Prowlers Ruin Church 'Juke Box'

Prowlers who entered the basement of All Saints' Episcopal church some time recently took $5 from a "juke box" (record player), but greatest loss was in damage to the machine itself. Father C. Bruce Spencer reported.

The record player had been stored in a closet. When the damage was discovered, it was evident that someone had punched the lock, broke the coin mechanism, and broke into the back. Worse, however, they wantonly destroyed the intricate mechanism.

Chief of Police Dean Gilman was called to investigate. He said he did not believe it to be the work of children.

Father Spencer said the machine was loaned to the church by Winn Crist and was valued at more than $1000. The person responsible for the damage could well be termed "the meanest man," he said. He suggested that other churches kept their buildings locked.
