At the Morrow County Grain Growers elevator in Ione they saw how wheat was dumped from trucks and elevated for storage with Hugh Salter giving the demonstration.

During the evening Saturday, the visitors and hosts joined for a party at the county fair pavilion, enjoying skating and dancing. Next morning, Sunday, entertainment was up to the host families, and many went to church at denominations of their choice before boarding the bus again to head back to Portland in early afternoon.

Chaperones for the tour were Mel Johnson of Peninsula school and Miss Alfa O. Bang of Rigler school.

Sponsoring the tour here were the Morrow county Wheat Growers association, the Morrow Livestock Growers association, the county 4-H Leaders association, Heppner Soil Conservation district, and the county extension service.

Little League Teams Picked

Little League tryouts have been held for the past two Saturdays and the teams are picked for the coming season, according to LaVerne Van Marter Jr., chairman of the league.

Four teams will compete in Little League this season, three from the Heppner area and one from the Ione-Lexington area. Those from Heppner are the Giants, sponsored by Kinzua Corp., the Braves, sponsored by the Elks, and the Dodgers, sponsored by the Odd Fellows. The Ione-Lexington entry, the Indians, is sponsored by the Morrow County Grain Growers.

League opening is slated for May 16 with a doubleheader kicking off the action but before that time, Van Marter said, the field has to be put into shape. For this season, a work party has been called for Sunday at 2 p.m. Everyone who is interested in helping with the project is urged to be at the Little League field Sunday afternoon. At this time, the fences will be erected and the grounds cleaned up and lined.

Corbin On Force

Kay Corbin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Corbin, Heppner, will begin his duties with the Oregon State Police force June 1. Corbin will be stationed in La Grande. Until recently he was a policeman on the Pendleton City force but he resigned to take the position with the state agency.

AMONG THE many interesting demonstrations on the field trip of the Portland eighth graders to Morrow county Friday and Saturday was that by Paul Hansen on airplane spraying. Shown by his plane in a field near the Volby Lutheran church are the two Portland chaperones, Miss Alfa O. Bang of Rigler school and Mel Johnson of Peninsula school. On the plane are some of the local and visiting students. (G-T Photo)

PORTLAND EIGHTH GRADERS received a real working demonstration on branding and vaccinating calves at the Dick Wilkinson place Friday. One or two of the touring youngsters actually branded calves. Here Wilkinson explains vaccination procedure to the eighth graders from Portland and their host eighth graders, Dick Paine, son-in-law of Wilkinson, is at left. All of the visiting students were present but most are not in the picture. (G-T Photo)

Rockets, Cards Fall To Mustangs

Heppner High school's baseball Mustangs put on solid performances last week-end as they swept a three-game stand at the expense of the Ione Cardinals, 15-2, and the Pilot Rock Rockets, 4-3 and 5-6.

Friday, the Mustangs traveled to Ione where they turned 11 hits into a 15-2 victory over the Cardinals. The Mustangs scored freely in every inning but the fourth as they sped to the non-conference win.

Bill Snyder and Tom Green, Mustang hurlers, combined to pitch a two-hit ball game at the Cards. Each of the flingers gave up a run. Snyder worked the first four innings of the contest and gave up both hits, before Green came on in the fifth to throttle the Cards from that point. Snyder was credited with the win as he struck out four and walked only two.

Stuart Dick and Carl Bauman had good showings at the plate for the contest as each collected two hits. Only one of the Mustangs failed to hit safely in the game.

Saturday, the Mustangs returned to their home field to take on the Pilot Rock Rockets in a doubleheader. The Horsemen continued in their winning way as they won the first contest, a seven inning affair, 4-3, and took the second game, 6-5, in extra innings.

Ken Smith, stalwart of the Heppner mound corps, pitched a two-hitter in the first contest to get the win. Smith fanned six and walked four en route to the victory.

The Heppner nine collected all its runs in the fourth frame of the first game as Carl Bauman walked, Lee Daggett singled and Jim Doherty lifted a long fly, which was dropped, to bring them home. Smith then knocked in the tying run with a booming triple and scored the winning run as he came home on a passed ball.

Snyder, Green, and Smith combined their efforts to pitch the second win of the day for the Horsemen. Smith worked the last three innings of the game to pick up his second win of the afternoon.

The teams fought to a 5-5 deadlock at the end of five innings and the game went into the extra inning stage. The locals won it in the bottom of the sixth as Green walked and Snyder brought him in with a double to end the game.

Pete Glennie, Mustang mentor, had high praise for Bauman and Doherty for their play over the week-end. He said that Bauman was especially sharp in his role as first sacker and pointed out that Doherty hit .500 for the three games.

The first contest of the Saturday stand counted in Greater Oregon league standings. The win gave Heppner a 1-2 record in league play.

Saturday, the Mustangs will travel to John Day to meet the Grant Union Prospectors in a doubleheader, the first game of the series counting in league standings.

Tuesday the Mustangs play host to the Condon Blue Devils in another double bill. The first game is slated to start at 3 p.m. Plenty of action is promised in the Tuesday encounter as the Condon club is considered by many as a top contender for state honors in the B ranks.
