Golfers Have Many Activities

The third men's stag night at the Kinzua Golf club was held Friday with 31 members taking part in the evening's festivities. A wonderful fried chicken dinner was prepared and served by head chef, Jim Walker, followed by the usual evening of cards and chat. The first round of Twilight League play was completed with the "Flubbers" turning in the low team score for the evening. Prizes were also awarded to individuals as follows: Low gross, Milt Boring; low net, Allan Guinn; long drive, Don Slinkard; closest to the pin, Bob Misener; least putts, Gary Couture.

A group of Kinzua "Golfers Wives" entertained the men of the club with an evening of golf, cards and dancing on Saturday night. A husband-wife mixed two ball foursome was "slugged out" by all present and much to the amazement of all there were no casualties and all were on speaking terms when the swinging was over. A tie for low score between Ed and Meridel Wham and Milt and Marj Boring was the outcome, an issue which was not settled but left as is.

On Sunday, a Father-Son Scotch Foursome Tournament was played to climax one of the busiest week-ends of the season. Fathers who had no sons available, borrowed from those with more than one and believe it or not, some fine golf was turned in with most of the "Boys" crowding "Dad" to hold up his end of the play. The contestants were placed in four classes according to the age of the boy as some dads were a bit reluctant to date themselves. When the last putt had been holed, winners were declared to be: Under 10 years, Kent Bell and Milt Boring; 10 through 13 John and Ernie Wall; 14 and over, Vic Bowman and Wayland Hyatt; senior boys, Ned Nickelson, Jr., and Ned Nickelson, Sr. The day was made complete when a home-made ice cream festival was served the entire group. Musical entertainment was provided by "The Patriots," Mr. and Mrs. Don Brock and Don Slinkard. Everyone pronounced this to have been a wonderful day.

Misses Billie Jean and Dolores Bastian of Portland came home Friday evening to spend the week-end and take part in the Mattison-Hire wedding.

Mrs. John Hawk and children spent Friday in Prineville on business and doing some shopping.
