out that the addition is well under construction, and it was emphasized again that some provision must be made to have applications approved before construction is started.

Mayor W. C. Rosewall, referring to the trailer on the property prior to the effective date of the zoning ordinance, said he felt that a liberal interpretation of the ordinance is necessary on structures already built when the ordinance began.

The council approved application for a building permit from Pioneer Memorial Hospital for remodeling the basement at a cost of $6000 to $7000.

Certificate Awarded

Oregon State Board of Health sent a certificate to the city with an accompanying letter that was read at the meeting commending Heppner for a "job well done" on its water system and for the purity of the water.

Personnel of the water department were praised for their good work. The city received such a certificate also last year.

Some discussion was held on the possibility of deepening the city well at the Norman Florence place, but City Supt. Vic Groshens said that he felt it is too late in the year to start now. He said, however, that he feels another 100 feet of depth in the well could add considerably to the flow, and estimated this could be done at a cost of some $1500.

Meters to be Repaired

Mayor Rosewall reported that a representative of the parking meter company, who came to check the meters when advised that many were not working properly, said that the city is not doing enough preventive maintenance to keep them in operation.

Chief of Police Dean Gilman said that it is his opinion that other problems are involved since the meters are erratic particularly when dimes are used.

The council agreed, though, to approve hiring additional repair work until the meters are in good working order.

Some discussion also centered on the penalty for violations.

Chief Gilman said that he felt the charge should be returned to $1 for violations, pointing out that the public will take a chance on getting a ticket for 25c when they will not when the penalty is $1.

Decision on the penalty change was deferred until after the meters are considered to be back in good working order.

Parallel to Start

A system of parallel parking will start on Willow Street between Gale and Chase as soon as city crews can make necessary changes in striping and in placing parking meters. The council agreed to this change in order to alleviate congestion on the street. When cars are parked diagonally on either side there is only room for one lane of traffic to proceed in many instances.

Under the change, one post will carry two parking meters and two cars will be parked bumper to bumper with spaces left often in front of the first car and behind the second car, the same as in Pendleton. This system permits easy parking, the mayor said.

Another Burner Asked

Herman Green appeared at the council to request that addition of a third burner be considered at the city dump. He suggested that the council may wish to include the cost in the 1967-68 budget. Supt. Groshens said that the installation would cost about $988.

Some criticism had been directed at the last council meeting because considerable burning has been done outside the burners with papers and refuse scattering to adjoining property.

The council acknowledged the request and Mayor Rosewall said that it will be presented to the budget committee for consideration.

The mayor appointed Dr. Ed Schaffitz and Lynn Pearson to the budget committee to fill two vacancies.

Application of Flatt's Truck for a parking sticker to permit deliveries in the city at the rate of $5 per year as provided by ordinance was approved. However, a similar application by the Wagon Wheel was not approved because the majority of the council agreed that the applicant did not come under the terms of a delivery service.

It was reported that a new billing machine for the city will be installed in the month of March.

It was also reported that the telephone company has moved the pay phone booth from in front of the Northwestern Motel to a location near the office of Carl Spaulding. This was requested by the council recently after the change had been asked by the operators of the motel.

The telephone company also reimbursed the city $75 for expense to the city in calling volunteer firemen recently when a telephone company employe inadvertently set off a general alarm while working on phone lines.

Alleys Discussed

The council voted to proceed with dedication of an alley between Willow and Center streets in the block between Main and Chase. Action towards creation of the alley was started some time ago when it was planned to build a post office in that block.

The city attorney was asked to proceed with getting deeds from property owners.

A survey towards establishment of an alley between May and Willow in the block be-

Severinsen Girls Win Top Honors In Eastern Show

Judy and Robin Severinsen, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Doc Severinsen of Warwick, N. Y., have been taking top honors with their horses as they ride in horse shows in the east.

Judy, who is 16 and a junior at Warwick High school, rode Johnny Jumpup, a 5-year-old chestnut gelding, to the junior jumper championship December 12, 1966, at the Holiday Farms Horse Show at River Vale, N. J., according to an account in the sports section of The New York Times of that date.

Her sister, Robin, 13, placed first with her double register palomino quarter horse, Fires Beauty, in western pleasure for the State of New York. The quarter horse also placed fourth as high point winner of all classes in New York State, holds second place in halter classes, is reserve champion mare of the state and holds fifth in the color class. The 3-year-old mare, purchased from Al and Freda Knight, Sperry, Okla., placed first out of 56 horses in the pleasure class at State Fair in Syracuse last summer with Robin riding, and the pair was also awarded first in horsemanship for 13 years and under.

Fires Beauty, affectionately called "Miss B" by the Severinsen family, and Robin were presented with their high point achievements for the year at the annual awards banquet at Schenectady, N. Y., February 11. In the junior jumper championship at Holiday Farms, Johnny Jumpup, considered "sometimes temperamental," was on his best behavior in capturing the championship. The New York Times articles said, Johnny Jumpup captured one class and finished third in another for seven points.

"He has been jumping only about a year," Judy was quoted as saying. "Next year, I am going to try for the national junior jumper high score award. We'll enter only the big shows that award top points toward the title."

She expressed enthusiasm with the potential of a horse she never has entered in a show than she is with Johnny Jumpup.

"His name is Trumpeter's Obsession," she said. "He's only three years old and just off the race track. He's learning to jump, and I think he will develop into a real good jumper. I will use him in hunter classes at the start of next year, though, and break him into jumping gradually."

The entire Severinsen family is well-known here. Judy and Robin are former Morrow county 4-H riders. Their mother, Mrs. Evonne Severinsen, is daughter of Mrs. Ora Evans, and Doc, who was reared in Arlington, attained recognition with his trumpet playing in eastern Oregon before becoming nationally known as a musician.

Mrs. Severinsen states that they look forward to the Gazette-Times each week.

"Ed Klein of the Warwick Advertiser surely admired your publication when I showed it to him!" she wrote.

tween Main and Gale was also discussed. Some councilmen felt that an alley should be dedicated here to provide continuing access in case property owners build or improve property.

It was reported that a number of street vacations have not been recorded in the courthouse, and the council authorized that those not now on record should be recorded.

The council also discussed setting a fee that is to accompany application for conditional uses under terms provided by the zoning ordinance. Certain costs are involved, since it is necessary to hold a public hearing and advertise for the hearing. Discussion centered in the neighborhood of $25, or $25 plus costs, but it was decided that the matter should be carried over until the council meeting in April in order that it might be determined what costs might be expected.

Hoskins, Doherty Picked All-Stars In Sub-District

Mac Hoskins and Jim Doherty of the Heppner High Mustangs have been selected for places on the 7 A-2 sub-district first all-star basketball team, according to Coach Bob Clough of the Mustangs.

Other first team choices are Gene Lanthorn of Sherman County, Mike Figg of Burns and Ted Freels of Enterprise. Heppner was the only team to gain two spots on the team.

Chosen for the second team were David Hall of Heppner, Keith Thornton of Madras, Chris Labhart of Grant and Dave Richelderfer of Sherman County.

The sub-district comprises the western division of the Greater Oregon League. In making the selection, each coach votes for five choices from opponents' teams only.

The secret ballot was so consistent, however, that only a total of nine boys were named by the seven coaches participating. Therefore, only four were on the second team. Any player who received votes gained a place on the all-star selections.

Doherty and Hoskins, both seniors, were team leaders for the Mustangs all season and were high scorers for the club. Hall, a junior, broke in as a varsity starter at the beginning of the season and developed rapidly towards the end of the season, scoring as many as 26 points in a game.

Lanthorn sparked Sherman county's Huskies to a co-championship in the division. The 6-1 Lanthorn is just a junior and will be back for the Huskies next year. Freels of the Savages is also only a junior and the 5-11 forward will be back to lead the Enterprise team again next year. Figg of the Hillanders graduates this year after a fine high school career.

Labhart, the 6-2 center for Grant Union, will be back next year for the Prospectors. Thornton of the White Buffaloes is a senior, and Richelderfer of the Huskies also concludes his high school career this season.
