

90 Pints Goal For Blood Bank

Goal of 90 pints of blood is set at the Monday drawing of the Red Cross mobile blood unit, Mrs. Orville Cutsforth, county blood program chairman, states.

The unit will set up at the Elks temple, and the drawing will be from 3 to 6 p.m., the later closing hour being set to make it possible for those who work to donate.

Jayvees of Heppner have agreed to assist with recruiting donors and will be making calls this week under the chairmanship of Kenneth Cutsforth. Those who would like to make appointments may call him, Mrs. Hene Wyman at Pioneer Memorial hospital, or Mrs. Orville Cutsforth.

Requirements for donors are the same as always. Those of ages 18 to 59, inclusive, are eligible, both men and women. Women must weigh 110 pounds, and those donating should not have been under medication for the past two weeks.

Donations may be made in the name of those who have required considerable quantities of blood from the Red Cross. Anyone who has had occasion to use a quantity is invited to ask friends and relatives to give in his or her name.

Mrs. Cutsforth said that Dona Barnett had required a considerable amount of blood and would appreciate the help of donors who are willing to give replacement blood.

Those who donate at the blood bank receive a card telling their blood type, and this may be of particular value in case of accident or other emergency.

There are many in the community who have become members of the gallon club and others are nearing that point. Some new ones may qualify for gallon club membership Monday.

While it is desirable to have an appointment to donate, it is not essential, and all who are able are asked to come and give at the drawing.

In a blood bank visit earlier this year, only 51 pints were taken against the quota of 90 pints, and it is hoped that the goal on this occasion may be reached.

Dealer Showrooms Blossom with New 1965 Model Cars

Automobile dealer showrooms in Heppner were polished and sparkling this week as their owners prepared to place new 1965 model cars on display.

Banners blossomed out in midweek, and in backshops, out of public view, staffs of the garages adjusted and shined the new models for announcement days on Thursday and Friday.

Perhaps for the first time, all models this year are being placed on display at about the same time. Several will be in the showrooms today (Thursday), and the rest will be out for display on Friday. Usually, the announcements come over a period of several weeks.

A check with the three local dealers shows that they have at least one of each of their new models on hand for display. This week's paper includes announcements from seven makes: Mercury, Comet and the Ford line, all on display at Heppner Auto Sales; Rambler, Buick and Pontiac, all on display at Farley Motor Company; and the Chevrolet line, on display at Fulleton Chevrolet.

The public is invited to take a little time and drop in at these auto dealers for views of the new models. All three local agencies are pleased with changes made and new designs and will welcome the opportunity to point them out to all comers.

They will have coffee and cookies for those who would like a bit of refreshment also.

Readers of this paper are asked to notice the various models in advertisements throughout the paper and to see news pictures about the cars on various pages.

Democrats Lead In Registration; Deadline is Near

Democrats, once well outnumbered in Morrow county, continue to move ahead of the Republicans in registration after taking an edge at the time of the primary election, Mrs. Sadie Parrish, county clerk states.

Count this week showed 1095 registered Democrats and 1038 registered Republicans. Independents and others totaled 41. Total registration at this time is 2173.

New registrations are coming in very slowly, surprisingly so, Mrs. Parrish said. Each precinct reports only a few new ones.

Deadline for registration is 8 p.m. on October 3, the office of the county clerk being kept open later on that day (Saturday) to accommodate any last minute signers. Persons coming new to the county have the right to register and vote in the general election without a waiting period. Those coming from another state cannot vote on state offices until after a six months' period.

Those women who have married since they last voted must re-register, and any person who has moved to a new precinct must re-register.

Any whose registration status is in doubt should check with the county clerk.

Demo Caravan Gets Good Reception Here

State and district Democratic candidates came to Heppner Monday to meet and greet Morrow county residents, and they found a good reception from the small afternoon crowd on hand for the brief rally at the old city library.

In the caravan were Attorney General Robert Y. Thornton, Portland, candidate for Secretary of State; Robert Straub of Eugene, candidate for State Treasurer; and Mrs. Martin Buchanan of Milton-Freewater, candidate for state representative from the 28th district, joined them here on the first stop of their caravan to continue to Hermiston and Pendleton for ensuing meetings.

Other local candidates here to greet them were Paul Jones, candidate for county judge; Mrs. Sadie Parrish, candidate to succeed herself as clerk; Maxwell Jones, candidate for county commissioner; and Al Lamb, chairman of the Democratic central committee for the county and candidate for reelection to the county port commission. Others joined the informal gathering to swell the number to 30.

Sen. Corbett, in his remarks to the group, said that the Secretary of State has five jobs: 1. Property manager. 2. Elections officer. 3. State Auditor. 4. Member of the Land Board. 5. Member of the Board of Control.

He described some of the duties of each and told of some ideas that he has for implementation if he is elected. Auditing function of the state officer is more important than is often believed, he said, as a safeguard to money of taxpayers.

Sen. Corbett stressed that competitive bidding is needed on offshore oil leases and told of

Reduced Figure Set For Ballot

Morrow county voters who go to the polls at the time of the general election November 3 will vote on a 3-year serial levy for county roads, another in a continuing series of levies that has supported the roads for a number of years.

This levy calls for $100,000 per year for three years, beginning with the 1965-66 fiscal year. County voters in 1962 approved a 3-year levy at $115,000 per year. The 1964-65 fiscal year will be the last year of this serial levy.

Prior to the current levy, voters had approved a levy for $135,000 per year that was concluded in 1962.

County Judge Oscar Peterson said that the county court felt that if the matter could be placed on the ballot at the time of the general election, it would not be necessary to call a special election sometime next year.

The judge said that the court felt that it could reduce the levy requested from $115,000 to $100,000 per year for several reasons.

Costs have been lowered considerably, he said. In addition, maintenance costs are not as high on old roads, and more of the county roads are now oiled. Also most of the roads of the county are now covered with crushed road and do not need to be included in rocking programs. Finally, equipment of the road department is now in good shape and fewer major needs are anticipated in this line.

Since the serial levy type of financing was started for county roads, voters have never failed to approve the levies at the polls.

Boys of ages 8 through 15 are invited to participate in the clinic which will be staged with the cooperation of Coaches Les Matthews and Gene Dockter of Ione and Tom Hughes of Heppner.

Instructions will be given on the punt, pass and kick competition that will be held at a later date.

Many boys have already signed for the competition but many more are expected. They may register for the contest at Heppner Ford of at Jim's Chevron Service at Ione.

No registration is necessary for the boys to participate at the Saturday clinic. More information is included in the advertisement on page 1, section 2 of this paper.

'Wrong Side' Driving Bothers Londoner on Visit

When Bob Lowe visited in England earlier this year, he found it confusing and frightening to drive on the left side of the road. But now the tables are turned.

His second cousin, 21-year-old Miss Ann Kingston of London, is visiting here, and she is confused and frightened because cars are always "keeping to the right."

But she isn't letting this spoil a wonderful time. She has been staying with Mrs. Henry Krebs in Arlington, and members of the family have been taking turns showing her the country, its industries and events. When Lowe and Mr. and Mrs. Krebs were in England, she was "chauffeur" for them.

Ann attended the Pendleton Round-Up. Asked how she liked it, she said with a heavy English accent, "I can't find words to express it, it was so good!"

She thinks the United States is a wonderful place, was surprised to find that the Indians at the Round-Up (contrary to the Western movies she has seen) were so pleasant, but has already decided that she wouldn't want to "settle down" here. She admits she wasn't scalped even once at the Round-Up.

She is used to being in a population center, working as a hair coloring expert in London, and likes activity all around. She finds the wide open spaces of Eastern Oregon a little lonely.

Ann has become acclimated to American ways pretty speedily, however. As a test, she was asked, "What do you put in cars to make them go?" She hesitated just a moment, and then said, "Gas!" Undoubtedly, it would have been considerably easier for her to have said, "Petrol."

Miss Kingston came west from Buffalo by train on her month's stay and expects to depart from Seattle on October 2. Early this week she enjoyed a trip to the mountains near Heppner and went through the Kinzua Corporation mill to see lumber made.

While she declared she liked the population centers the best, she admitted that it was considerably more congested in England, saying it once took her 12 hours to drive 275 miles from London.

(No wonder—she drove on the left side of the road all the way, her cousin I might say).

3 Contestants Quickly Identify LeRoy Gardner

LeRoy Gardner, who with his wife, Marj, is new owner of Gardner's Men's Wear, was the fellow in the silhouette in last week's Gazette-Times. It didn't take long for many to reach this conclusion, and the three who came to the store Saturday and first made the identification were Claude Graham, Ken Daggett and Bernard Damon.

They won merchandise prizes of $5, $3 and $2, respectively.

On page five, section 2, of this paper is the last Silhouette advertisement of the current series, containing the final silhouette to be identified Saturday. The first three will receive the $5, $3, and $2 awards from the store represented by the person to be named.

This is the final chance, too, to enter names in boxes in the 12 participating business houses in order to qualify for the grand prize of $60 in merchandise, $5 from each store. Boxes will be collected Saturday after which the winning name will be drawn and the person notified. Announcement will be made in next week's paper.

The Gardners have been in the retail store business here only about two months, having purchased the store from Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blake.

LeRoy was born and reared in Dufur and graduated from high school there in 1939. Mrs. Gardner, too, went through school in Dufur, graduating in 1940. They were high school sweethearts and were married in 1941.

Gardner worked at The Dalles following high school, first at

Auction to Close Builders Supply

An auction sale Sunday at Ione Builders Supply will sell all stock and fixtures of the firm, after which it will be out of business, Al Lamb and Harlan McCurdy, Jr., owners, announce.

The sale is scheduled to start at 10 a.m. with W. D. (Bill) Mobley and V. R. (Bob) Rinnion as auctioneers. To be sold are a truck owned by the firm, office equipment, the entire stock of lumber, hardware and supplies, as well as miscellaneous goods.

Lamb and McCurdy took over the firm as of May 1 when the former owner, Mel Melena, went to Haines. He is now in Ontario.

Rinnion emphasized that this is a close out sale and that "everything goes." He said that it is not a cleanup sale. Further details are in an advertisement elsewhere in this paper.

Ione and Heppner Travel for Games

Both Heppner and Ione football teams will be on the road this week-end, the Mustangs going to Maupin for a Friday night contest with Maupin Union and the Cardinals going to Weston for a game at 2 p. m. Friday.

Maupin is a school of A-2 size which is "frozen" this year at the B level. It was slated to join the Greater Oregon league but all schools were temporarily held in their old brackets this year, according to Athletic Director Pete Glennie of Heppner High.

Thus, the Friday night contest is a non-league affair.

Not so with Weston, however, Coach Gordon Meyers of the Cards will face his first league action in the Umatilla-Morrow B circuit against the ever-strong Weston team after the Ione boys had a week's layoff following their win over Dufur.

Maupin appears to be a strong outfit, having just dumped Stanfield, 38 to 0, after the Stanfield eleven had defeated Pilot Rock easily the week before by a large margin.

Both Heppner and Ione are injury free to date and each should be at top strength in the coming contests.

Glennie has arranged to have the score called back to Heppner after the Maupin game, and local persons interested may obtain the score late Friday night by calling 676-5336.

Next football game at Heppner will be the Jayvee game with John Day here Monday afternoon, September 28, starting at 3:30.

195 Pupils Go To Forest Class

Bull Prairie's campground was the out of door classroom for one day for sixth graders of Morrow, Wheeler and Gilliam counties as they took the annual conservation tour Tuesday.

It was lots of fun for the youngsters, but it wasn't just a "lark." The 195 sixth graders learned a great deal about a number of important subjects, ranging from "outdoor manners" to range management.

Cooperating on the annual tour were the Soil Conservation Service, County Extension Service, State Board of Forestry, U. S. Forest Service, Kinzua Corporation, Oregon State Game Commission, and the schools.

Supt. David Potter and principals, together with sixth grade teachers, accompanied the pupils who made the trip in school buses. Pupils from each school were as follows: Heppner, 64; Condon, 36; Irrigon 21; Wheeler county, 36; Ione 12; Olex 6.

Eight adults also made the trip in addition to the school faculties.

Nels Anderson, Morrow county agent, was coordinator. After arrival at the Bull Prairie grounds about 10:30, the group ate lunch, and then Glen Ward of the State Game Commission and Jack Krieger of the U. S. Forest Service told of the history of the Bull Prairie development.

Thereafter, the some 200 pupils "went to class" at eight stations around the area. The pupils were divided into eight sections and each section spent 12 minutes at each station, then were given three minutes to go to the next station.

Instructors and subjects of each station were these: Station 1, Forest Soils, Ralph Richards; station 2, range management, Les Marks, county extension service; station 3, outdoor manners, Bob Jepsen; station 4, fire control, Henry Dahill, State Board of Forestry; station 5, timbers and improvement, Jim Hilderbrand, U. S. Forest Service; station 6, commercial forest management, Dick Graham, Kinzua Corporation; station 7, tree identification, Jack Krieger, and station 8, wildlife, Glen Ward.

At the conclusion of the instruction at 1:30, the youngsters were given a bottle of pop each by Kinzua Corporation together with a quiz to be filled out en route home, and at 1:45 they departed for home.

A few of the random points covered on the conservation tour were these: Dahill—90% of fires caused by human carelessness, gave instruction on how to build and care for a fire in the woods. Hilderbrand—discussion of the thinning and pruning program, showed difference in growth of timber under various conditions.
