Program on Mosaics Instructs Mothers Club Monday Night

"Mosaics are one of the oldest and most interesting arts," Mrs. Orian Wright, guest speaker, told members and guests of the Heppner Mothers club at their regular meeting Monday night at the home of Mrs. Bob Jones. Mrs. Wright presented the interesting program after the business session.

Members answered roll call by telling one of their New Year's resolutions, after the meeting was called to order by Mrs. Anita Stockard, president. Mrs. Harold Laird served as secretary, in the absence of Mrs. Bob Abrams.

Plans were discussed for the annual February dinner meeting for club members and their husbands. The date was set for Sunday, February 9, and will be in the dining rooms of the First Christian church. An international theme, "Around the World" will be used, with various courses representing countries of the world. Committees were named and met briefly.

The club voted to purchase a copy of President Kennedy's biography, "The Torch is Passed," to be presented to the City Library.

Guest of the evening was Mrs. Bill Alsop.

Mrs. Wright opened her discussion on mosaic art with some of the historical background, telling how many forms of mosaics are still preserved and date back to pre-Biblical times.

Basic supplies used in making the modern mosaics were displayed and demonstrated. Several articles of completed trays, plaques and pictures were displayed. Wide varieties of materials found around the homes may be used. She told how broken and crushed glass, crushed marbles, shells, varieties of garden and flower seeds, jewelry, and even crushed egg shells may be combined to make artistic designs.

Classes in the art were given through the extension service last fall. Another class is scheduled in the Rhea Creek area this spring and Mrs. Wright extended an invitation for those interested to join the group.
