Bond Sales Up In State, Down In This County

"U. S. Savings Bonds sales in Oregon helped the nation in chalking up the highest Series E Bond sales in 20 years during 1966," Morrow County Savings Bonds Chairman John Venard reported here today.

"Oregon residents helped set a new high in national Bond holdings of more than $50 billion, 200 million," the Chairman continued. "And during 1966 we helped mark up a national sales record of $4 billion, 860 million as compared with $4 billion, 486 million for the year before. Sales of Series E Bonds set a twenty-year record."

In noting the state's contribution to the national sales record, he said that Savings Bonds sales in the state during 1966 totaled $32,816,444. Sales in this county were $99,221 in 1966. A year ago they totaled $133,197.

"Increased Savings Bonds sales will be of special significance during 1967," he continued. "While 1966 was a banner year, every effort is needed during the coming months to offset inflationary pressures stimulated by Vietnam."

Meat Import Label Ruled as Illegal

Oregon cannot require distributors of imported meat to label their product "imported."

This was ruled by the U. S. Supreme Court last week, which upheld an earlier decision of the U. S. District Court for the District of Oregon in the suit brought against the Oregon Department of Agriculture by the Ness Produce Co., a Portland area meat dealership.

The high court gave no explanation in the brief decision. Justices Hugo L. Black and John M. Harlan noted they would have preferred to hear arguments in the case.

The district court in a two to one decision had held the law passed by the 1965 Legislature was a burden on foreign commerce. The dissenting judge said the law for all intents and purposes was pursuant to the police power of the state of Oregon in protecting the consuming-purchasing public against deception.

Eighteen states besides Oregon have laws requiring labeling of foreign meats.
