For Your Protection Turner, Van Marter and Bryant Answers Your Insurance Questions

QUESTION: I am a young man with an average income and I don't own my own home. An insurance agent tried to sell me a big auto liability insurance but it seems to me I don't need that big protection. How about it?

ANSWER: You are wrong. You are just as likely to have an accident as a rich man and you could lose a resulting law suit. If you couldn't pay damages you might be paying on a deficiency judgment for the rest of your life. High limit liability insurance costs very little extra.

Stop weed problems here before they spread

Fence rows and other noncrop areas around the farm are important propagating beds for weeds. If neglected, they can spread your weed problem all over the farm.

Effective weed control in fence rows and other noncrop areas eliminates a primary source of weed seeds. It also gets rid of a serious fire hazard and cuts maintenance costs by doing away with hand cutting of hard-to-mow areas.

Insects and rodents thrive in rampant weed growth, especially around buildings. Eliminate weeds and you eliminate a large part of this problem . . . and, of course, improve both the appearance and value of your farm or ranch.

Advantages of chemical weed control
Atrazine and Simazine herbicides give safe, long-lasting weed control. Extensive use of these products on farms and ranches has shown that a single application gives effective results for a full season. You save money, too, when you consider the follow-up control measures needed with mowing or other mechanical methods that provide only temporary control.

When to use
Atrazine attacks weeds through both roots and foliage. Use Atrazine before weeds emerge, or soon after weeds appear above ground. At rates recommended for noncrop land, Atrazine gives long-term weed control, especially in areas of low rainfall.

Simazine provides effective long-lasting control when applied before weeds emerge. It has no foliar action, an important point when you want to control weeds near desirable plantings. With Simazine, you're safe from damage by accidental spray drift or through lateral leaching in the soil.

Weeds controlled
Atrazine and Simazine control a wide range of annual broad leaf weeds and grasses as well as many perennials. Among the weeds controlled are these important species: Cheatgrass, ryegrass, tarweed, Russian thistle, foxtail, quackgrass, mustard and puncture vine.

Safe
Atrazine and Simazine are relatively safe to humans and animals, nonirritating to the skin and noncorrosive to equipment. They are easily removed from spray tanks and lines by thorough flushing with water.
