

1966 Christmas Stamp Adapted From Portrait

Christmas letters and cards in recent years often bear two types of Christmas stamps, the current United States Post Office stamp and that of the Tuberculosis and Health Association.

This year's Christmas stamp was adapted from a Hans Memling portrait on wood of "Madonna and Child with Angels" which is part of the Mellon collections in the National Gallery of Art in Washington. The inscriptions are in red-gold and both artist and gallery are identified.

The Christmas seal for 1966 is done in rich tones of red, green, gold, and black. It was designed by Heidi Brandt, who also designed the 1966 and 1961 Christmas seals.

Mrs. Brandt has combined "flora from anywhere in America and a sweet bird of the imagination" to symbolize joy and hope in the fight against tuberculosis and other respiratory disease.

The Post Office Department has found the Christmas stamp profitable; although the cost of such stamps is more than twice as high as that of ordinary stamps a profit of almost one cent is realized on each stamp. Stamp collectors are usually eager for the specialties.

The Christmas seal is the sole money-maker of the Tuberculosis and Health Association. Proceeds of the sheets of seals support research in tuberculosis and allied lung ailments, and assist in case-finding through such means as the well-known mobile x-ray units. Health pamphlets to acquaint people with facts about lung ailments are posted in various places in the communities through another effort of local associations.

In Morrow county the mobile x-ray unit makes two visits a year. Pamphlets are placed in several public places, such as libraries and laundromats, for the public to read. Subscriptions to Today's Health are sent to doctors' offices.

Another Morrow county use of the funds is a revolving loan fund for students studying for health careers.

Springer Home Hurt By December 7 Fire

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Padberg went the past week-end to Hood River to visit his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Allan Springer and family, who had the misfortune on Wednesday, December 7, of having their house and belongings badly damaged by fire.

The Padbergs took furnishings and clothes to the family and then stayed overnight with Mrs. Nora Myers in The Dalles.

None of the Springer family was injured, but they lost most of their possessions and will be unable to live in their house. He is a brother of Bud Springer of Heppner.
