

Relatives Safe In Alaska Quake, Reports Reveal

hurled to the floor. When she was able to return to her living quarters at Fort Richardson, she found everything in a chaotic state and much of her personal property was ruined or damaged. "Tomorrow the teachers go to school in work clothes—no students," she wrote.

Worries of Mr. and Mrs. Willy Knighten were relieved Monday when they received a short note from their son, Willy Knighten, Jr., who is a flight instructor for the Federal Aviation Agency with headquarters at Anchorage. "Boy! Talk about a breakup. On my way to find a new house. All O. K. otherwise." The son, who is unmarried lived in a 13-story apartment house that was badly wrecked in the quake and was condemned. He lived on the seventh floor of the building.

Mr. and Mrs. Rees Morgan of Irrigon received word by an amateur radio operator in North Dakota that their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Anker, Jr., of Spenard, are safe. The message went from North Dakota to Spokane to Mr. Morgan's parents, and then was relayed to Irrigon.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Reed, son-in-law and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Keithley, have not reported on their condition at Juneau. "We are not too excited about it because we have had no reports of serious damage at Juneau, Keithley said. He said that he had tried to call them but was advised that calls could only be made through the Red Cross. "We didn't want to do this because we felt there were others in more serious condition needing to know," he said. Reed is a laboratory technician in the hospital at Juneau.

Happy news came to Mr. and Mrs. Everett Harshman from their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gay Harshman, and three sons at Ketchikan. There was a 30-mile stretch a 30-mile stretch that did not bear the brunt of the tidal wave that struck in the area, and their home was in this stretch and therefore was unscathed. Only a 2-foot wave hit there. Had the main force of the wave struck the area, however, their home would have been wiped out because it is close to the water's edge. Gay works for Civil Service at Ketchikan.

Capt. and Mrs. John L. Bristow, son and daughter-in-law of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Bristow, Ione, felt the shocks at Fairbanks but suffered little damage. The quakes rocked their living quarters on the base, and cracked some walls, but otherwise no harm was done. Capt. and Mrs. Bristow have two children, a boy and a girl. He is stationed at Eielson Air Force base.

Lucy Wright of Heppner was another grateful person when she learned that her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Wright, and family are safe at Kodiak. She received word from them Tuesday that they are fine and suffered no property damage in the city hard hit by tidal wave. The Wrights moved to a new home two miles distant from their former location. Whether the former home was hit was not determined. The Russell Wright's married son and family were also unhurt. Wright is a construction contractor at Kodiak.

Brief word from Mrs. N. G. McCrae at Spenard to Mrs. Elmer Schmidt reports that she and Mr. McCrae and family and Mr. and Mrs. Everett Johnston and family, also of Spenard, survived the quake without injury. Their brief message did not state anything concerning property damage to them. Mrs. McCrae and Mr. Johnston and sister and brother of Mrs. Schmidt. Johnston works for the Alaska Railroad.

Like the Gay Harshmans, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Stout were in the 30-mile "untouched" stretch at Ketchikan and suffered no damage. Mrs. Stout (Patsy) is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Irby. Stout is a machinist for the Ketchikan Spruce mill, and it, too, emerged without serious damage.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Luper were among the fortunate ones in Anchorage, according to a report received by Emile Groshens, uncle of Mr. Luper. Their home at Anchorage was not damaged. Luper, a draftsman, had left the office where he worked about 15 minutes before the big quake came. This word came via a "ham" radio operator in Salem.

Plane Noses Down Little Damage Done

When it contacted soft soil in landing on the Roy Martin ranch Tuesday, an airplane piloted by Mel Boyer of Gar Aviation nosed down, causing minor damage to the plane. Boyer was unhurt.

The pilot said that damage to the plane has been repaired, and it was ready to go again Wednesday. However, spraying operations were curtailed due to wind conditions. The concern now has three airplanes available for work, he said.

Boyer was in a more serious accident last year when a landing gear snagged a power wire while he was weeding spraying on the Wilkinson place, causing a crash landing.

$643 Collected For Heart Fund, Chairman Reports

Collections for the Heart Fund in Morrow county in the drive this year totaled $643.23. Bert Huff, county chairman for the Oregon Heart association, announced.

The chairman expressed appreciation to those in all parts of the county who assisted with the drive and has written letters to all of the volunteers on behalf of the heart association.

Ruth Assembly, Order of Rainbow for Girls, in Heppner volunteered to work for the drive here. Huff has extended appreciation to Mrs. James Myers, mother advisor; and to the following girls who helped, Brenda Young, Judy Jones, Janice Baker, Mary Pierce, Vicki Robinson, Kathy Melby and Debby Young.

Heppner's American Legion auxiliary, headed by Mrs. Hazel Hamlin, shared in the campaign and received thanks of the chairman.

Helping throughout the county were Mrs. Lewis Halvorsen, Sue Townsend, Susan Lindstrom, and Mrs. Cecil Thorne, all of Ione; Mrs. John Ledbetter, who covered the Lexington area; Mrs. Harold Baker, Boardman; and Mrs. John Graves, Hardman. The chairman expressed gratitude to each of these.

"Since heart disease is Oregon's number one cause of death and premature disability," Huff said, "the programs of the Oregon Heart association have been developed to fully understand and combat heart disease."

John Day Woman Dies in Accident

Mrs. LaRayne Gallerani of John Day, woman against whom indictments were returned recently by a Grant county grand jury charging four counts of furnishing liquor to minors, died in an auto accident last Monday about 6 miles west of Burns, according to information received here from Mrs. Grace Williams, Grant county district attorney.

The charges against Mrs. Gallerani were outgrowth of incidents at her motel in John Day which eventually caused suspension of six members of the Heppner High school basketball team.

Robert Abrams, attorney for the Morrow county school district, who was in close contact with the legal proceedings on the matter, confirmed the information about Mrs. Gallerani's death after talking with Mrs. Williams on the telephone Wednesday.

Mrs. Gallerani apparently was alone in her auto and was enroute to Las Vegas, Nev., when it went out of control and crashed, resulting in fatal injuries to her. She had moved to John Day from Las Vegas.

Abrams said that she had been served with divorce papers from her husband at approximately the same time that she was indicted on the liquor counts. She also was arrested recently on a charge of driving without an operator's license.

Mrs. Gallerani had been arraigned in circuit court of Judge Edward Howell on the liquor charges and was released after posting $300 bail. A delay in entering plea was granted.

Two Men Chosen In Mann Campaign

Larry Lindsay, Lexington, has been appointed as general chairman, and LaVerne Van Marter, Heppner, as financial chairman to head the campaign in Morrow county for Irvin Mann, Jr., Republican candidate for representative from the 28th legislative district.

Mann has also advised Don Turner, Morrow county Republican General Committee chairman, that he will attend the meeting for all Republican candidates scheduled to be held in Heppner, Saturday, April 11.

Mann's election to represent Morrow, Umatilla, Wheeler, Sherman and Gilliam counties would make him the third generation Mann to serve in the state legislature. His father served from 1954 to 1957 and his grandfather served at various times between 1909 and 1933.

U of O Debaters Present Program To Irrigon Lions

By LaVELLE PARTLOW

IRRIGON—A debate team from the University of Oregon at Eugene, accompanied by Dr. Nobles, an instructor at the University, appeared at the A. C. Houghton cafeteria Thursday evening, March 26, under auspices of the Irrigon Lions club.

LaVern Christiansen, president of the Irrigon Lions club, introduced Dr. Nobles to the audience, and he in turn, introduced members of the panel.

The Symposium, consisting of three girls and two boys, debated on the subject: "What Part should the Federal Government play in supporting Higher Education." Preceding the debate, the Lions club sponsored a dinner for the group at Carrie's Cafe.

Registration will be held at A. C. Houghton school Saturday, April 4, in Room 6 from 9:00 a.m. to 12:00 noon for tap dancing lessons. The lessons will be conducted by Mrs. Ted Talbot, and will be held at the Riverside High school gymnasium.

Foreign Travel Requires Health Immunizations

Anyone planning to vacation or travel in foreign countries this year should see his physician or local health department to determine which immunizations he will need, the State Board of Health urged today.

Every foreign traveler will need an International Certificate of Immunization. The immunizations required depend on the countries to be visited. A complete list of these is in the booklet "Immunization Information for International Travel," available at your local health department or the State Board of Health in the Portland State Office Building.

"Everyone should be immunized for polio, smallpox, diphtheria and tetanus, regardless of travel or vacation plans. These serious communicable diseases can strike at home as readily as on foreign soil," said R. H. Wilcox, M. D., Oregon's State Health Officer.

Passport immunization must be authenticated and carry the official county vaccination stamp before one will be accepted for foreign travel. This stamp can be obtained at the Morrow County Health Department or information obtained from Dr. L. D. Tibbles, health officer.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Warren, Mike, Steve, Matt and Joan went on a three day trip, that took them last week to Winchester Bay where they visited with Mr. Warren's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Eldredge. The Warrens also visited Mrs. Warren's aunt, Mrs. Ronald Glover of Salem, and Mr. and Mrs. Fred Butterfield, former Heppner residents, who have resided in Salem for the past two years.

Joe Hay is First Bureau Fieldman

Joe Hay has been hired as membership activities fieldman in eastern Oregon counties, according to an announcement by Harold Beach, Hermiston, Oregon Farm Bureau Federation president.

Beach said Hay would be working in an 11-county area, including Gilliam, Umatilla, Malheur, Baker, Wallowa, Morrow, Grant, Harney, Wheeler and Sherman counties.

Hay is a former extension agent in Morrow county. He has also had experience working for the county ASCS committee in Marion county and working with 4-H and adult groups in county extension activities.

A graduate of Oregon State University, Hay was born and reared on a farm near Pratum, east of Salem. His interests in school were in agricultural education, and his background in farming qualifies him for his present position with the Farm Bureau.

As membership activities fieldman, Hay will be charged with aiding county Farm Bureau officers in planning and programming their county activities and in organizing county membership projects.
