

❖ Scenes of 1964 ❖ Morrow Fair and Rodeo

THIS FANCY-DRESSED rider on a high stepping horse led a bunch of comic horsemen and women in the rodeo parade. They evoked a great deal of laughter from the large crowd. Cowgirl in this photo is identified as Lois Winchester. (G-T Photo)

THIS MOTLEY CREW of Pirates on a rip-roaring ship festooned with crepe paper and bearing the words, "Yo, Ho, Ho, and a Bottle of Rum," won third place for organizations in the rodeo parade Saturday. It would be hard to believe, but the "Pirates" are members of the Rebekah lodge, Lexington. (G-T Photo)

CONTRASTING THE OLD with the new, the Columbia Basin Electric Co-op float won first for Commercial entries in the rodeo parade on the quotation, "Something Old-Something New." It contrasted the pre-electric era with the modern day conveniences. (G-T Photo)

THE NEW REVOLVING trophy for Morrow county's all-around cowboy at the rodeo, given by the Orville Cutsforth family, had to be shared on this, the first year of the award. Tod Miller (right) of Lexington ended in a deadlock on points for the award with Max Hellberg (left) of Irrigon. Queen Shannon Mahoney (center) doesn't know which way to turn with the trophy. (G-T Photo)

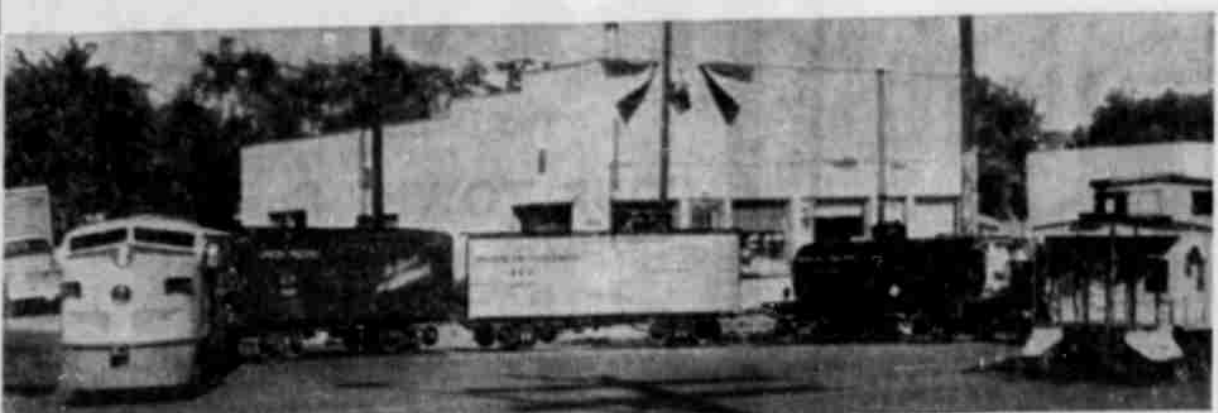

"LEARN BY DOING," the quotation familiar to hundreds of 4-H club members was the theme of this attractive 4-H float in the rodeo parade Saturday. (G-T Photo)

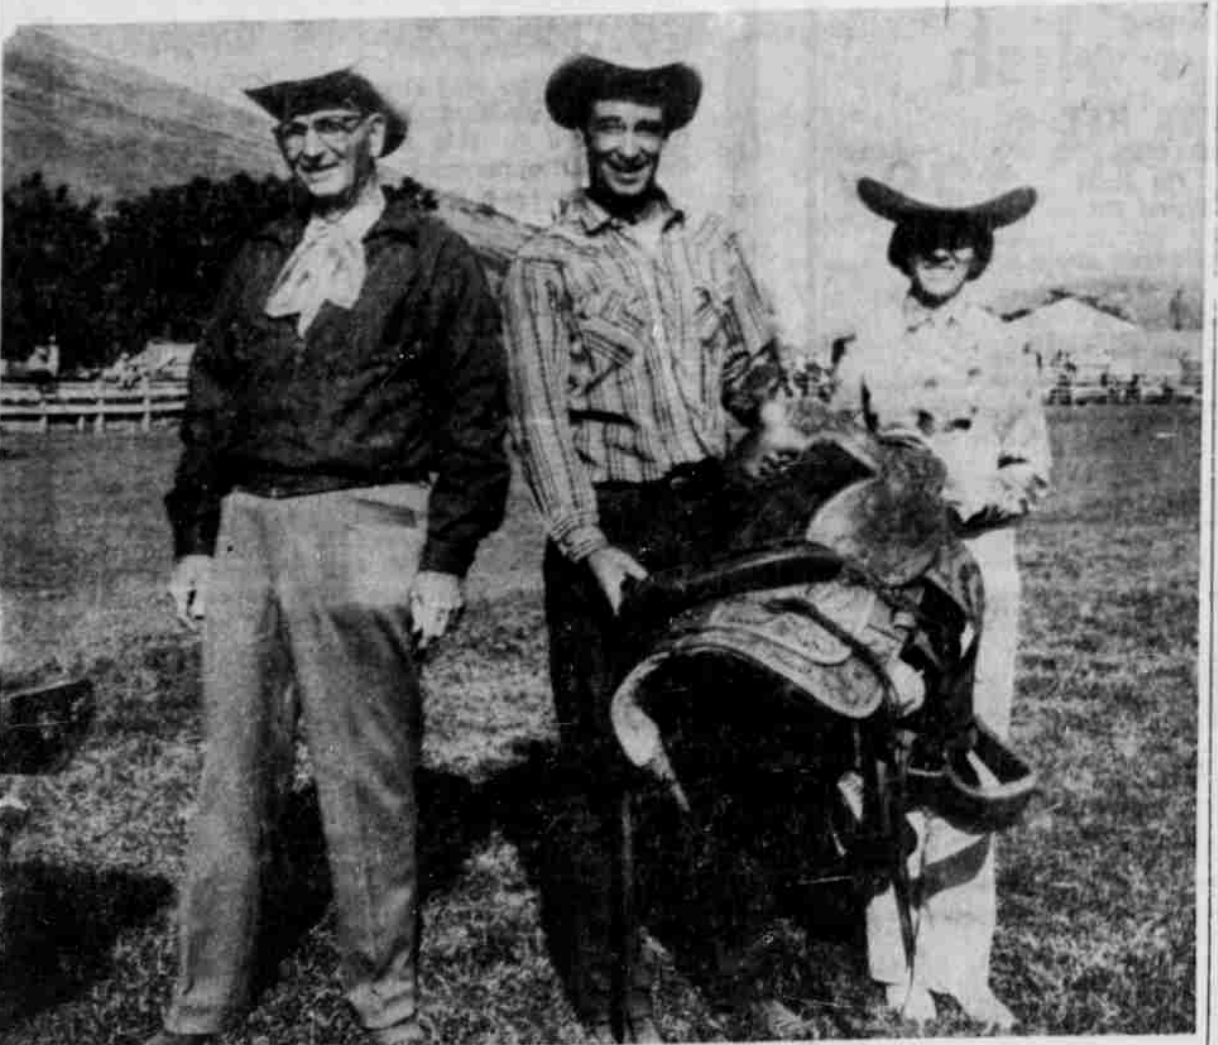

MOTHER'S CLUB float, using the theme, "The Family, Nature's Masterpiece," won second place for adult organizations in the rodeo parade Saturday. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Winter, with children of the Winter and Bob Abrams' families, composed the family group on the float. (G-T Photo)

LOOKS AS IF a freight from the U. P. line jumped the track and is going down Main street in Heppner, but not so. This is the miniature U. P. train, built to three-eighths scale, which added so greatly to the rodeo parade Saturday. Train engineer was Ed Oxner of the company, assisted by Bob Lowe, Heppner, an ex-railroader, and Bob Platt. The engineer is in the engine out of sight. (G-T Photo)

FFA Judging Teams Have Active Summer

Judging teams of the Heppner Chapter of Future Farmers of America have been active through the summer, entering competitive judging of livestock in nearby county fairs.

A team composed of Steve Wagenblast, Ken Wright, John Wagenblast and Dick Flaiz traveled to Tygh Valley August 20 where they competed with several other FFA judging teams.

At the Umatilla County Fair in Hermiston August 21 the team placed third in competition. On the team were Dean Robinson, Tony Doherty, Ken Wright, John Wagenblast and Dick Flaiz, with Steve Wagenblast and Stanley Rauch as alternates.

Last week at the Morrow County Fair, the team received third place in competition with several outside teams. In individual judging, Ken Wright received third place. On the team were Steve and John Wagenblast, Ken Wright, Dean Robinson and Tony Doherty.

The chapter will send a judging team to the Oregon State Fair this Saturday. Accompanying the teams on their trips is Gerald Jonasson, FFA instructor.
