She will model her outfit at the State Fair in Salem this week.

Oregon State Fair Opening Friday For 9-Day Run

Oregon's State Fair, nine days of fun and competition for every member of the family, opens its 98th run Friday morning in Salem at 10 a.m. with many new attractions added to the traditional events which bring an estimated 300,000 persons to the 172-acre grounds annually.

A last minute survey shows that the number of livestock entries are approximately the same as last year. Mrs. Harold Hauk, livestock superintendent reports the count is just a few below a year ago. Earl Schar, barn superintendent, says the barns have all been painted white inside and given a good going-over. Jay Thompson, sheep superintendent, reports a record sheep entry, and Ed Ridder, swine superintendent reports the swine department has a new blacktopping provided with drains in the judging pens, and a cyclone fence encircling the holding pens.

A survey of preliminary entries in foods shows an increase over last year's number and there are new cases installed to hold many of these divisions, reports Mrs. Dale Mallicoat, foods superintendent. Interest is high, she adds, in the annual Queen of the Kitchen contest which offers an electric range for first place.

Planting of competitive gardens as well as the theme is being rushed during final days prior to opening. A new floral building will add to the attractiveness of this division.

Reserved space for the crafts and hobbies under a new supering in Salem at 10 a.m. with many new attractions added to the traditional events which bring an estimated 300,000 persons to the 172-acre grounds annually.

Howard Maple, fair manager, reports all commercial space has been sold, both inside and outside buildings and all State Fair jobs have been filled.

Free entertainment includes a variety of events this year. There is the model home being erected by a building contractor, Johnny Rivers and his diving mule will give four free shows daily at 12:30 noon, 4:30, 7 and 9:30 p.m. on the Midway. There are two Children's Days, Friday, August 30 and Thursday, September 5, with the annual Needle in the Haystack hunt on the final Children's Day. Prices of all mechanical rides will be reduced both days from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. to youngsters 16 years and under. Stan Kremien's Circus will also perform twice daily free to all. Dean Melvin Geist's Talent Show, including 175 Oregon people in some 30 acts will be staged daily, excepting Sunday and Monday, from 2 to 4 p.m.

There will be organ concerts in the floral division and Johnny Reitz band on the grounds.

The Revue will be held in the Armory-Auditorium on 17th street, starring Jimmie Rodgers, and the Fairmounts. Also appearing will be the Sylve Sisters, Lucho Navarro, the Arwood's Dog Act and Danny Welton, master of ceremonies. Those attending the Revue only, will not have to pay gate admission to the fair.

Back again will be Christensen Bros. Rodeo for a combined Rodeo-Horse Show each evening from Friday, August 30 through Thursday, September 5 at 7:30 with a 1:30 matinee on Saturday, Sunday and Monday. On Friday, September 6, the 4-H free horse show takes over.

The race track has been enlarged to 5/8 mile with post time at 1:15 p.m. daily excepting Sunday.

Norman Griffin of Beaverton has spent the past two weeks at the home of his grandmother, Mrs. Jessie Griffin. He left Tuesday morning in company with the Herb Case family who had visited here over the week-end.

Guests this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Doug Drake and family are Mrs. Drake's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Gadeken, of Kimball, Nebr., and her brother, Clyde Gadeken, Jr., of Bushnell, Nebr., a freshman at the University of Nebraska. They expect to leave late this week for Spokane, Wn., to visit other relatives before returning to Nebraska.

Trout Bag Limit Upped at McKay

From August 24 extending through December 31, anglers fishing McKay reservoir near Pendleton in Umatilla county are allowed a trout bag limit of 30 fish per day, 60 in possession, regardless of size. The increased bag limit will also apply to McKay creek from the reservoir down to the Umatilla river.

Phil Schneider, state game director, issued the proclamation today when it was learned that the water at McKay reservoir is to be drawn down to a level that will not support fish life. The emergency order was declared to allow anglers to catch as many trout as possible before the reservoir reached sump level.
