THIS IS a short week what with the paper going to press on Wednesday, and the days go by fast enough! Is that a good sign or not? Guess it depends upon how you look at it. Of course now all youngsters are looking forward until the swimming pool opens. All, that is, except my daughter, Dee! She doesn't want to take swimming lessons again this year, but guess who is going to win.

RITA WOLFF entertained the Nine Tricks Bridge club plus three other tables of bridge enthusiasts at her home Thursday evening. The 24 gals playing also enjoyed the dessert, "Strawberry Delicious," which Rita served. She tells me it is one of the many good recipes from the Home Economics Teachers' dessert cookbook. These are books of recipes of Home Ec teachers and are sold by the high school home ec departments. Spring flowers were used about the rooms. And winners included Nadine O'Brien, high; June Spencer, second; Phyllis Hutchens, third; Arolene Laird, low; Dorothy O'Rourke and Jean Marie Damon, door prizes.

SOME DATES to remember: The Elks unit bridge party in the lodge rooms Sunday afternoon at 2:00 p.m. Last Ladies Night at the Elks lodge, June 6. The official Degree of Honor inspection, June 11.

CAROLYN COLE won high Tuesday night at Pinochle club held at the home of Jackie Glenie. Mickey Mollahan won the pinochle and Joyce Phegley won low. Others in on the play were Beverly Sherman, Marge Eckman, Myrna Sutherland, and Gall Burkenbine.

DOROTHY O'ROURKE entertained the Bridge Biddies Tuesday night. Marian Jonasson won high; LaFyne Pratt, second; and Mary McClure, traveling. Making up the two tables were Mary Jean McCabe, Mary McLeod, Janina Johnson, and Patty Prock.

TALK ABOUT days moving fast, ask Mary Harris. She just knows she has lost a week and to prove it, she tried to give me last Friday's pinochle news and she wasn't even there! Went fishin'! Anyway she did know it was at Millie Evans'. Gladys Beckett was high, and she teamed with Doris Watkins to win the pinochle. Others playing were Carrie Beckett, Beulah Mankin, Hannah Anderson, Pearl Wright, and Ann Fehmerling.

KAY ANDERSON had the Renegades Bridge club at her home Wednesday night with two tables playing. Included were Inez Meador, Beverly Gunderson, LaFyne Pratt, Shirley Blake, Laurel Van Marter, Harriet Hall, Cork Norene, and Kay. Laurel won high; and Shirley had second high.

NOW THAT summer time is almost here, several families took advantage of the sunshine to have an outing at Lehman Springs Sunday. Going were the LaVerne Van Marters, Gene Halls, Ed Dicks, Bill Blakes, Walt Jacobs, and Roland Bergstroms and their families. They enjoyed the fun and sun and picnic lunch. Laurel says there must have been 50 kids!

ELLEN MOORE is leaving the first of the month to make her home in Monument. Mary Bryant, Theta Stratton, and Martha King gave her a farewell party at the Bryant home Wednesday night. They served angel food cake with a cherry sauce to the guests. Oma Cox assisted with the serving. Guests were Bernice Nash, Ruth Bergstrom, Amanda Duvall, Rachel Harnett, Alice McCabe, Emma Jones, Jeanne Huston, Ida Farra, Alice Luttrell, Eleanor Gonty, Mildred Pedberg, and Doris Robinson. They presented Ellen with a money tree going away gift.

FOR GOOD outdoor cookery ideas, try plump, thrifty fryers and beef cuts from the chuck and rib sections. They carry low price tags. Chuck steaks for outdoor barbecuing. In fact, most any meat has just a little better flavor when cooked out of doors—even just plain hamburgers. One thing about barbecuing chicken, don't go away and leave it! It becomes well done quickly. I know! To go with that outdoor dinner, add a large tossed green salad. The ingredients are becoming more plentiful and at reasonable prices in the markets now. Enjoy them often.

Entertainment during the banquet was provided by a group of grade school singers under the direction of Mrs. Ola Mae Groshens. They sang parodies appropriate to the eighth graders and their teachers. Included in the group were: Calvin, Alvin and Melvin Ashbeck, Jimmie Lynch, David Hall, Randy Stillman, Mike Smith, Patti Holt, Sara Miller, Diane Niemi, Vickie Robinson, Bonnie Kessell, and Christine Munkers. Special guests were the eighth grade teachers and their wives. High school principal Gordon Pratt spoke to the 50 students on entering high school in the fall.

A reception followed the ceremony in the Ione Legion hall. Centering the serving table was a beautiful four-tiered wedding cake decorated in green, topped with miniature bride and groom and flanked by white candles. Other decorations carried out the St. Patrick's theme used also in the church ceremony.

Cutting and serving cake were Mrs. Archie Munkers, Lexington, Mrs. Henry Halvorsen, Medford, both aunts of the bride; Mrs. Pat Cutsforth, Lexington, sister of the groom, and Mrs. Harold Scrimmer, Portland, aunt of the groom.

Serving punch were Mrs. Roy Stender, Salem, and Mrs. Vela Eubanks, Portland, both aunts of the bride.

The bride graduated from Ione High school with the class of 1962, where she was co-valedictorian of her class. She attended Eastern Oregon College for fall term, transferring to Portland State University for the second term.

the hotter, the better!

Horned toads don't mind the heat. But you do! As hard as you try, you can't beat the heat with fans . . . or pitchers of cold drinks . . . or shades drawn tight against the sun.

Besides, this method of keeping cool leaves you listless all summer long. You know the feeling—all your energy is sapped. You have no desire to move even a muscle.

Electric air conditioning—the modern way of keeping cool—gives you refreshing spring air all summer long. It allows you to keep windows closed against outside noise, dust, dirt and pollen. Inside, you have clean, cool, filtered air for your whole family to work, eat, sleep and play by.

Choose from many compact room units, or install a central system. Whichever you choose, electric air conditioning is your best buy under the summer sun.

Visit your electric appliance dealer, air conditioning contractor or rural electric representative. Do it now—before you sizzle.
