

"YOU BOUGHT YOURSELF A BARGAIN," says Loren McKinley (left), director of Oregon Museum of Science and Industry, to Orville Cutsforth of the OMSI auction Saturday night. Cutsforth just purchased a hat taken from the head of Gene Pierce, co-chairman. The Stetson sold for $8. Seated in foreground is Herman Winter, who is checking to see that proceedings are on the "up and up." Pierce confided later that he wasn't chagrined at the loss of his hat because it had just been given to him by LeRoy Gardner, who, at the same time, gave other hats for the auction. (G-T Photo).

Rodeo at Spray Due on Weekend; Two Parades Set

Spray's 1967 rodeo will begin Friday night, May 19, with a Queen's ball and will continue through two busy days of the week-end Saturday and Sunday. Queen will be picked from three princesses Friday night at the ball. Candidates are Miss Nancy Stirewalt of Kimberly, representing Spray; Miss Erna Lynn Winchester of Heppner, who was queen of the 1966 Morrow County Fair and Rodeo; and Miss Loralie Lent of John Day. All three princesses are excellent horsewomen and have been working hard selling tickets on a saddle which will be raffled off during the Sunday afternoon rodeo performance.

There will be a parade both Saturday and Sunday, beginning at noon. First rodeo performance will be Saturday at 1:15 p.m. There will be six major events—bareback riding, calf roping, saddle bronc riding, bulldogging, wild cow milking, bull riding and OBBA barrel racing.

The Spray rodeo is approved by the Northwest Rodeo association and will feature last year's champions. The points these men win at Spray will be added to the rest of their points for the 1967 rodeo season. Champions will be determined in each event and for the all-around champions will receive beautiful hand-tooled saddles and silver buckles at the NRA convention in December.

A second rodeo dance will be Saturday night at the high school gym. Rodeo stock contractor is Howard Johnson of Condon who for the past four years has won awards at the NRA convention for his bull, Sad Sam; his bareback horse, Blow Snake; and his two saddle broncs, John Day and Fire Dancer. Johnson's wife, Juanita, will be rodeo secretary again.

Eric Muehleisen of Enumclaw, Wash., will be the clown and Don Culver of Fossil will be announcer.

Besides the major events, there will also be a quarter-mile kids' race, half-mile men's race, three-quarter mile relay race, and a quarter-mile ladies race each day.

This year's officers for the Spray Rodeo are Don Griffith, president; Lyle Rilling, secretary; Frank Cecil, vice president; and Joann Griffith, treasurer.

Boys' Basketball Clinic Scheduled

A basketball clinic for all boys of grades 7 through 12 will be held in Heppner High school's gym from June 2 through 7 and on June 22 and 23. Bob Clough, HHS athletic director, announces.

All boys of these grades in the area are welcome to attend, and there is no charge. The clinic will consist primarily of instruction in the fundamental skills of basketball, and Clough will act as director.

Sessions for sophomores, juniors and seniors will be from 7 until 9:30 p.m. on June 2 through 7, and sessions for seventh through ninth graders will be from 4 to 7 p.m. on June 3 through 7. All taking part in the clinic are asked to be present from 7 until 9:30 p.m. on the nights of June 22 and 23. The grade in school refers to the class the participant will be beginning with the school year in the fall.

Each boy is asked to bring his own wearing apparel and towel, Clough said.

Johnson said the car was equipped with seat belts, but he did not believe any of the occupants had them fastened.

Funeral services for Swaggart were held Monday at 2 p.m. in All Saints' Episcopal church with the Rev. Dirk Rinehart officiating. The church was filled with relatives and many friends.

Vault interment was in Heppner Masonic cemetery. Swaggart was born September 23, 1946, in Pendleton and grew up on the family ranch in the Butter Creek area. He graduated from Heppner High school in 1965 and would have completed his two-year course at Blue Mountain College in business administration this month.

At Heppner High he engaged in a number of school activities. He was on the football squad for four years and one of the standouts in his final two years. He participated in track as a junior. Paul was a member of the Future Farmer chapter all four years, was a member of the Science club as a senior and was a member of the H-club for three years.

Besides the parents, he is survived by three sisters, Mrs. Jerry (Christine) Buschke of Heppner; Mrs. Lauraine Beardley of Portland; and Mrs. Geraldine Shroll of Pendleton; and his grandfather, Bill Hinton of Heppner.

Like Swaggart, Downing would have completed his two years at BMCC this month. His body was taken to Enterprise for services there.

A report on Miss Burcham's condition Tuesday was that she was showing improvement but apparently had not fully regained consciousness. Her father is a government trapper here.

Wreckers Raze Old Case Building

a thousand and one articles in daily use in the household." Wool Brought to Trade

One photo accompanying the article shows many wagon loads of wool, their horse teams patiently standing by, waiting to be unloaded at the store.

The addition on the north of the building was built about 1910, according to the calculation of Cornett Green, who won't vouch for the date.

This attachment housed the post office, which was characterized by its high ceiling.

Alex Green, father of Cornett and Herman Green, was a partner with A. M. Phelps in the Phelps Grocery, start of which preceded the advent of the post office. Green sold to Phelps who continued the store in a part of the building, and the Farmers and Stockgrowers Bank came in on the corner.

The bank eventually moved into the hotel building—still the Heppner Hotel—at the corner of Main and Willow. Green believes this was about 1926. The bank hit the depression time and went out of business, probably around 1930.

When the bank went out of the "Fair" building, a shoe and clothing store came in on the corner. Alex Green opened a feed store in the building in about 1931.

Peterson's Jewelers, owned by J. O. Peterson, father of Randall Peterson, present general jeweler, was located in a part of the structure for some time, and the E. R. Huston Grocery was there, too.

Used for Warehouse

After passing its heyday, the building was sold to Allen Case, and with the corner portion empty, he used it for a warehouse for years.

As Green recalls, it served this purpose until Winn Crist put in a restaurant on the corner not too many years ago. The addition about 1940 was converted into a motel. Ron Reid operated a flower shop in the center portion about five or six years ago. The county welfare office occupied quarters on the south side of the structure until being forced to move with the building about to be razed.

Jerry Hollomon also had to vacate his barber shop from the building to make way for the service station development.

Sharing quarters in the building about the time Reid had his flower shop there, Carl Spaulding had his accounting office in the structure.

Some years back, Mrs. Lucille Owens and her husband, now deceased, operated a hardware store in the middle of the building.

Street Muddy

In wet weather, Green recalls, the street was often a sea of mud in front of this building. Concrete crosswalks were put in to make it easier to get across the streets, but wagons would hit them as they plied the streets, finding them as bumpy barriers to cross.

While the old building by Tuesday was reduced to a heap of old bricks and lumber, it is certain that there will be many informal monuments to its memory around town.

Many of the citizens have been carting off the brick for walks, outdoor fireplaces or other uses, and thus, the structure will still serve to make Heppner a better place to live.

Some of these may have come from the unique and ornate fireplace that old timers recall in the second floor corner apartment.

Most of the thousands of "Heppner made" bricks, however, are finding their way to a resting place to fill a gulley near the Roice Fullerton ranch home.

Teenage Road-E-O Due Sunday P.M.

Only two teen-agers turned out Sunday afternoon for try-outs in the Jaycees' Auto Road-E-O. Clyde Allstott, Jaycee president said.

The finals are to be Sunday afternoon at 1 p.m. and all 16-19 age youths are invited to come and participate in the contest of driving skill at the fairgrounds.

Winner will get a trip to the state competition, and the state winner will go to nationals. It is possible to win valuable prizes in the competition. The test consists of maneuvering, parking and handling an auto as well as a simple written test.

This is a national project of the Jaycees, and interest of young drivers is urged. Co-sponsor with the Jaycees is the Lincoln-Mercury Division of Ford Motor Co. Heppner Auto Sales is cooperating on the Road-E-O here.

Dinner, Auction Net About $1700 For OMSI Cause

"Much better than we had hoped."

This was the summation of Gene Pierce on the results of the benefit dinner and auction for the Oregon Museum of Science and Industry after the events had raised some $1700 for the cause Saturday night at the fairgrounds.

Pierce, who with Clarence Rosewall was chairman of the event, said that the Granges fed about 300 persons. A total of 110 items were on the auction list, but when they were not all sold by 11 p.m., it was decided to hold the remaining 25 items for another time. Response of the public was good, and most of the crowd at the dinner stayed through the auction. Others came to swell the size of the crowd.

Loren McKinley, OMSI director, and an associate, Bob Steiger, were on hand and took an active part in proceedings. They brought a quantity of goods, including a telescope and air conditioners to contribute to the auction. They both expressed pleasure at the results.

Pierce said that it had been hoped to raise $1000 at the event to contribute towards the construction of the Max Lehmann Memorial agricultural wing at OMSI. Thus, the approximately $1700 was considerably better than expected.

Pierce said that he dared not try to give individual credits for help at this time because so many cooperated and assisted that he might leave someone out. On behalf of himself, Rosewall and the committee, he expressed thanks to all who helped make it a success.

HOSPITAL NEWS

Patients admitted to Pioneer Memorial hospital during the past week, and still are receiving medical care, include the following: Jessie Griffin, Heppner; Gladys Beckett, Heppner; Elmer Peterson, Ione; Richard Rasmussen, Condon, and Russell Faust, Condon.

Those who were given medical care and later dismissed, were the following: Harvey Stover, Ione; Lewis Halvorsen, Ione; Louisa Fleming, Kinzua; Mary Clark, Hood River; Donald McQuinn, Fossil; Linda Burcham, Lexington, transferred to Portland; Joan Grey, Heppner, and Jean Burns, Condon, transferred to Pendleton.

Visiting recently with friends and relatives in the area were Mr. and Mrs. Ross Hudson, the former Laura Sumner. They were en route to a leisure summer trip to California, then through the southern and eastern states. Both have been students at the University of Oregon.

Early Day Resident Returns to Heppner, Recalls Memories

J. N. Flesher, a 78-year-old who lived in Heppner when he was a child, returned to the city this week to visit his granddaughter, Mrs. Jim Wishart, and family. Radiating enthusiasm and interest, he visited the museum, paper office and other spots, even making a journey up to Ditch Creek where he vividly remembers going to fish—the trip taking two days by horse and wagon at that time.

Flesher was the son of a Methodist minister, John Flesher, who came to Heppner as a widower with three small children and married a local girl, Grace Hall, before he moved on. They left before the terrible flood of 1903 which changed downtown landmarks considerably, but he was able to find many items of interest to him at the museum.

Flesher now lives in Las Cruces, N. M., and made his first plane trip to fly to Oregon for a visit. He and his daughter-in-law, Mrs. John W. Flesher, drove to Heppner to visit his granddaughter, Mrs. Wishart, and four great-grandchildren over Sunday, Monday and Tuesday.

Summer Sessions Set in 3 Towns

Special summer school session for Morrow county school children seeking extra help in mathematics, reading and physical education will be conducted in schools at Ione, A. C. Houghton of Irrigon, and Heppner Elementary, Harold Beggs, director, states.

The story in last week's paper erroneously only listed Heppner Elementary for the program. The school, operated on funds from Public Law 89-10, Title 1, will start on June 12 and will conclude July 21 with classes in each school from 8:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. on Mondays through Fridays.

Sidewalk Bazaar Meet Set Friday

A meeting for organizing the Sidewalk Bazaar and making plans for the event will be Friday night, May 19, at 8 p.m. in the old city library, Bill Hust, merchants committee chairman for the Chamber of Commerce, announces.

Representatives of all clubs and organizations as well as all businesses are urged to be present. The plan for the promotion will be presented by Hust, and areas for booths and exhibits of the different participants will be allotted.

The Sidewalk Bazaar, which has proved to be one of the promotional highlights of the year, a fun event for all, and a good money-raiser for clubs, will be held this year on Friday and Saturday, July 7 and 8, Hust states.

Methodists Schedule Special 2-Day Events

Heppner Methodist church announces a schedule of interesting activities for Sunday and Monday of this week-end. On Sunday the morning worship service, beginning at 11 a.m., will be devoted entirely to sacred music presented by the sanctuary and junior choirs, vocal trios, duets, solos, etc.

Sunday evening a family night is planned. It will begin with a potluck supper at 6:30 p.m.; participants are to bring their own table service, a hot dish and a salad or dessert.

The Rev. Jerry Schindler of Portland will speak in an informal meeting in the church parlor. Father Schindler, a Roman Catholic priest, has been very active in redemption work among Rocky Butte Jail inmates. The public is invited to both the morning and evening services.

Monday evening, the fourth quarterly conference—Methodist equivalent to the annual church meeting, will be held at 8 o'clock with the Rev. Gene Albertson, district superintendent of the Portland District, presiding. Refreshments will be served prior to the session at 7:45. All church members are invited to attend.

Who's Who in Morrow County?

"Clues Hidden in Any Ad in This Section or in Any Ad by Merchants in This Newspaper"

- This is a family fun contest. Entries welcome from every member of the family old enough to fill out his or her own. You may submit one entry per person at any OR ALL of the Sponsoring Merchants whose ads are heavily bordered this week—but only one entry per person at any one store (more than one will disqualify all entries of that person for that week).
- Anyone may enter unless a member of your family is employed by The Gazette-Times. Sponsoring Merchants and their families, and their employees and families are most welcome to enter EXCEPT during the weeks that the ad of your own store is heavily bordered in this section.
- Nothing to buy. Use any slip of paper for entry blank. DO NOT put your entry into an envelope. Not necessary to be present at the drawing to win. Not necessary to be a subscriber to The Gazette-Times to participate.
- WHO'S WHO may be anyone in Morrow County. Clues to his (or her) identity will be hidden ONLY in ads of Sponsoring Merchants (every sponsoring Merchant has a little ad in this group ad). Clues may be hidden in ANY ad of ANY name you think the WHO'S WHO sponsoring merchant ANYWHERE in the paper. Clues will be scattered—many ads will have no clues, while others may have as many as five. This is a contest of skill, and we intend to do our best to outwit you. We'll be delighted if you succeed in outguessing us, in spite of our best efforts!
- If by coincidence, the name of the WHO'S WHO (or other facts about him) happen to appear in news items, editorial matter, or other places in this newspaper, these will not count as clues.
- To enter, write down the WHO is. List all the clues you can find in all the ads of the Sponsoring Merchants in this issue. Don't forget your own name and address! Then, drop your entry at any Sponsoring Merchant whose ad is between the heavy borders in this group ad this issue. You may enter at all our if you wish! There are no other places where entries will be accepted—and mail entries will not be accepted. Any member of the family may bring in all entries for that family. Children under 12 must be accompanied by an adult.
- This week's contest starts when you receive this issue and closes at 4 p.m. Tuesday of the following week. At that time, a drawing will be held. The first entry drawn that correctly identifies the WHO'S WHO will win $500. If THAT entry also lists every clue hidden in all ads of Sponsoring Merchants, a BONUS of $25 will be added. Whenever this BONUS is not won, it will be added to next week's BONUS which will continue to grow until it is won. Winning the BONUS requires a PERFECT list of clues—the exact number, and all copied exactly as in the paper (watch those capitals, etc.).
- Every possible precaution will be taken to prevent typographical errors that might be mistaken for clues, but errorless typographical CAN NOT BE GUARANTEED (by anyone.) The Gazette-Times will be its judge in all questions, and their decision is final.
