

Seniors Royally Honored Saturday at Banquet, Prom

By KATHERINE LINDSTROM

IONE—Ione High school seniors entertained the 1966 graduating class at a banquet at the cafetorium on Saturday evening. Theme for the gaily decorated tables was "Some Enchanted Evening" with a Polynesian theme. Many colored candles were used on the tables with pineapples and little grass shacks decorating the head table. Napkins, place cards, and programs carried out the island theme.

Karen Nelson, president of the junior class welcomed the seniors, their parents and the faculty. Rev. Walter B. Crowell gave the invocation and Father Raymond Beard gave the benediction. Bob Baker, president of the senior class, responded and gave the class history and prophecy.

Junior class mothers prepared the meal and sophomore girls in bright colored shifts and boys in ray print shirts served the guests. Those serving were Ron and Janet Palmateer, Jim McElligott, Kerry Peterson, Wilma Johnson, Sharlene Hamlett, Chuck and Keith Nelson, Betty Hausler, Maureen McElligott, and Frank Halvorsen.

Following the dinner the annual prom was held in the old gymnasium. Carrying out the theme of the banquet the room was decorated with a Polynesian atmosphere. The entrance was draped with fish nets and the far end of the dance floor had a grass shack and island girl. Small tables with bright colored candles surrounded the dance floor.

The refreshment table was presided over by eighth grade students, Joe McElligott, Mark Pointer, Ron Christopher's on, Kristina Peterson, Susan Jane Jepsen, and Barbara Boyce.

Music was provided by The Taynes, a group from Pendleton. At intermission Karen Hams and Bob Baker were crowned King and Queen of the Prom and all the seniors were introduced. Others in the class are Rodney Linnell, Mark Halvorsen, Jay Ball, Stan Holstein, Mike Palmer, Herbert Davidson, and Bill Johnson. Lloyd Johnson is their class advisor.

Karen Nelson was hostess for a breakfast at their country home following the dance for the juniors and their dates and the dance band.
