Don Wink, auctioneer from Hermiston, will start the exciting auction at 11:00 a.m. at the Ione Grange Hall when hundreds of items will be auctioned to the highest bidder.

The following are just a few of them: a yearling welsh pony, from the John Eubanks Pony Ranch, camping equipment, lawn furniture, garden tools from Rietmann's Hardware, household furniture, baby furniture, bicycles, dishwasher, refrigerator, many valuable antiques, TV sets, skill saw, 20 lbs. of Phillips NH3 on 25 acres by Ekstrom Farm Chemical, one yard sprayed by Dobyn's Pest Control, 20 lbs. of Brea Agri-Chem on 50 acres and one case of oil filters by BI-County Chemical, and many other items that are listed in an advertisement in this paper.

More items, both new and used are coming in continuously as auction time draws near and anyone wishing to donate articles may contact Lindsay

Kincaid in Ione or list at Bristow's market. All items for the auction are to be at the Grange hall on Friday, June 5.

Every member of the family will enjoy the Western barbecue which will feature rolled boned beef roasts cooked with special cherry and apple wood by Garry Tullis, Fred Nelson and Jack Loyd. Serving will start at 12:30 and the committee promises plenty to eat for everyone.

While adults are taking part in the community auction with the opportunity of picking up some exceptional bargains, the kids can enjoy riding around town in an authentic old horse-drawn stage coach which will be driven by Buck Lieuallen of Pendleton.

There will also be a silent auction in the basement of the grange hall and a snack bar open all day. Bob Jepsen, general chairman of the event, said most members of the church have a part in getting the event ready, as well as assisting while it is underway.
