

Red Cross Drive Progress Slow, Chairman Reports

Progress has been slow on collections for the Morrow county chapter, American Red Cross, in the March fund drive, Jack Locke of the First National Bank, fund chairman, said Wednesday.

Solicitation in Heppner has been divided among three persons, Mrs. Matt Hughes, Mrs. H. J. Stroeber and Mrs. Paul Heinrichs. They are presently working on the collection.

Mrs. Orville Cutsforth has organized the Lexington area, and Mrs. Gar Swanson is chairman for Ione. In Boardman, Mrs. Betty Ziemer has agreed to solicit the business district.

Locke said that returns to date are not sufficient to compile a report.

Quota for the county is $1354. It is hoped that the public will respond in order that this goal may be met. Any who wish to contribute and are not contacted in person may send their donations, which make them members of the Red Cross, to Locke at the First National Bank.

ional office to determine whether it wishes to pay the additional for bridges of normal standard.

The county school district also applied for emergency funds for repair of damage done to the lone school in the December flood. The advance for this has not been received as yet, Supt. David Potter said, but it is expected soon.

Meanwhile, with the $168,000 federal advance and the $125,000 borrowed from the state by the county under provisions of a legislature act passed at the current session of the legislature at no interest, road work is moving ahead in the county at a brisk pace.

Judge Jones said that the county is letting contracts to Leroy Britt for work on a number of roads in the north end of the county, including grading, hauling of rock and reconstruction. Several truckers are under contract for hauling rock elsewhere in the county, and local men are Bill Scott and Pete Hams. Howard Keithley has been engaged to replace culverts, re-place culvert headwalls and work on cattle guards.

Oiling program has been worked out for the next two years, with the road department planning on oiling 30 miles of road each year. This program was to be approved at the Wednesday meeting of the county court, after which a map, showing the roads to be so improved, will be posted in the county court room. Those interested are invited to come and check it.

Vernie Jarl, contractor, is currently at work on a $30,000 rock crushing contract near Lexington.

Hewitt said that the design for the Butter Creek bridges should be finished in two weeks, and if the county agrees to its share of the cost between minimum and normal standard for the bridges, work can go ahead very soon on replacing them.

Surplus steel girders in varying lengths and sizes and bridge decking have been purchased from Peter Klewit and Sons for use on bridges in the county. This was material used on temporary overpasses during road and fill construction work at Arlington.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Ross (Mary Evelyn Tucker) of Salem are here to spend part of their spring vacation with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Archie Padberg, Mrs. Ross is teaching two-thirds time in Salem and he is working days and attending night school. They expect to return after the week-end here.

Casha Shaw, 92, Called by Death

Mrs. Casha Fay Shaw, 92, Morrow county pioneer and resident of Heppner from 1893 until 1962, died Saturday, March 20, in Hermiston where she had lived for the past 2 1/2 years.

Funeral services were at the First Christian church, Heppner, Monday with the Rev. Jack Naff officiating. Interment was in the Lexington cemetery, Burns Mortuary of Hermiston was in charge of arrangements.

Mrs. Shaw was born in Red Bluff, Calif., in 1872, attended school in Denver, Colo., and came to Oregon in 1890. She was married in Heppner in 1893, and her husband preceded her in death in 1932.

In 1936, Mrs. Shaw, affectionately known as "Grandma" by many, left the ranch where they had lived and moved into town to live with her brother who died in February, 1958. She then lived alone until 1962 when she moved to Hermiston and resided in a rest home until her death.

She was a member of the Christian church since her baptism in April, 1937, and was a member of the Golden Age club of Hermiston. In speaking of Mrs. Shaw, the Rev. Naff said, "The pioneers of the past built with an eye to the present. In building a life, we are bound to build memories. Many today have many memories of Grandmaw Shaw who was considered 'Grandmaw' of the town. She was a woman who busied herself doing things for others. What one so faithful builds, we do not soon forget."

She is survived by a son, Guy Shaw, Hermiston; a daughter, Lottie Budden of Klamath Falls; 12 grandchildren; 29 great-grandchildren; and one great-grandchild.

Visiting with Mrs. Mattie Green over the week-end were her daughter, Mrs. Mildred Lundblad of Gresham, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Green and daughter Shell of Tacoma, Wn. The group went to La Grande and Pendleton Sunday and the visitors left for home Monday afternoon. Mrs. Lundblad is a teacher at Springdale and Green works for the Boeing Company near Tacoma.

Barratt Reports On OSU Athletics

Native son Jim Barratt, effervescent athletic business manager at Oregon State University, made a surprise appearance at the Heppner-Morrow county Chamber of Commerce meeting Monday while on a visit to Heppner and was immediately pressed into service for an impromptu talk.

"I'm seldom prepared to speak, but I am always ready," he responded, and then set about to give some interesting sidelights and insights on the recent NCAA basketball finals in Portland and on Oregon State athletics.

"The City of Portland and Oregon State University did the best job in several years as hosts of the national basketball championships," Barratt said. OSU was in the role of the host school.

Four new Oldsmobiles were placed at the disposal of each team during their visit in the City of Roses, and more than 100 baskets of fruit were placed in rooms of the players and visitors. They were also given mementos of their visit in the northwest.

Barratt said that he had felt that Jim Jarvis, OSU basketball star, was even better than Gale Goodrich of UCLA until he watched the finals Saturday night between UCLA and Michigan. Goodrich scored 42 as the Uclans won.

"Now I don't know," he mused, Jarvis will be among the players for the West team in the East-West game to be played Saturday. He is currently with the OSU baseball team in Arizona but will fly from there to play in the game, which will be televised nationally.

Describing the new OSU football coach, Dee Andros, as "big, friendly, and real colorful," Barratt had optimistic predictions about the future of the grid sport in Beaverland under Andros' leadership.

"He has said that it will be hard to make them kick on the second or third down—or even the fourth down," the athletic business manager said. At the same time, Barratt said that Tommy Prothro had done a great job for Oregon State during his long tenure there.

Bob Timmonds, new track coach and assistant at the University of Kansas last year, was chosen for his "great achievements," Barratt said. Coming to Oregon State to be under Timmonds' coaching will be Jim Ryan, first high school boy to run the mile in less than four minutes and "one of the greatest track prospects in America today," Barratt said that he anticipates some great rivalry between Ryan and Jerry Lindgren, who attained fame in the Olympics and who is now attending Washington State College.

Barratt, who said that his visits to Heppner will probably become more infrequent "now that all the Barratt clan has moved away," anticipates that enrollment at OSU, now at 10,500, will go up to about 13,000 "almost overnight." Annual athletic budget at the college is $800,000.

Will be using a new, high concentrate spray system that is 95% efficient, as compared to 30% efficiency with a boom and nozzle system. This system reduces the amount of 2, 4-D necessary by 1/3 to 1/2, due to complete saturation of the weeds, resulting in a considerable saving to the farmer and a reduced shock to the grain.

Inland Chemical Service of Heppner handles the new concentrate 2, 4-D used most effectively for hard to kill weeds and this new spray system.
