vinson, now of Monument. Oldest child of the Vinsons was a daughter, Mrs. Louis (Mary Alice) Corley, who came with her family from Hamilton. Saray Corley, oldest child of Mr. and Mrs. Corley, represented the fourth generation. Uniting for the special occasion were Mr. and Mrs. Archie Padberg, Heppner; Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Vinson and son Harvey, Monument; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Corley and children Sarah, Mike and Bill, Hamilton; Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Padberg and children Lee and Jill, Lexington; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Padberg, Larry and Debbie, Lexington; Mrs. Floyd Vaughan and children Anna and Jimmy, Monument, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Monahan, Condon.

In the old days, folks used to wake up and say, "Good morning, Lord." But nowadays, many we know wake up and say, "Good Lord! Morning!"

Tips on Management Of Family Income Given Mother's Club

An analysis of the family budget was discussed by Miss Esther Kirmis, county extension agent, at the regular meeting of the Heppner Mother's club Monday evening. Illustrated by charts and colored slides of an average American family, her talk gave suggestions on how families can outline an efficient "management of the family income." She stressed the importance of all family members having an active part in planning the budget and placing savings among the list of necessities.

The club met at the home of Mrs. Roice Fulleton, with Mrs.
