IRRIGON—Misses Wanda Mae Patsy and Barbara Davis, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Davis, were injured in a car accident November 8 around 7:30 p.m. when the car in which they were passengers ran into the back of a truck that was parked along the road. The driver was partially blinded by the lights of an oncoming car, and did not see the truck.

The young people had attended the wedding and reception of Miss Sandi Davis and David Gallo in Hermiston, and were enroute to Walla Walla to the home of David Gallo, where a second reception was held. The accident occurred two miles east of Touchet.

Barbara suffered a back strain but was not hospitalized. Wanda Mae had a shoulder bruise, and Patsy a laceration on the forehead and slight concussion. They were both hospitalized at St. Mary's hospital in Walla Walla, Wanda Mae being released Sunday morning, and Patsy will remain for some time. Also injured in the accident were Angela Gallo, sister of the groom, who sustained a broken pelvic bone, and most seriously injured, but making satisfactory progress, was Gene Gallo, cousin of the groom.

The driver of the car that hit him, Mrs. Eugene McCorkle, was partially blinded by headlights of an oncoming car, and did not see the boy in time to avoid hitting him. Ormand suffered a skull fracture, and both the bones in his lower right leg were broken. He is in Good Shepherd hospital in Hermiston. His right leg, which was broken, was reset for the second time on Monday morning, November 18, and if it fails to hold this time, it will be necessary for surgery to be performed on the leg, and pins inserted.
