Boardman Hosts Trekkers During Weekend Camp

By MARY LEE MARLOW

BOARDMAN — The "First Oregon Artillery Volunteers" camped at the fair grounds here over the week-end on their cross country trek from Banks, Ore., to Washington, D. C., which they began April 9. They are led by Maj. Rudy Marek.

They are composed of a group of young men who organized in the summer of 1960 under the name of First Oregon Field Artillery from an idea conceived when Maj. Marek, a former Portland policeman, constructed his first replica of a Civil War cannon. Their first public appearance was in the Merrykhana parade in Portland in June of that year. In August they presented their first exhibition at Banks.

This show demonstrated the effectiveness of civil war artillery by destroying a log fort with solid and exploding projectiles. It marked the beginning of a long list of activities in which the Volunteers participated. They opened the Oregon State Fair by firing an artillery salute from the steps of the capitol in Salem.

In 1962 they began to look forward to an idea formulated for a group of 20 men, two cannons and an army supply wagon—a covered wagon—to cross the United States from Portland to Washington, D. C., in commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the Civil War ending in 1865. Throughout the following years the Volunteers continued to perform in parades and shows throughout Oregon and Washington. In August, 1964, the group obtained a movie contract to appear in the soon to be released "Shenandoah," starring James Stewart. The Volunteers fired three salutes with their cannon while here, twice at 6 p.m. Saturday and Sunday evenings, and at 2 p.m. Sunday when they fired a salute over the new townsite of Boardman. The Boy Scout troop from Irrigon presented the colors with them. The caravan has 24 horses with them, both saddle horses and some to pull the wagons. Civil War relics are being sold along the way to help pay expenses.

Forestry Clarifies Sticker Provisions

Conservation stickers which will be placed on sale for use of designated National Forest area by the public are not needed for fishing, W. S. Miller, ranger in charge of the Heppner district said in clarifying an announcement made recently on the sale of the stickers. They are needed by campers and picknickers but the fishing waters are excluded. Thus, it will not be necessary to buy a sticker or a single day's entry permit to fish in the Bull Prairie Reservoir if the person goes there solely for that purpose, Miller said.

He also pointed out that enforcement of the stickers will not go into effect until July 1. Previously there had been some confusion since it was understood that the stickers would be on sale now but single entry permits will not be issued until late May, the inference being late May, the inference being that a person would have to buy a sticker if he wanted to use the areas now. Such it not the case, because enforcement will not start until July, Miller said.

Stickers are now on sale at the forestry headquarters here. Looking for mimeograph stencils? The Gazette-Times has them for sale, including special church bulletin style.
