

Meeting Proposes Return to Joint Fair and Rodeo

The committee will meet to write the by-laws for the rodeo and fair committees and will submit them to the fair board at its December meeting. The fair board will have authority to pass, reject or amend the by-laws before they are adopted because the committees are responsible to it. The fair board, in turn, is responsible to the county court.

As now established the fair board meets on the third Tuesday of each month in the Gilliam and Bisbee building at 1:45, and the meetings are open to the public.

Cutsforth pointed out to the group that the fair board "does not want any part of running the rodeo," preferring to leave the matter entirely to the rodeo board.

Bernard Doherty, third member of the fair board, said that there had been "considerable pressure" for some changes to be made on the organization of the rodeo board and that was one of the major purposes of the Monday meeting.

Chairman Jones of the rodeo board said that he doesn't object to anyone nominating members of the board but added, "we need men who can work together."

The fair board did not act on the suggestion that the fair and rodeo return to the old plan of being held in the same week, but Chairman Fetsch said that the matter will be investigated and it will be discussed at a later meeting. Problems in connection with obtaining stock for a different date than the usual Labor Day week-end for the rodeo were brought up by Jones. Conflict with other events in the area and around the state may also cause some difficulty. However, it was generally felt that these matters can be worked out after study.

The fair and rodeo were separated three years ago and in 1961, 1962 and 1963 were held on succeeding weeks with the fair coming first. One proposal for the combined week was that the fair be held from Monday through Thursday with the rodeo slated for Friday night, Saturday and Sunday.

Attending the meeting were: Fetsch, Cutsforth and Doherty, of the fair board; Don Robinson and Mrs. Jim Lindsay of the fair committee; Jones, French, Sherman and Gerald Swagart of the rodeo board; Mrs. Glenn Smith, secretary of the fair board; Bert Huff, secretary of the rodeo board; Joe Hay, county extension agent; Vern Evans, Bill Scott, Art Vance, Jack Loyd, Daly, Bill Healy, Barclay, Erwin, Rod Murray, Miller, Mrs. E. M. Baker, and Cornett Green.

Tax Defeat Effect Still Guess Here

Effect on Morrow county of the defeat of Measure No. 1 in the special election October 15 remained unknown here this week. Much depends on what action the legislature takes at its special session commencing November 11.

Estimates have been made that this county will lose somewhere between $16,000 and $21,000 in basic school support funds if a cut approximating 12% is made by the legislature, or by the governor should the legislators empower him to make the cut.

However, Superintendent Wayne Brubacher of the Morrow County schools said, "There are a lot of unknowns. We'll have to wait and see what the legislature does."

He said that the board of directors might discuss it at their next meeting, although it will fall on November 12, just one day after the legislature convenes.

Other agencies who look to state funds were also uncertain about what cuts will take place that will affect them. N. C. Anderson, county agent, said that some of the better men of the state extension service are leaving as a result of the requirement that pay raises authorized months ago be cancelled and the old pay scale be re-instated. Also, personnel in the extension service are being asked to take annual leaves of from one to eight weeks without pay.

Apparently all three of the Morrow county agents will remain here despite the prediction that 68 would be cut from the extension staff around the state.

Suffers Eye Trouble

D. M. (Mike) Whitesmith, manager of the J. C. Penney Co. Store here, is wearing a patch over his right eye after a blood vessel burst in the eye Monday. It occurred suddenly after he returned to the store from the Chamber of Commerce meeting. Whitesmith has had chronic trouble with his eyes and has been under a specialist's treatment for several years. He has been able to work part time this week despite the handicap of being able to use only one eye.

School Water Line Pipe Bids Sought

Call for bids by the City of Heppner on approximately 1150 feet of 4 and 6-inch steel pipe and fittings was issued by Ted Smith, city recorder, this week.

The pipe is to be used in construction of water lines to bolster supply to the new Heppner High school. Two four inch mains, one coming up the hill via Morgan street and another tying in with another existing main farther north, will feed a 6-inch main running in front of the high school building, thus providing a circulatory system.

Two fire hydrants will be located on the six-inch main, one at each end.

Only present supply is via a 3-inch main serving the school and the only fire hydrant is some distance away at the Morgan street extension.

Councilman John Pfeiffer heads a city committee working on the matter and a school board committee is composed of Directors Howard Cleveland, Ken Batty and Andy Van Schoiack. The committees are working out a cost-sharing plan.

Supt. Wayne Brubacher said that between now and next spring the directors and administration will study the best and most economical way to extend water to the athletic field behind the school. At the present time they are consulting the county agent on advice about how to hold the bare slope area, caused by excavation, through the winter, whether to sow seed for cover to prevent erosion yet this fall, to mulch or take other action.

Whether the pipeline to the school can be completed before winter is an uncertainty. The call for bids, printed in this paper, must be advertised for two weeks after which it may take some time for delivery of the pipe.

In the meantime, 15 new fire extinguishers have been added to others in the new school building.

Brown to Direct Adult Education

Hillard Brown, Heppner elementary school administrator, has been appointed as representative in this area for evening classes and adult education offered through Blue Mountain Community College, Wallace. McRae, college president, announced Wednesday.

The appointment was made through the cooperation of the Morrow County schools and Wayne Brubacher, superintendent.

One of Brown's functions will be to ascertain the desires and wishes of people in the area for classes that they would like to have offered. Brown said that a wide range would be available for consideration by those interested and said that he will release a suggested list of possibilities next week.

Those interested in any particular field for evening classes are asked to contact him.

County Dog Pound To Be Constructed

County Judge Oscar Peterson said Wednesday that the county dog pound will be constructed soon with the county court hiring Howard Keithley to do the work.

A sum of $1500 was included in the 1963-64 budget for the purpose. The city council of Heppner has agreed to an arrangement to work with the county in picking up dogs running at large in this city and several months ago authorized the purchase of a gun which shoots tranquilizing pellets used in catching the dogs. The gun has not yet been purchased, awaiting construction of the pound.

At its Wednesday meeting the county court also took steps towards replacing the bridge that went down under a truckload of wheat last week in the Eightmile district. It will be of a "multi-lane" construction, the judge said. Work will be undertaken as soon as the county crew can get to the job.

The court has also been assured that work of improving the Willow Creek highway will resume soon. Crews started straightening curves earlier this year but quit to work elsewhere, leaving the Morrow county work unfinished. Among them is the bad curve two miles northwest of Ione where four people were killed in an accident last winter.

Two Morrow Men In German Airlift

Sped Douglas Gribble, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Gribble, Heppner, and Pfc. William Mahon, son of Mrs. Alice McCabe, Heppner, are participating in operation "Big Lift" with the U. S. Army's 2nd Armored division, the old "Hell on Wheels" outfit. The Maneuver is the biggest in United States military history and is costing approximately $20 million. Its purpose is to demonstrate to our allies and to the Soviets an ability to swiftly reinforce the forces facing the Communists along the Iron Curtain in Western Europe.

The exercise started when troops and equipment began to take off from Bergstrom AFB, Texas, their destination being Rhein-Main Air Base, Germany and 10 hours away. 14,500 men will be flown to Germany in this show of U. S. might.

While he is on the maneuvers, Gribble's wife, Carol, is staying with his parents in Heppner. Carol is originally from Waukegan, Ill.

At last report, the two men didn't know how long they will remain in Germany. Gribble is a member of company C of the 2nd Armored while Mahon is a member of company D of the same division.
