

Crime Rate Rise Greatest Problem, Says Tom McCall

 face is familiar to most residents here because of his work as a television commentator over KGW-TV. Portland, described the duties of the Secretary of State and said, "The office I'm running for deserves more attention."
 The Secretary of State is a member of the State Land Board which has many functions of importance; he is custodian of buildings and grounds; is chief elections officer; and is a member of the State Board of Control.

McCall cited the administration of Howell Appling as Secretary of State as being particularly progressive and emphasized the work he had done towards speeding up the vote count in the state.

The candidate made it clear that he will conduct his campaign on state issues, but added, "This doesn't mean I'm going to jump fences."

On the question of whether he is working for the ticket, he said, "I'm the only candidate going around calling local candidates by name and urging their election."

He pointed out that Republicans in Oregon now hold only four of 13 major state and congressional offices. Of these, Governor Hatfield has only two more years to serve; Howell Appling is retiring, at least temporarily, from politics; Treasurer Howard Belton has only four years more to serve at most; and Congressman Walter Norblad has been having trouble with his health.

Voicing the opinion that the presidential campaign will be a "rough and tough battle," McCall added, "Let the people running for president and Congress discuss the national issues."

Dealing with the future of the state, he said, "It is important that we develop our state because we are going to be the tourist Mecca of the West." This implies not only a "forest of smokestacks," but emphasizes the need for development of recreation in Oregon as well.

McCall paid tribute to Giles French, candidate for the state senate from this district, as "one of our most unique men and one of the most uniquely qualified" for the senate. He told of campaigning in other nearby counties with Irvin Mann, running for state representative, and commended him as an excellent candidate.

The visitor, who was accompanied by his wife Audrey, and Dale Ward of Portland, assisting with the campaign, was introduced by Gene Pierce, his Morrow county campaign manager, as a "humanitarian dedicated to public service, respected in national and state governments for his understanding of government."

Don Turner, county central committee chairman, was master of ceremonies at the dinner. He introduced Earl Soward, candidate for justice of the peace; Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman; County Judge Oscar Peterson; Mann; French; Mrs. Gena Lenoard, vice chairman of the central committee; Herman Winter, treasurer of the committee; and Larry Lindsay, campaign manager for Mann.

Judge Peterson spoke briefly of the county's interest in its recreational potential, water conservation and roads, all matters in which the state could help its development.

French in a short talk said, "I don't know where you could find a man so well qualified as Tom McCall."

Mann also had brief remarks but deferred any speaking time to the guest of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. McCall and Ward arrived in the unique campaign "Bandwagon" about 5 p.m. Tuesday, later than they had intended. Some motor trouble had delayed their start from Portland and three delays for construction work on the highway prevented an earlier arrival. They had intended to tour the business section here to meet more local persons but had to confine visitation to a short trip to the county fair.

 their wives, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cleveland, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Rauch and Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Warner.

The teachers heard an address by Dr. Frank Bennett, who officially retired as president of Eastern Oregon College as of 5 p.m. Wednesday. He contrasted the very low requirements for teachers of the old days with the much higher educational standards exacted of teachers today. Dr. Bennett also spoke of other nostalgic memories gleaned from his long experience as an educator.

The staff was welcomed by Cleveland, chairman of the school board, and Supt. Potter outlined policies of the district and the administrative staff. Mrs. W. S. (Pauline) Miller, a Heppner elementary teacher, sang, "The Sound of Music," as a program feature. Principal Gordon Pratt, Heppner High School, and Beverly Gunderson, district clerk, also had parts on the program.

In all, 87 were present for the meeting.

started as a lineman here in 1930. He was born in Missouri and first worked for an electric cooperative in 1943. Young spent 2 1/2 years in the Air Force and then returned to work in 1946. He moved to Heppner with his family in 1950 and has spent all his time in Oregon at Heppner.

Besides his wife, Helen, his family includes three daughters and two sons. Daughters are Brenda, 17; Debora, 14; Marcia, 12; Bruce, 8; and Bonnie, 2 1/2. In the past 14 years the electric co-op has increased from 500 customers to 2950 customers. It reached 920 customers prior to the purchase from Pacific Power and Light Company of systems in Heppner, Ione, Lexington, Fossil and Condon and gained the additional 2,000 in the exchange.

Ed Dick was born in Lewiston, Mont., but attended grade school at Ione in the '20's when the family came to Morrow county. Later they went to Washington but returned to Morrow county in 1933, living at Heppner. Ed has been a resident here since that time and is a graduate of Heppner High School. He went a year to Pacific University but graduated from the University of Oregon in 1940.

Mrs. Dick came to Heppner from Ashland as a school teacher and married her husband in 1940. Ed's father, L. E. Dick Sr., had been in the Standard Oil business here since 1933. Ed had worked with him and sold appliances door-to-door at various times but went into the oil business in 1941. The appliance business grew at the same time and was located periodically in various buildings around the city.

In 1944, Ed went overseas to serve on shore duty with the Navy as a storekeeper on Saipan. While he was gone, Mrs. Dick opened a floral business in Heppner. This continued through the war years. Ed was back home after 1945.

They sold the flower shop and it continued under different ownerships until just a year or two ago. In 1959 the Dicks bought the building where the appliance store is now located and have been there since with him also operating the Standard Oil distributorship. They have held a franchise for the Norge line of appliances since 1942.

The Dicks have five children. Ladd, 20, Stuart, 17, Erin, 15, Kevin, 12 and Kyle, 8. Mrs. Dick recently completed work for her college degree at Southern Oregon College, Ashland, and started on her master's degree at Eastern Oregon College this summer.

Both Young and Dick are very active in community affairs. Ed served for many years on school boards here, has held many capacities in the Chamber of Commerce and is currently merchants committee chairman. He is a member of the Elks lodge and is active in the Methodist church.

Harley is second vice president of the Chamber of Commerce, is active in lodge work, being a member of Ruth chapter, Eastern Star; Heppner lodge, AF & AM; and of the Royal Arch Masons. He is also a member of the Elks, and the family is affiliated with the Methodist church.

Two more silhouettes are printed this week on page six, and those who are first to make correct identifications Saturday will receive merchandise certificate awards from the firms.

Those who have previously won prizes in any of the weekly contests are not eligible to enter again. However, all are eligible to enter their names for the grand sweepstakes prize. All they need do is fill out a slip at any of the participating stores, drop it in one of the collection boxes, and the drawing will be conducted at the end of the "Meet Our Town" contest for the winner of $60 in merchandise.

MAP SHOWING POSITIONS FOR PARADE LINEUP

IRRIGON—Zoning map for City of Irrigon, prepared by a firm of planning consultants, shows commercial, industrial and residential zones. Park area along river front is also designated.

City of Irrigon Planning Study Forecasts Future

IRRIGON — The above map shows the result of a recent planning study of the City of Irrigon conducted by Fritsch and Kozlowski, planning consultants of Lake Oswego. The study was financed in part by the City of Irrigon, with the Bureau of Municipal Research and Service, University of Oregon, financing two-thirds of the project. The consultants stated that Irrigon could expect to become a major residential center in the near future, and with this in mind, the majority of land usage has been designated as urban, suburban and rural residential areas rather than industrial. The planning project report states, "It is not anticipated that industrial growth will occur within the community, but that the city will continue as a desirable residential district, taking advantage of its riverfront location."

The map also designates the area along the Columbia River that will be developed into parks. Irrigon has grown steadily in the past few years, and 12 new modern homes have been constructed since 1960. The city expects this trend to continue, and is preparing for further growth with the development of west of the town. The planning consultants

Warning is Given On Dog Poisoning

An alert has been sounded by Sheriff C. J. D. Bauman for residents in Heppner, Lexington and Ione to be aware of dog poisoning. Anyone finding suspicious objects which might conceal strychnine poisoning and be eaten by animals is asked to inform the sheriff's office. Within the past 10 days there have been two dogs in Ione and two in Lexington found dead from apparent poisoning.

Episcopal Church Bills Barbecue

Those who have enjoyed the barbecue beef dinner at the Episcopal church in the past are looking forward to the event again this year. It will be held Saturday, starting at 5 p.m. at the church, corner of Church and Gale streets. The barbecue helps residents and visitors enjoy events of today week-end without taking the time to stop and prepare meals.

Little Leaguers To Sell Programs

Boys of the Little League will sell rodeo programs at the week-end shows again this year. The programs sell at 25¢ each, and contain the names of all the entrants, the various events, past champions, and queens of the rodeo since its inception. Proceeds earned by the Little League are used to help defray their expenses during baseball season, and so those who buy programs are supporting this worthwhile cause.
