Use of Economy Beef Cuts Told At Beef-O-Rama

By ESTHER KIRMIS

HEPPNER, OREGON

Phil's Pharmacy, H. Nurse East. Ore, Tel. Co., Just.

Beef-O-Rama had its day when close to 500 women crowded into the Vert Memorial Auditorium at Pendleton last Friday to watch Elizabeth McKellin of Chicago, nationally known field home economist with the National Livestock and Meat Board, prepare five different meat dishes out of economy cuts of meat. The Oregon CowBelles, who sponsored the program in several cities in Oregon, had good delegations from all the Eastern Oregon counties (including Mor.

Cleo Maletis, Portland, former Mrs. America, was master of ceremonies for the event. A gas range, 25 bags of groceries and three CowBelle cookbooks were given away. The former Mrs. America's services were provided through a natural gas company. The star of the show, however, was Betty McKellin, who showed was Betty McKellin, who showed her skill in preparing the five different meat dishes in about one hour's time. She made a Stuffed Beef Log, Hungarian Goulash, Bavarian Pot Roast, American Pizza, and a Porter-house steak. (All recipes came from the "Galaxy of Foods" cook-book put out by the National Livestock and Meat Board, 407 South Dearborn Street, Chicago 5, I'llinois) Drawings were made for Illinois) Drawings were made for these meat dishes at the close of the meeting.

Miss McKellin said that low cost, economy cuts of beef are just as nutritious as the more popular cuts. With beef a home-maker can have a variety in menu, nutrition in the meat and great economy in her budget, all 141.00 at the same time.
