That Time of the Year Again!

It's about that time of year again—time for college students to head by their various trails back home. And what, pray tell, may all the excitement and confusion be? Why, its Thanksgiving, of course!

Relatives and friends alike make it a special event they're not to soon forget.

When the final bell has sounded for the meal, everyone makes a mad dash for the food. Usually they start with adults and work the way down, so by the time the food comes around to us it's only scraps that remain. There's only one way to overcome this problem—Get more food!

By the time Thanksgiving is completed the college students vanish back to college and the friends and relatives leave for their separate homes. Whether young or old, by the end of this eventful holiday, we are all far too tired or sick to worry about food. Until Christmas Day—that is!

Old Pop Machine Not Alone

That poor old pop machine is not alone in the hall any more. It seems that a newcomer has taken over the position as break period gathering place.

This new machine doesn't spill forth pop and ice into a cup; it doesn't take the place of a healthful meal at lunchtime; it doesn't lend its products to some more of those mysterious ailments that sometimes befall teenagers. Nope. No acne and tired blood from this machine! It gives out healthful, delicious, non-fattening, homogenized, vitamin D-added, cold, foamy, Moo Juice. (Better known as milk.)

Yes, now you can, by just depositing one thin dime into a machine in the hall, get milk, both plain and chocolate, or if you wish you can get an orange drink in a handy, plastic-coated carton.

One thing is wrong, though; this monster does not take quarters. Many an aspiring milk drinker has had to go dry because he didn't have change. It seems now that the most common greeting in the hall is, "Have you got change for a quarter?" Maybe we should have a change-making machine in the hall, too!

Hehisch Expresses Gratitude

The HEHISCH would like to extend a thank-you to Mr. Wes Sherman and his staff at the Gazette-Times for the wonderful job they have done on the past two issues of the HEHISCH.

Our staff is particularly proud of these papers since they are the first of this kind we have had published. We plan to have more issues like these once each month by alternating the duplicated issues with those printed at the Gazette-Times.

Due to the fact that the HEHISCH uses no advertising, we are on a low budget. Fortunately the Gazette-Times prints the HEHISCH at a rate which is much lower than most high schools which have printed publications must pay.

The HEHISCH is again extremely grateful to the Gazette-Times for the time, effort and guidance given in printing our paper.

Future Business Leaders 'Kidnap' New Members

Plenty of excitement filled the scene, Thursday, November 10, when the Heppner Chapter of the Future Business Leaders of America held its initiation of new members. The initiates were "kidnapped" from their homes at 7:00 p.m. and blindfolded. The bewildered candidates were driven in members' cars to the home of Donna Potter where they were led through a maze of cardboard boxes.

Still blindfolded, they survived such stunts as being forced to jump across a pan of water which they believed to be much larger than it really was.

Following the fun, the formal program of initiation was completed. Parts were read by Kay Daggett, Jan Hager, Linda Warren, Jill Schmidt and Donna Potter. After the program, refreshments were served.

Those initiated were Patti Holt, Teresa Harshman, Vickie Robinson, Marsha Lovgren, Paula Siewert, Sue Greenup, Debbie Bennett, Frank Lovgren, Pam Hughes, Sandy Bryson, Kay Huson, Martha Pierce and Brenda Steagall.

Others who will become members but were unable to attend the event were John Van Winkle, Bob Van Winkle, and Lynda Orwick.

Another activity of the FBLA is a businessman's service. On November 10, four members worked downtown at the Columbia Basin Co-op office. The money earned for this type of service is used for such things as sending students to the FBYA conventions.

Student Drivers Rate Themselves 'Average'

Sixty-eight percent of the junior and senior high school students of Heppner, Riverside and Lone High schools rate themselves as "average drivers" while 60.98 percent of the same group rate their fathers as "excellent drivers." At the same time, the students (63%) rate their mothers as "average drivers."

This is shown in a questionnaire prepared by driver's education students of Riverside High under the direction of Dale Holland, driver's education instructor. Results of the survey, including most of the seniors and juniors of the three schools, were compiled by the Riverside students.

The questionnaire shows that of the 144 students participating, 127, or 88%, have licenses or permits to drive. Seventeen do not.

Twenty-nine percent own their own cars, totaling 41 students. One hundred three do not. Eighteen in Riverside have cars, six in Lone and 17 in Heppner.

Fifty-eight of the students said they drive more than 5,000 miles per year, of whom 36 are from Heppner. Only 24, or 17 percent, of all students said they had ever received a traffic ticket. One hundred eighteen have not.

Only 13 Go to Court
Only 13 said they have gone to court for a violation, and 131 have not.

More than half the students, 76, have taken driver education, and 67 have not. Twenty-nine of the 144 said they have had an accident and 115 have not.

Only 10, or 7 percent, believe that the age for receiving licenses should be raised to 18. One hundred twenty-four said it should not, and eight had no opinion.

Ninety-two think that putting pictures on driver's licenses is a good idea, but 28 think not. Twenty-three have no opinion on this question.

Forty-eight students believe that driver's tests should be required for license renewal, 84 think not, and 10 have no opinion on this.

Traffic law enforcement is good in Morrow county, according to 66 of the students, or 46 percent. Fifty-two, or 37 percent, think it is not, of whom 30 come from Heppner. Twenty-four expressed no opinion. Of those who felt enforcement is good in the county, 38 come from Heppner, seven from Lone and 21 from Riverside.

Ninety-three believe that speed limits in Morrow county are well posted, but 44 do not believe they are, and six express no opinion.

Say Respect Law
Fifty-eight percent of the students polled (81) feel that teenage drivers respect the law, 25 percent (36) feel they do not, and 17 percent (24) have no opinion.

Most of the students feel that they get along well with the local police. One hundred one (71%) replied yes to this question, and only 8 percent replied no. Thirty students (21%) had no opinion.

Sixty-three of the 144, or 44%, answered "Yes" to the question, "Do you think drinking and driving is a serious problem with most teenagers?" Fifty-nine replied "No" (41%), and twenty-one had no opinion.

Nine-two, or 67 percent, said they do not believe that teenagers have more driving problems than adults.

To the question, "Should teenagers, not owning their own car, be allowed to use their parents' car?" twenty-five (17%) answered "Yes," 103 (72%) answered "No," and 14 (20%) had no opinion.

Only nine think that the parents are too "free" with the family car. One hundred eighteen think not, and 15 have no opinion. Virtually all the students believe that teenagers accept the responsibilities of driving. One hundred fifteen said "Yes" to this question. Only 15 said "No" and 13 had no opinion.

An even 100, of whom 59 come from Heppner, believe highways in the county should be improved. Six think not, and 32 answered "some."

Eighty-seven of the 144 drive cars, with seat belts, and 55 drive cars without them.

Dad's Rated Best
Here's how the students rate their fathers as drivers: Poor—Riverside, 3 students; Lone, none; Heppner, none. Average—Riverside, 14; Lone, 9; and Heppner, 25. Excellent—Riverside, 17; Lone, 11; and Heppner, 44.

But mothers didn't fare quite as well on the questionnaire: Poor—Riverside, 7; Lone, 1; Heppner, 2. Average—Riverside, 20; Lone, 13; and Heppner, 52. Excellent—Riverside, 8; Lone, 8; and Heppner, 19.

As to themselves, the students put the ratings this way: Poor—Riverside, 4; Lone, none; Heppner, 4. Average—Riverside, 29; Lone, 10; Heppner, 52. Excellent—Riverside, 6; Lone, 9; Heppner, 19.

Holland works with driver training students in all parts of the county, spending part of the school year at Riverside, Heppner and Lone.

ing. Congratulations to the cast, stage hands, and those who put on the make-up," says Mr. Fielder.

"The Bride's Stand-in," a play recently produced by one of the Heppner High school speech classes, collected $151.48 from ticket sales. This amount of money will go into the Speech and Drama club treasury for future activities.

"The cast did an excellent job of production," according to Mr. J. W. Fielder, director of the play, and from the reports it was enjoyed by many of those who attended.

"The attendance was gratifying. Congratulations to the cast, stage hands, and those who put on the make-up," says Mr. Fielder.

Juniors receiving honors include Nancy Doherty, Steve Peterson and John Rawlins, 3.83; Dave Hall, 3.66; Merrilee Jacobs with a 3.50 and Vickie Robinson and Helen Anderson, 3.33.

John Harris was the lone freshman other than Rick Marquardt to gain the honor roll with a 3.40.

Seniors head the Heppner High honor roll for the first nine weeks with 14, followed by the juniors with seven; sophomores, three; and freshmen only two. Girls outnumbered the boys, 19 to seven.

Mustangs Foresee Fine Hoop Season

By MIKE SWEENEY

With football season over, the Heppner Mustangs are looking forward to the start of basketball.

It looks like the Mustangs will have another fine year. They will be gunning for another district playoff spot. Heppner is the only Greater Oregon team that has been to the playoff each of the last three years.

The Horsemen finished the 1965-1966 basketball season with an 18-4 record.

The Mustangs have five returning lettermen. Graduation took only one starter, Gene Heliker. That may be enough to hurt the team, as Gene was named to the all-state fourth team.

Seniors that figure to play a lot of ball are Jim Doherty, Jim Jacobs, Mike Alsop, Jeff Turner, Mac Hoskins and Steve Wagenblast.

Jim Doherty, Jim Jacobs, and Mac Hoskins are two-year lettermen. All three were on the starting five last year and as sophomores. Jim Doherty had a fine season last year. He led the team's fast breaks and will be a deciding factor in the Mustang success.

Jim Jacobs will be a great help to the Mustangs. He had a slow start last year but came on strong the last couple of games, averaging around 12 points each for those games.

Center Mac Hoskins will probably be a tough man to handle under the boards. He has improved his hook shot and has always been a top rebounder.

Mike Alsop, a transfer from Sherman, should be a great help to the team. This will be his first year playing basketball with the Mustangs.

Juniors Dave Hall, Russ Kilkenny, Randy Stillman and Bill McLeod will see a lot of action. Hall will probably take over Heliker's guard position. Russ Kilkenny, who started as a sophomore, should be a starting forward if his knee heals in time.

The Mustangs are probably the toughest team in the league, but will see tough competition from Sherman and John Day. Wahtonka, who beat Heppner twice last season, lost most of their players through graduation.

Heppner's first game is December 3 against Pilot Rock at Pilot Rock. League action starts in January with Enterprise at Heppner.

Heppner's motto this year is "Coos Bay or Bust". This is the 1966-1967 season schedule:

Dec. 3 Pilot Rock at Pilot Rock
