MR. AND MRS. RODNEY AYERS

Couple at Home Here Following May 2 Wedding

The marriage of Miss Cheryl Anne McGhee and Rodney Thomas Ayers was solemnized at an impressive candlelight ceremony on Sunday afternoon, May 2. The bride is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Austin McGhee of Cave Junction and parents of the groom are Mr. and Mrs. Ray Ayers of Heppner. Vows were exchanged at a 4:00 p.m. double ring ceremony at the Immanuel Methodist church in Cave Junction, with the bride's father, a former minister of the Heppner Methodist church, performing the ceremony.

Chancel decorations consisted of a worship center formed by a picture of Sallman's "Head of Christ," an open Bible with a rose laying across it, and white tapers on either side. Candleabra were at each side of the worship center, with baskets of white dogwood and cherry blossoms.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Larry McGhee of Eugene, appeared in a floor length gown of white peau de sole with chapel train. The fitted bodice and long tapered sleeves were of lace, and styled with a sweetheart neckline. A crown, which was accented with simulated pearls and crystal beads, held a fingertip veil of silk illusion net. She carried a cascade bouquet of sweetheart roses.

The attendants wore street length dresses of embossed aqua peau de sole, and carried nosegays of spring garden flowers. Lighting the tapers before the ceremony were Kerry McGhee, sister of the bride; Janice Hauser, a niece of the bride, and Kathleen Musil.

Another niece of the bride, Tammie Hauser, attended as flower girl. Serving as best man was the brother-in-law of the groom, Gale McClintock, Pendleton, and Harold Hauser, brother-in-law of the bride, served as usher.

Use of New Instant Flour Brings Problems to Some

The new instant flour gets raves from most experienced cooks but is panned by some others. Why? We asked Virginia Weiser, extension nutrition specialist at OSU. She explained that the problems women have with instant flour seem to show up when it is used in a favorite cookie recipe or pie crust. Both of these products depend on the right dough consistency for good results.

Doughs made with the new flours don't look and feel like those made with regular flour. At this stage, you might get discouraged and be tempted to add more water or try to roll out the dough while it is still crumbly.

Don't add more water, says Miss Weiser, until after you've patted the dough together with your hands. It may look crumbly, but pressing it together usually makes it the right consistency for rolling out.

Precautions Necessary While Away on Vacation

Before you leave on a vacation, check your refrigerator and freezer plugs to be sure they cannot accidentally get pulled out while you're away, suggests Bernice Strawn, extension home management specialist.

We often receive calls at our county extension offices about this unfortunate circumstance. Food spoils, money is wasted. And it's a messy clean up job, to say the least.

Be safe, install a twistlock receptacle and plug. This can't get knocked out. Then you may be assured this accident won't happen.
