

6th Graders Get 'Down to Earth' On Forestry Tour

just luck. At least it took the minds of all boys, girls, and adults from their class for a few minutes to watch these birds "float" out of sight.

Yellow jackets were quite numerous and several casualties required a "walking first aid station" that Mrs. Harold Erwin quickly developed with soda found at the Bull Prairie guard station to make a paste to treat the stings. Participants predict a hard winter, as the old Indian prophesy with many yellow jackets in the woods in the fall. Regardless, Bob Booth was a bit upset when during his class he discovered a yellow jacket up his pant leg. Like a good forester he easily coaxed it out the bottom without hardly anyone knowing the difficulty that he had encountered.

We were happy to have several parents on the tour and there were many favorable comments from teachers and parents alike on the value of the tour. These tours are being held in most every county of the state now with several counties having more than one aimed at giving these boys and girls first hand information about the importance of forestry in Morrow county and the State of Oregon. Sixth grade students participating will have an opportunity to discuss in classes during the year the importance of forestry, wildlife, conservation and related subjects as a part of their class work for the year.

Grandson Arrives

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Gonty have received news of the arrival of another grandson, Robert Lee Gonty, born October 8 in Seattle to Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Gonty. The boy weighed 6 lb. 8 oz. at birth and joins two brothers, Russell and Rickey, and a sister, Ramona, in the family.

Pheasant and Doe Season to Bring Hunter Activity

Buck hunting activity in the Heppner area has quieted somewhat after two week-ends and excellent luck reported by many hunting parties, but a surge of hunting will stir again this week-end.

Saturday marks the opening of China pheasant season, starting at 8 a.m. on that day and running through November 24. This will bring out a bumper crop of scatter gunners.

At the same time doe season opens, and another invasion of the woods and foothill areas will be in sway.

Pheasant hunters are permitted to bag three cock pheasants in one day and possession limit is 12. The bird population seems to be very good in this area this year and prospects are encouraging for those who enjoy this sport.

Quail season also opens Saturday for valley and mountain quail and runs through November 24. Daily bag limit is 10 and possession limit is 20. Duck and goose seasons both started on October 8 and will be of interest to some hunters who go north to Columbia River country.

W. S. (Sam) Miller, ranger in charge of the Heppner Ranger District, said that no fires have yet been reported on the district, and he is pleased with the cooperation extended by hunters.

He points out that despite light rains in the area, conditions may be even more hazardous because the weather is cooler and hunters may be prone to use more fires. With dry days following the rain, it takes only a short time to make the woods vulnerable to fire, and he urges all hunters to continue to use extreme caution.

Hunters apparently have been well behaved on violations, too. State Police Officer Jim Gordon reports only light activity on citations and said Wednesday that activity has "slowed down" considerably during the past week.

Soward Speaks At Anniversary

Fiftieth anniversary of the Corbett Christian church was the occasion for the Rev. and Mrs. Earl Soward to return to the church Sunday for observance of the half century.

The Rev. Soward was the speaker in the service. The day also marked 26 years since he started serving the church as pastor, remaining there for four years in his ministry.

Former ministers and evangelists are sharing in special services through the anniversary year on succeeding Sundays.

On their return to Corbett the Sowards noticed a big change in the community in which they formerly lived. Farms have been divided into lots and small tracts. Children of couples for whom the Rev. Soward performed wedding ceremonies are now grown and are taking their places in the community.

Death Calls Couple

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Damon have been called to La Grande because of the sudden death of Mr. Damon's father there. He died of a heart attack and funeral services are scheduled for Friday. Mrs. Damon is daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Graham of Heppner.

Future Gridders to Vie Saturday In Contest Here

Meeting the President of the United States, a trip to Detroit or San Francisco, watching a professional football championship game, or competing in half-time ceremonies at a pro game. These are just a few of the prizes in the national punt, pass and kick contest, sponsored by Ford Motor Company.

The road to the national competition starts in local contests throughout the country. Boys in this area will compete in a contest at the rodeo field in Heppner, Saturday, October 12, at 1 p.m. The youngsters will compete in their own age groups. The competition is open to boys from the ages of 8 through 11.

Three prizes will be given in each of the four age groups and consist of official NFL warm-up jackets as first prizes; football helmets as second prizes and footballs autographed by the top NFL punters, kickers, and passers for third prizes. Although there are approximately 120 boys signed up for the competition here, youngsters may still register Friday, October 11, at either Jim's Chevron Service in Ione or at Heppner Auto Sales. Boys must be accompanied by their parents when they sign up.

The contest is sponsored by the Heppner Auto Sales and is supervised by the Lion's Club. Don Linnell is chairman for the event and will be assisted by Dave Barnett, Wayne Ball, Arnie Hedman, Don McElligott and Gene Rietmann.

Local winners will be given the chance to compete in regional competition, and the regional winners will go to San Francisco to view a 49'er football game. Also, regional winners will go to Detroit, Mich., to enter national competition. The national winner will then go to
