

Many Receive Special Awards On 4-H Work

By LaVELLE PARTLOW

IRRIGON—The Annual 4-H Achievement Party for North Morrow county was held at A. C. Houghton school Saturday evening, with a good number in attendance. A potluck dinner was served at 6:30, and the program started at 7:30. Esther Kirmis, county extension agent, began the program with group singing, followed by the flag pledges. Joe Hay, county agent, recognized Mrs. Harold Van Horn, general chairman for the party, and also the ladies in charge of the kitchen. Musical selections, "Tenderly He Watches Over You," "Jesus and Me" and "The Fourth Man" were rendered by the Assembly of God junior choir, accompanied by Mrs. Albert Partlow.

Penny Jones received a Danforth Foundation Award. Recognition and awards by local organizations were as follows: Rhea Creek Extension Unit to Susan McCoy for best food exhibits; Morrow County CowBelles to Carol Ann Harper for best demonstration using meat; Boardman Extension Unit to Karen Nelson, Lexington, style revue winner, junior, and Arieta McCabe, Ione, for style revue winner, senior. The Irrigon Extension Unit award went to Judy Smith, Heppner, for high clothing judge, senior; Joan Stockard, Heppner, for high foods judge, and Judy Gentry, Heppner, for high knitting judge. Mrs. Frances Walker made the presentations for the Boardman Extension Unit and Mrs. Mary Adams for the Irrigon Extension Unit.

A special county award by Oregon Beekeepers Ass'n. went to Lonnie Wilson and Lynda Early. Presentation of pins and certificates to each club member followed, with the club leaders making the presentations. From Boardman were the following: Mrs. Earl McQuaw, leader of the "Sewing Teens," Kurt Gartenbein for the Milk and Steak club and Linda Tatone for her mother, Mrs. Joe Tatone, leader of the Knutty Knitters. The following Irrigon 4-H leaders made presentations: Mrs. John Swearingen, "The Sewettes," Mrs. George Sawyer, "Krit and Purl," Mrs. Louis Shade, "Busy Apronettes," Mrs. Bob Smith, "Vitamin Fan Club," Mrs. Lloyd Franke, "Irrigon Livestock club," Ival Sullivan, "Desert Riders 4-H Horse club," Mr. and Mrs. Harold Van Horn, "Woody Woodworkers" and "Girls Hobby Wood 4-H club," Chester Wilson, "Busy Beekeepers," O. J. King, "Sagebrush shooters." The pins and certificates were furnished by the First National Bank of Oregon.

County Extension Agent Esther Kirmis announced that the 4-H program will experiment in Irrigon this coming year with a

Woodworking Club Starts at Boardman

A new woodworking 4-H club was started in Boardman. We will choose a name for it at the next meeting. Joe Hay met with us and handed out different things we would need. Our leaders are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Baker.

We elected the following officers: Rick Partlow, president; Donnie Sledge, vice-president; Ronnie Summers, secretary, Ron Baker, reporter, and Doug Thompson, recreation leader. We were lucky to get some lumber from the Harris Pine Mills.

Country Cutters Meet At Campbell Home

The Country Cutters 4-H club gathered at the home of Mary K. Campbell, Saturday, October 26.

Our leader gave us our books for this year, and gave us a test on laying material on a dress pattern. We also worked on a poster for achievement night.

The next meeting will be held at Molly Beckett's home on Saturday, December 7.

community club organization. Under this plan, there will be one community club leader, and Mrs. M. E. Hadwick will fill this position. Under the Community Leader will be the Project leaders and the Service Projects and records division. All the 4-H members will meet once a month to compile records, have recreation and programs, giving the project leaders opportunity to devote their full time to the completion of the 4-H projects. If this organization proves to be successful, it will branch out into the other towns of Morrow county.

The program concluded with a film entitled "Man Enough For the Job."

Home Ec School At OSU to Mark 75th Anniversary

The Oregon State University School of Home Economics—first of its kind west of the Rockies and the fourth to be established in the U. S.—will observe its 75th anniversary this year with a series of conferences on "Challenges to American Families" in the future.

Nearly 5000 degrees have been awarded since the department called Household Economics and Hygiene was organized in the fall of 1889.

Courses then included sewing, dressmaking and millinery, cooking, house furnishings and kitchen gardening, floriculture, sanitary science, care of the sick, hygiene, and social etiquette.

The present name, School of Home Economics, became official in 1912.

The conferences scheduled in observance of 75 years of teaching and research will include:

Advances in Nutrition—November 15 and 16. Main speaker will be Dr. Hazel K. Stiebeling, formerly deputy administrator for Nutrition and Consumer Use Research, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Textiles in Our Modern World, January 17 and 18. Main speaker—Milton Harris of Harris Research Laboratories, Washington D. C., and vice president of The Gillette Company, Boston.

Consumers in an Affluent Society—February 21. Main speaker—Helen G. Canover, chairman of the President's Consumer Advisory Council, and dean of home economics at Cornell University.

Changing Values and the Family—April 17 and 18. Main speakers—Jessie Bernard, professor of sociology and anthropology, Pennsylvania State University, and Helen R. LeBaron, dean of home economics, Iowa State University.

Rhea Creek Stock Club Makes Plans

The second meeting of the Rhea Creek Livestock 4-H club was called to order by Bob Harris, president, on Sunday, November 3, at the Rhea Creek Grange hall.

We talked of duties of the officers, and each officer told his duties. We talked about the achievement party, and the president appointed a committee to make a sign for the club.

We then drew names for our 4-H Christmas party. We also talked about the date to have it, and the price limit on gifts. Then the meeting was adjourned and refreshments were served by Mrs. Cecil McDaniel and Mrs. Albert Wright.

Ullman Predicts Federal Tax Cut As of January 1

Despite delays in the Senate, it is now "more certain than ever" that the federal tax cut will become effective on January 1, of next year, Congressman Al Ullman said at a luncheon meeting of the Prineville Chamber of Commerce last Thursday.

"This does not necessarily mean that the bill will be passed prior to the first of January, but that if passage comes after the first of the year, it will be retroactive to January 1," Ullman said.

Ullman defended the bill worked out by the House Ways and Means Committee, of which he is a member and said that his only concern now was that the Senate might "water down" some of the reforms placed in the bill by the House. He specifically referred to the penalty on multiple corporations and the termination of the dividend which he termed "basic reforms" and "most essential to a sound tax passage."

Ullman added that the tax cut emphasizes growth in the private sector of the economy. He told the group that "barring the unforeseen" he anticipates several years of economic prosperity as a result of the cut.

"Oregon and this community should be making plans to take advantage of this growth. Lets get our share of private growth in Oregon," he said.
